CHANGES ALL HELP KENLON

Promoted by Special Examination Because He Held a Mariner's License—Fosdick Investigating Contracts.

With the physical examination of candidates, the first official step in the selection of a successor to ex-Chief Edward F. Croker of the Fire Department, scheduled for to-day, it became known yesterday that Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick has been doing some investigating in the Fire Department for the last four months, and that this investigation may have an important bearing on the standing of at least three candidates for Mr. Croker's former post.

Commissioner Fosdick's investigation has had to do with the building of several fireboats. Already he has revealed circumstances in connection with the award of building contracts and a subsequent inquiry into these awards by two Deputy Chiefs of department which, he considers, justify a continuance of his investigation.

It could not be learned yesterday how soon the results of Mr. Fosdick's investigation would be made public. To-day's physical examination of candidates, however, is preliminary to the mental examination, by which will be determined the next Chief of the department. This test probably will be held within sixty days.

The Deputy Chiefs who will take the examination are Thomas J. Ahearn, Thomas Lally, John J. Burns, John Binns Frederick W. Gooderson, Jr., Thomas R. Langford, William Guerin, Richard W. Callaghan, James J. McCartney, John Kenlon, James B. Martin, Patrick Maher, and William T. Beggin. Deputy Chiefs O'Hara and Murray are eligible also, but have not entered for the test. Murray became a Deputy Chief on Jan. 28, 1890; Ahearn, on March 1, 1900; Lally, on Sept. 18, 1900; Gooderson, Burns and Binns, on Aug. 14, 1903; Langford, on Dec. 31 1903; Martin, Callaghan, and Guerin, on Jan. 1, 1906; McCartney and O'Hara, on Aug. 1, 1907; Kenlon, on May 1, 1909 and Beggin and Maher on May 28, 1910. Murray, Ahearn, Lally, Gooderson, Burns, Binns, and Langford have exceeded or are in their eighth year of service as Deputy Chiefs.

It is conceded throughout the department that none of the competing chiefs will fail in this test of physical fitness for the post held so long by Chief Croker, and the determination of his successor is generally believed, therefore, to depend on the mental examination.

It is probable that no previous examination for any post in the Fire Department has caused the same dissatisfaction as is associated with the approaching test. In no previous examination for promotion have as many changes been made in the specifications as have been authorized in connection with the forthcoming test, and there are those among the competing deputy chiefs who do not hesitate to attribute ulterior motives to those responsible for these changes.

Kenlon, the Storm Centre.

Acting Chief John Kenlon, appointed a Deputy Chief on May 1, 1909, may be said to be the centre around which the storm of protests has gathered. It is charged that it is to advance his chances that the changes in former examination specifications have been made. Chief among these changes to excite the dissatisfaction of other competitors for Chief Croker's post is the order of the Municipal Civil Service Commission reducing the points accorded for seniority from sixteen to eight. Heretofore it has been customary in examinations in the Fire Department to accord two points a year for service in any rank from which promotion is sought, the maximum being reached after eight years of service.

In a recent report sent by Assistant Chief Examiner Thomas C. Murray to Chief Examiner F. G. Ireland of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, Mr. Murray reduces these seniority points to one a year, on the ground that the former award of two points a year for seniority of service would place Deputy Chiefs receiving these at an undue advantage over competitors lacking as many years of service, whereas, he maintains, a point a year, or eight points at the utmost, may reasonably be considered a handicap possible of successful competition by a candidate of exceptional ability.

The reduction of seniority points, more than any other change, is distasteful to such competitors as Deputy Chiefs Ahearn, Lally, Gooderson, Binns, Burns, and Langford, all of whom have completed or will have completed within a few months the eight years of service hitherto good for sixteen points on examination. Acting Chief Kenlon, on the other hand, has served as a Deputy Chief only since May 1, 1909, and at most, therefore, could receive only four points under the old régime.

"Administration" Marks.

Another point of exception taken by the Acting Chief's competitors is the provision made in Assistant Examiner Murray's report, increasing the points awarded for successful passage of the administration phase of the mental examination from four points to seven. It is conceded by all twelve who are to compete against Kenlon for the chieftainship that he, above all competitors, is versed in administration, having been helped to this end largely by his recent experiences as Acting Chief of the department.

It is the contention, therefore, of those who must face Kenlon as rivals in the coming examination that the increase in percentage awarded for successful passage of the subject of administration will give him an undue advantage. The decrease of seniority award and the increase for administrative ability are alike considered to assist Acting Chief Kenlon more than any other candidate for ex-Chief Croker's post.

Still another point is raised against Kenlon by his competing brethren. This is that he never actually passed an examination for Deputy Chief, and consequently is not entitled to participate in the approaching test for Chief of department. This attack on Kenlon's eligibility is based on the fact that he was the only candidate at the examination which resulted in his promotion from Battalion Chief to Deputy Chief.

Ex-Chief Croker is accepted throughout the department as the champion of Kenlon, and it is charged that he and Commissioner Nicholas Hayes, then in office, brought about his promotion.

Kenlon's Last Promotion.

Kenlon, prior to his entrance into the Fire Department, was a mariner, and held a master's license. He rose to be Battalion Chief, but his prospects of going higher seemed slight until the way was opened by the creation of the Marine Branch of the Fire Department, for WALDO'S FIST BROKE A MOB.

Police Commissioner Waldo, First Deputy McKay and Inspector George Titus, joined in rescuing from a belligerent crowd a policeman with a prisoner at Monroe and Clinton Streets last night. The Commissioner struck out with his fists, backed by the Deputy and Inspector, and aided later on by detectives and reserves from the Madison Street Station.

Morris Goodman, a driver, of 135 Monroe Street, had rushed breathlessly into the station, where the Police Commissioner and his party were sitting at the desk with Lieut. Barrett and burst out saying that a man that he didn't know had shot him three times. With the Commissioner in the lead the policeman ran to the spot designated, a couple of blocks away. The streets were filled, as the Italians of that section were celebrating some national day.

Several hundred surrounded and resisted Patrolman Cordonell, who was trying to make a path for himself while dragging a prisoner with one hand and wielding his nightstick in the other. The Commissioner was the point of a flying wedge that broke into the crowd, spreading some aside and punching others. Within a few minutes the crowd had been put to flight and Cordonell marched his prisoner to the station.

The prisoner said he was Louis Zicus, seventeen years old, a painter, of 300 Cherry Street. He said that Goodman had attempted to stab him. Cordonell said he saw Zicus fire three shots at Goodman. Zicus was locked up on Goodman's complaint.

FEAR SLOOP PARTY IS LOST.

The Vayu, with Five Aboard, Missing Since Saturday's Storm.

Fears are entertained for five residents of Essex County, N. J., who left Bergen Point in the sloop Vayu on Saturday night. None of them has been heard from since. The party was headed for Atlantic Highlands, and their friends and relatives fear they were caught in the storm and swept out to sea.

The party consisted of Lemuel C. Smith, an artist; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Smith of 35 Brookside Avenue, Irvington; George Schutz of Walker Road, West Orange, and Mrs. Louise M. Millard of 99 Emmet Street, Newark, an aunt of Lemuel C. Smith, owner of the sloop.

According to friends of young Smith, who is an experienced sailor, the party was scheduled to leave the Bayonne Yacht Club after 6 o'clock Saturday evening. They are believed to have been somewhere in the vicinity of Sandy Hook about the time the storm broke at 10 o'clock.

Communication with the New York harbor police has failed to disclose any possible accident to the sloop. Along the coast in the vicinity of the Atlantic Highlands no wreckage has been reported.

Smith is twenty-four years old and has had an adventurous career. He was a student of art and several years ago he took up the study of marine color, and in order to get atmosphere into his work he shipped before the mast on a coasting vessel, and later went to China. After his return from the Orient he became interested in ballooning and made several ascents in the vicinity of Newark.

OFF A TRAIN TO SAVE LIFE.

Fireman Leaps While It Is Going and Rescues Drowning Boy.

TRENTON, N. J., June 13.—Willard Allen, a fireman on a Pennsylvania Railroad train coming into Trenton to-night, straightened his back to ease it from the strain of tossing coal, his feet spread wide to brace himself against the swaying of the locomotive, glanced down into the Delawartan and Raritan Canal, alongside which the tracks run. Almost beneath him he saw a boy struggling in the water.

Allen acted on impulse. Without a word to his engineer, he dived from the rocking platform of the locomotive, striking the water in an awkward posture due to the influence of the swiftly moving train. He rose to the surface of the water quickly, however, and struck out for the boy.

On the train his absence had not been noted. The engineer did not see him leap, and the train was miles past Trenton before the driver observed that his fireman was not across the cab. He believed, of course, that Allen had fallen from the train, and at the nearest station telegraphed back here to say that his fireman had been lost and probably killed. It was then he learned, for the first time, of Allen's heroism.

In the water the fireman had had no trouble in reaching the boy, Charles Johnson of this place. Twisting himself on his back, the railroad man then grabbed the boy beneath the arms and kicked his way to shore. There a policeman helped the couple from the canal.

Neither man nor boy was much worse for the wetting, and both were brought into this city, where the Johnson boy went home and Allen was cared for by friends. Young Johnson said he had been playing with his dog on the bank of the canal, throwing sticks into the stream for the animal to dive after, when he slipped into the water himself.

THIRD RAIL KILLS A WOMAN.

She Had 13 Crabs, 13 Clams, and $13.13 in Her Pocket—Not Yet Identified.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 13.—A woman at present unidentified was killed on the third rail line about three miles from this city late this afternoon. Her body, terribly burned, was found beside the track by a crew sent to the scene after the accident had been reported by a party of motorists, who had seen the woman killed.

The motorists, who were on their way here from Philadelphia, said they saw the woman walking along the tracks. Suddenly there was a bright flash and a burst of flames. When these died down they saw the body lying beside the tracks only a short distance from the boulevard over which they were riding.

The two women in the automobile fainted and were hurried back to Pleasantville and placed in charge of a doctor.

The dead woman had been crabbing. She had thirteen small crabs in a basket and thirteen clams, which she had evidently picked up. In her pocket book was $13.13. She was also killed on the thirteenth of the month.

The body was removed to this city by order of Coroner Sontheimer and placed in the Morgue, where it is awaiting identification.

BAYONNE VOTES 'NO' ON COMMISSION RULE

66 PER CENT. OF VOTE CAST

So 30 Per Cent. Rule Wasn't Called in Question—Machines and Rain Blamed for Defeat.

The attempt to end the present form of government of Bayonne, N. J., and substitute therefor government by commission, under the act passed by the last Legislature at the behest of Gov. Wilson, failed after a spirited election yesterday by just 2 votes. There were 2,234 votes cast in favor of the plan to 2,236 against it. In the Fourth District of the First Ward the Election Board threw out two ballots because they were marked wrongly. No one knew if these two votes were for or against the reform method of government.

The Hudson County Board of Elections will hold an official count in about two weeks, and if the two rejected ballots are counted for the commission plan yesterday's election will have resulted in a tie. In this event another election will probably be held. Fully 66 per cent. of the vote for Governor last year was cast, so the provision of the new law that in order to make the election effective 30 per cent. of the voters must record themselves at the polls, was not called in question.

The activity of the two established political machines and the rain are held responsible for the defeat of the plan. It rained hard all day, and many independent Democrats and Republicans remained indoors, while never have the political machines been so active in a municipal contest in Bayonne. The bosses of both parties felt than if the new plan was established it meant practically their political annihilation, and they fought as they never did before. All manner of ruses were adopted to befuddle the voters.

Friends of the new government plan were elated at the good showing, for yesterday's attempt was the first to be made in New Jersey. At least twenty-four other cities are to vote on the same proposal, and it was predicted that the plan would be more successful elsewhere.

One cause which contributed to the large vote in favor of the plan was the speech made by Gov. Wilson at Bayonne last Wednesday, in which he attacked both machines, and said that the present system of government in small cities was the result of the Devil sitting up all night to concoct schemes for the defeat of the people.

Matthew T. Cronin, Democratic leader of Bayonne, made the most vigorous campaign against the reform. In a statement in the local newspapers he called the plan un-democratic and un-American, and declared that it put the power of government in the hands o fa select few and took it away from the common people. He had dozens of workers busy all day getting out the organization vote and doing duty at the polls. Cronin and the Governor have been friendly, the Governor even appointing Cronin's friend, Peter Stilwell, a District Court Judge. Cronin's fight against the Governor's measure will result, it was predicted, in a break.

The voting progressed steadily all day despite the rain, but the excitement didn't really begin until about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. As the trains brought home the commuters they were met by automobiles furnished by both the machines and the Good Government Association. Several hundred women also took a prominent part in the election. They went from house to house and tried to persuade the voters to stand by Gov. Wilson.

Late in the afternoon employes of the Standard Oil and other plants in the city began trooping to the polls, and in many districts the polling places had to be kept open twenty minutes beyond the regular closing time in order to accommodate the long lines of voters.

There was a lot of excitement when about 6 o'clock circulars were issued from one of the organization camps calling upon the citizens of Bayonne to vote down the new movement. These circulars said that the Standard Oil officials had instructed their employes to vote for the commission form of government, and this was denounced as being unfair to the workmen.

As Bayonne will not hold another municipal election for two years, the friends of the new movement will now turn their attention to trying to have other cities and towns vote for it. Trenton will be the next city to take a special vote on making the change on June 20, while Hoboken will follow on June 27. Other cities to follow will be Paterson, Passaic, New Brunswick, East Orange, Morristown, Jersey City, Elizabeth, and Plainfield.

WILSON URGES TRENTON FOLK

To Vote for Commission Rule and End Boss Rule.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 13.—Gov. Wilson, speaking to-night at a commission rule mass meeting, told the people of Trenton that he had found this scheme of government working successfully in many other cities. He implored them to cast their votes in favor of commission rule at the special election which is to be held next Tuesday, and urged upon them the necessity of selecting the right kind of Commissioners as well as of keeping careful watch over them and their work in the future.

The Governor said that until recent years all the best governed cities of the world were outside of the United States, but now he saw a world of promise in the rule of cities by commissions. He declared that in the past the people had made their political machines so complicated that they could not run them, and that professional politicians could play hide-and-seek with the voter year after year. Under commission rule, he said, there could be no trading and no deal by the bosses, whereas under the present system it was almost necessary to resort to intrigue in order to get action of any kind.

The Governor asked why it was that the opponents of commission rule were indulging in "gumshoe politics," as he designated the whisperings and insinuations that were heard from the opposition camp. He branded such tactics as cowardly, and said that cowardice was the lowest thing in human life. In conclusion he put himself on record as being strongly in favor of home rule for municipalities instead of rule from the State house. He said that last Winter Jersey City had sought legislation to enable the repair of streets, but he had refused to sign the bill, hoping that the people of the municipality might finally be brought to realize the hopelessness of conditions under their present form of government.

In the progress of his speech some one in the audience yelled. "Hey Governor, how about yer salary?"

"I did not get that," said the Governor with a smile. Another of his auditors wanted to know how official news could be had under commission rule. The Governor told him to take an honest newspaper or attend the commission meetings, all of which would be open to the public.

AIRMAN FREY FALLS ON WAY TO TURIN

INSISTED ON THE ATTEMPT

Started from Rome, Though Other Contestants in Big Race Had Abandoned Last Stage as Impossible.

VITERBO, June 13.—The German aviator Frey, who started from Rome at an early hour this morning on the last stage of the Paris-to-Turin air race, met with disaster in the mountainous territory lying between Viterbo and the capital. The other contestants in the great race who got as far as Rome had given up, but Frey could not be persuaded against making the attempt to reach Turin, although warned that almost insurmountable difficulties lay in his way.

Only a few miles out of Rome he encountered a heavy fog and lost his course. Soon he drove into a terrific storm of rain and hail. He tried to rise above the clouds, but his machine refused to respond. Suddenly it swooped downward and the aviator lost all control. The machine fell into a ravine and was wrecked.

That Frey was not killed was due to the heavy helmet protecting his head and the marshy condition of the ground into which he plunged. Both his arms and one leg were broken, while he was badly cut about the face. When a Red Cross searching party from the San Martino Station on Monte Cimone found him he had lost much blood and was in an almost unconscious condition, buried under the débris of the aeroplane. The aviator was taken on a stretcher to the hospital at Ronoiglione. He was suffering greatly, but was able to tell of having been lost in the fog, although he could give no reason for the fall.

Word was received here this morning that Frey had started on his venturesome flight, and, later in the day, when anxiety was felt on account of his disappearance, several expeditions started out to search for him. Motor cars, bicycles, and vehicles of various kinds were brought into service, and the searchers included soldiers, monks, firemen, and most of the newspaper writers who are in attendance at the Camorra trial. A large band of Passionist Monks from the monastery on Monte Fogliano, who are acquainted with every foot of the mountainous country, spread over the dangerous territory and searched for hours, but it was the Red Cross searchers who first caught sight of the injured man.

Frey's wife is now in Florence, where she hoped to be present at the landing of her husband. It is expected that she will come here to-morrow.

MUELLER FALLS 125 FEET.

Contestant in German Circuit Race Is Badly Injured.

MAGDEBURG, June 13.—The first serious accident in connection with the National Aviation Circuit race occurred here to-day when Karl Mueller, in attempting a landing, fell with his biplane from a height of about 125 feet. The aviator suffered a concussion of the brain, but at the hospital to which he was removed it is thought that he will recover.

Lindpainter, Koenig, Buechner, Laitsch, and Wittenstein, all of whom covered the first stage from Berlin to this city within the prescribed time, continued this morning on the second leg to Schwerin. The distance from Magdeburg to Schwerin is 113 miles. They were accompanied by Eugene Wienczlers, who, however, had not been able to complete the first scheduled flight.

SCHWERIN, June 13.—Aviators Lindpainter, Koenig, and Wienczlers arrived here early to-day, Lindpainter in the lead. They made good time from Magdeburg.

The other aviators who started from Magdeburg this morning landed en route and waited until evening to come into the city. Wittenstein and Buechner arrived at about 6 P. M. Laitsch lost his bearings and drifted to Brunswick. He ascended again, but was compelled to land in a village on the way to Schwerin, and is spending the night there.

SPIES IN HOME, DAVIS SAYS.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 13.—Robert B. Davis of 330 Riverside Drive, New York, and Summit, N. J., took the stand to-day in his suit for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Jessie W. Davis.

Mrs. Davis, appearing at least thirty years younger than her husband, was in the court room. She has a daughter, Lucretia, aged 26. Mrs. Davis's head wagged in indignant denial at several of her husband's statements. Davis told Judge Munroe that three years ago his wife became tired of him, and that when he was taken sick she "usurped" his business in Hoboken and surrounded him with spies that made of his home a prison. He said Mrs. Davis told officers of the baking powder plant that her husband was mentally deficient.

One of his wife's methods of keeping him safe, testified Davis, was to intercept his mail, and he finally managed to break through the cordon of nurses and private detectives by dropping a letter out of the fourth story of his home. This note was addressed to a friend, who aided him by putting an auto at his service, and the old man says he escaped while the servants were taking the dinner dishes out of his room.

A letter from Mrs. Davis to her husband was introduced in evidence.

Mrs. Davis addressed him as "Bob," and complained that in his will he had cut his daughter's allowance from $20,000 to $9,600. "Unless you change this," the letter said, "I shall be compelled to allow Lucretia to go on the stage, and you will be responsible if she falls into the many pitfalls of that career and becomes a low woman. It costs $40,000 a year to run the New York house. You must let us have more money after you are gone."

There is some question of the jurisdiction of the court, as the attorneys are not yet sure whether Davis has acquired a residence here.

ASSEMBLY CAUCUS FOR INCOME TAX ACT

CHAIRMAN LEVY SWITCHES

Opposed Tax Measure Till the Meeting—His Bill Amending Election Law Is Also Favored.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 13.—The Federal income tax resolution and two bills favored by Gov. Dix were made party measures at the caucus of Democratic Assemblymen held here to-day. The two bills were the Murtaugh State Highway Commission bill which has been denounced throughout the State as a patronage grab with executive sanction, and the Levy bill amending the election law generally which if enacted would make an anti-Tammany fusion movement in New York City well-nigh impossible.

The Governor's Conservation bill and the Direct Primaries bills were not taken up for consideration. According to Majority Leader Smith of the Assembly this was due to the fact that neither a conservation bill nor a direct primaries bill, which will receive serious consideration by the "organization," has yet been framed. The Conservation bill, it is understood, will appear in its final form to-morrow or the next day.

The Levy election measure, before it was accepted by the caucus, had been amended so as to do away with the voting machines throughout the State. These instruments are in use in every large city in the State with the exception of New York and Albany. It is estimated that if the Levy bill becomes a law with this amendment in it it will result in the relegation to the scrap heap of voting machines which have cost at least $3,000,000. The machines, it was learned here to-night, have been doomed by Tammany's decree. For some reason Tammany Leader Murphy has come to look upon them as a nuisance.

There were several bolters at the caucus, but the objections were divided between the different bills taken up. Speaker Frisbie, after the gathering had come to a close, declared positively that the action of the bolters would not alter the result and that all the three measures considered at the caucus would be passed by a majority ranging from one to four. The Speaker calculates that the "organization" will be able to control from 76 to 80 votes, but this presumes a full attendance, and with the lawmakers weary from the long-drawn-out session the possibilities of absentees on a somewhat large scale is causing the leaders a good deal of worry just now.

The caucus lasted for more than three hours. The income tax resolution became a party measure on the motion of A. J. Levy, Chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, who up to the present time has been loud in declaring that under no circumstances would be ever vote for the indorsement of the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution in its present form.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, who now represents one of the Dutchess districts in the Assembly, spoke against approving the resolution passed by Congress, and voted against the Levy motion, but after this had been carried by a majority he declared that he would vote with his party on the floor of the Assembly. Assemblyman Edmund R. Terry of Kings, who was one of the leaders in the insurgent movement during the Senatorial contest, was the only bolter on this measure.

William Allaire Shortt of Richmond, Richard A. Brace of Montgomery, both former insurgents, and Clarence W. Donovan of Kings, regular, voted against making the Levy Election bill a party measure. Mr. Donovan finally decided that he would stay "regular." His objection was directed against the provision in the Levy bill which would make it unlawful for the name of any candidate for office to appear in more than one column on the official ballot.

This would have the effect of making fusion movements less effective, and fusion has always been the great peril to Tammany Hall in New York. Mr. Shortt based his objection on the same provision. Mr. Brace objected to the doing away with the voting machine. Mr. Shortt and Mr. Brace bolted the caucus when the vote on this bill was taken.

According to the leaders there was no objection whatever to the State Highway bill. Assemblymen John K. Evans of Sullivan, Otis S. Beach of Tioga, and Clayton S. Wheeler of Delaware, all former insurgents, did not stay long enough to vote, but it is understood that they would vote with the majority on the floor of the Assembly on all the "reforms" considered at the caucus.

It was said last night that the resolution indorsing the proposed Federal income tax amendment to the United States Constitution and the Murtaugh bill abolishing the present State Highway Commission whose work has been highly indorsed throughout the State and substituting a commission that may be controlled by Tammany Hall might come up for a final vote in the Assembly this week. Both these measures have already been passed in the Senate and there is little doubt about their passage in the lower house. There will probably be some delay in the passage of the Levy amendments to the election law.

The Levy bill is one of the most sweeping measures of its kind that ever have come before a Legislature. It extends to the rural districts the provisions for personal registration and the signature law now applied only in New York City. These provisions were opposed by a number of the up-State Democrats at the caucus on the ground that they were unnecessary in the rural districts where voters were generally known personally to the election officials, and identification therefore was not necessary, and on the ground that the provisions of the signature law and the requirement for personal registration in districts where distances from home to registration and polling places were great would tend to keep many voters away from the polls.

After the caucus it was said that the final adjournment might be looked for the last week in June or the first week in July, with either a deferred or an extra session in the Fall to consider taking up the Congressional reapportionment which is now pending in Congress, where the initiative in the distribution of Congress districts is taken after each United States census.

ANTI-SEMITES BEATEN.

Nearly All Their Reichsrath Candidates Lose—Rioting in Vienna.

VIENNA, June 13.—General elections for the Reichsrath were held to-day. There are 516 seats, for which 2,987 candidates contested, the extraordinary number of candidates being due to the bewildering variety of parties arising out of racial differences and bitter internal party dissensions.

Interest, however, centred in Vienna, where the Christian Socialists, or anti-Semites, heretofore the predominant party, are on the defensive. They have recently become discredited by accusing each other of dishonorable conduct.

The results of 200 pollings are known to-night, of which 94 will require reballots.

The returns show that the Christian Socialists have been ignominiously beaten, nearly all their candidates losing. Those who were elected will have to face reballots, in which they probably will be defeated.

FIREWORKS ON ELEVATED.

Short Circuit Starts Brilliant Flashes and Blocks the Line.

A short circuit which halted a Third Avenue elevated train between the 161st and 165th Street stations shortly after 6 o'clock last night tied up the line in the Bronx for nearly half an hour. There were vivid blue flames and clouds of smoke when the short circuit occurred, and the passengers on the train were thrown into great excitement. Guards kept them from leaving the train, however, and nobody was hurt.

From other trains stalled behind the wrecked one passengers alighted and walked along the elevated structure to near-by stations. It was the rush hour, and all the trains were full, so that for half an hour there was a steady procession walking along the tracks.

What caused the short circuit is not known.

THE SEABIRD SIGHTED.

Yawl on Voyage to Rome Spoken Off No Man's Land.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 13.—The first word from the little 25-foot yawl Seabird, bound with a crew of three on a cruise from Providence, R. I., to Rome, since she left Oak Bluffs on Sunday morning, on the first leg of her run to the Azores, has been received. At 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon she was spoken about thirty-five miles southeast of No Man's Land, which lies southwest of Martha's Vineyard Island, by the sloop Barbara, which brought the tidings here.

The Seabird will touch at no port, unless misfortune befalls her, until she drops into the harbor of Fayal, on the Azorean Island of that name, to replenish oil and supplies.

Her crew comprises Thomas Fleming Day of New York, and Theodore R. Godwin and Fred B. Thurber of Providence.

Income of $5,000 Left to Help "the Cause" Until It Wins.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., June 13.—By the will of Rebecca, wife of Leir Battinger, of Moorestown, admitted to probate today, the will directs that $5,000 of her "estate shall be held in trust and the income shall be paid annually to the Woman's National Suffrage Association until such time as women shall be given the right to vote in all the States." The principal of the fund is then to be paid to a niece.

The testatrix also directs that her body shall be cremated and the ashes scattered over her rose garden at Moorestown.

PLANS TO INVADE PORTUGAL.

Royalist Leader Said to be Preparing to Cross the Frontier.

LISBON, June 13.—Capt. Couciere, the royalist leader, is reported to be again preparing to cross the Portuguese frontier.

Col. Barreto, the Minister of War, today ordered the Fifth and Sixth Regiments to Cazadores, the Fifteenth Regiment, with Maxim guns, to Braga, and the Eighth Cavalry and the Fourteenth Infantry to Villa Real.

The northern and southern frontiers are lined with troops at strategic points. Gunboats are moving in the rivers. All leaves from the Fifth, Second, Third, and Fourth Divisions of the army have been recalled.

Minister Barreto declares that if the royalists enter the country they will be annihilated.

LORIMER INQUIRY JUNE 22.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON June 13.—The Lorimer Committee, at a meeting this morning, granted a request from Senator Lorimer that the investigation be postponed until next Thursday, June 2, to allow Mr. Lorimer's counsel, Judge Hanecy, to reach Washington.

Ex-Senator Aldrich has announced from Providence that he will appear before the committee. Subpoenas have been served on Chicago witnesses, including Edward Tilden, President of the National Packing Company; Edward Hines and his brother-in-law, C. F. Wiehe; Clarence S. Funk, General Manager of the International Harvester Company; Edgar A. Bancroft, general counsel of this company; State Senator John Broderick, and Robert E. Wilson, State Representative; George W. Hinman, publisher of The Inter-Ocean, and H. H. Kohlsaat of The Record-Herald.

THE MAINE'S MAST SHIPPED.

May Come to Governors Island—Pumping to be Resumed To-day.

HAVANA, June 13.—The steel foremast of the Maine, which weighs about ten tons, was shipped aboard the Ward Line steamer Bayamo to-day. The mast will probably be taken to Governors Island, New York.

The work on the wreck was considerably hampered yesterday and to-day by heavy rains, but to-morrow morning all will be in readiness to resume pumping operations. These probably will continue until the removal of an additional ten feet of water, when interesting developments may be expected, the present water level merely revealing such portions of the ship as were visible on the morning after the explosion.

The Cuban authorities have made preparations to receive all bodies as fast as they are recovered. They will be taken to Cabana Fortress, where they will be placed in coffins and remain under military guard until the exploration of the wreck has been completed. The bodies will then be removed to the collier Leonidas for transfer North.

$30,000,000 IN BAKERY TRUST.

Assertion Made That Soliciter General Lehmann Said Merger Is Legal.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 13.—Frederick W. Lehmann, Solicitor General of the United States, gave an unqualified indorsement to the proposed merger of bakeries in thirty cities, according to George N. Meissner, manager of the McKinney Bread Company, who is slated for the Board of Directors.

"We had a meeting in New York three months ago," said Mr. Meissner. "Mr. Lehmann dropped in on us, said he had heard we were about to merge and asked the details. We explained we intended to take over but one bakery in each city. Our purpose was to economize on laboratory work, machine experts, advertising, and salesmen. We explained each company would surrender its stock to a holding company.

"Mr. Lehmann said such a merger would be good and would not transgress the anti-trust law. If the corporation was to be as we had represented, he said, it would be all right. We explained to him that bread making is now a science, and there is much detail connected with it. We also explained that each company would retain its own officers and Directors.

"We shall need $30,000,000. It is our intention to take in only the largest concerns in the biggest cities."

SUBWAY PLAN GIVES THE CITY A MASTER HAND

What Either Company Refuses Goes to Other—If Both Refuse, City to Build.

$257,400,000 IS INVOLVED

PROMPT ACTION INTENDED

BROADWAY FOR THE B. R. T.

Three New East River Tunnels—High Price for Elevated Third Tracks—Four-Track Line to Richmond.

The McAneny committee of the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission made public yesterday their long looked for report on the subway offers now before the City of New York. The report was submitted to a special meeting of the Board of Estimate held at noon and under a resolution of that board will come up before a special meeting a week from to-day for adoption. The subsequent developments will depend, first, upon the attitude of the rival bidders, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and, second, upon the action taken by the Board of Estimate upon controversial issues raised by the McAneny report.

The report itself embodies the compromise plan of subway and elevated construction, but goes further in the combination of routes suggested and puts up to each company more or less important modifications of the terms developed in the negotiations of the last six months. Therein lies the uncertainty of the situation. Although neither company would talk for publication yesterday, it became known in the course of the day that neither was entirely satisfied with the routes and conditions assigned to it. There was continued talk in Wall Street that the Interborough would balk over the rejection of its ultimatum that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit must not be admitted to Broadway, Manhattan, and reports were heard that the five-cent Coney Island fare imposed upon the Brooklyn Rapid Transit would prove unacceptable to that company.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

Two-track subway, city construction, from the neighborhood of Atlantic and Flatbush Avenues, Brooklyn, under the East River to the Battery, up Church and Vesey Streets to Broadway, four or six tracks up Broadway to Ninth Street and four tracks from Ninth Street northward under Broadway and Seventh Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street; a two-track line to and over the Queensboro Bridge.

The Centre Street subway, connecting the Williamsburg, Manhattan, and Brooklyn bridges, already constructed by the city, with a city built extension down Nassau and Broad Streets to connect with the Battery tunnel, and a like extension from the Williamsburg Bridge via Delancey Street and Spring Street to connect with the trunk line on Broadway; a future two-track line, constructed by the city "when needed," from the Manhattan terminus of the Manhattan Bridge to Broadway through Canal Street.

The Fourth Avenue subway, now in process of construction by the city, over the Manhattan Bridge and out Flatbush and Fourth Avenues to Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, with extensions to Fort Hamilton and Coney Island either by the elevation of the B. R. T.'s South Brooklyn lines, with the company's money, or as original extensions of the Fourth Avenue subway built with the city's money.

An elevated extension constructed by the company from the Queensboro Bridge to a connection with the existing lines of the B. R. T. in Williamsburg; a subway connection built by the company from the city's Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, subway to the Prospect Park Station of the Brighton Beach line of the B. R. T.

A two-track subway built by the city from Union Square under Fourteenth Street and the East River to Williamsburg, and thence to a point to be agreed upon later.

The Staten Island tunnel, when built by the city, to be operated by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit in connection with the extensions of the Fourth Avenue Subway; this tunnel to be possibly constructed for freight and passenger traffic by funds contributed jointly by the city and railroads which might ship freight up from Perth Amboy through Staten Island and under the Narrows to a connection either with the freight distribution lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit or the Long Island-Pennsylvania Connecting Railroad.

Interborough Rapid Transit Co.

A four-track subway constructed by the city and Interborough money under Lexington Avenue from Thirty-fifth Street to the Harlem River, with an extension (connecting also with the West Farms branch of the existing Subway) by way of Mott Avenue, River Avenue, and Jerome Avenue as an elevated three-track line to Woodlawn Cemetery.

A three-track subway line from a junction with Lexington Avenue line at 138th Street, under 138th Street and Southern Boulevard to Westchester Avenue and thence as a three-track elevated line through Westchester Avenue to Pelham Bay Park.

A subway line, "as far as possible a four-track road," from Times Square southerly under Seventh Avenue as extended, Varick Street, West Broadway, and Greenwich Street to the Battery, with a two-track tunnel by way of Whitehall Street to the Borough Hall in Brooklyn.

A two-track subway line, jointly constructed, under Forty-second Street from Times Square to a point of conjunction with the Steinway tunnel at Grand Central, and extensions by a two-track subway from the Long Island City end of the Steinway tunnel to the Queensboro Bridge Plaza, and thence two-track elevated lines to Corona via Woodside and to Astoria; these lines to be possible of connection with the Second Avenue elevated line in Manhattan.

A four-track extension from the terminus of the present line at Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, under Flatbush Avenue and the Eastern Parkway to Buffalo Avenue, with a two-track subway extension under Nostrand Avenue to Flatbush Avenue in Flatbush and a three-track elevated extension by way of Buffalo and Livonia Avenues through Brownsville to New Lots Road.

Proposed Combinations.

The report proposes to group the above lines into several combinations, one of these including the new construction for the B. R. T. in Manhattan, exclusive of the Centre Street subway, with its extensions; another including the Centre Street line, with its extensions; another the Fourth Avenue system, with its extensions, and still a fourth, the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District subway.

In the case of the Interborough, three separate contracts are proposed, one including the lines which complete the H in Manhattan, and the new extensions to Brooklyn; the second including the Forty-second Street-Times Square subway, and the connections to Queens, and the third including the extensions at the extreme ends of the present subway system.

The leases are proposed on condition that both companies shall operate all the lines as part of a general system, for a 5-cent fare, including all transfers, and that both companies shall bear the cost of equipment, the Interborough, however, also sharing construction cost with the city, half and half. The franchises are all to be of the ten-year, indeterminate variety, and the operating basis for the extensions, subject, in the case of the B. R. T. plan, to the proposal to pool all the earnings, involves the segregation of the receipts of the extensions from those of previous lines, and the determination of expenses on the average cost per passenger, rather than on a car mileage basis.

The report provides that if the Interborough fails to accept the conditions laid down for the completion of its H, then the comprehensive proposal of the B. R. T., involving the operation of the entire tri-borough subway into the Bronx, shall be accepted. If the Interborough fails to accept the separate lease for the Queens lines to Astoria and Corona they are to be offered to the B. R. T., and similarly the B. R. T. becomes the residuary legatee of the Eastern Parkway line with the Nostrand and Livonia Avenue branches.

On the other hand, if the Brooklyn Rapid Transit refuses to accept the Union Square-Eastern District line, such line, with the original Lafayette Avenue branch of the triborough subway, is to be offered to the Interborough. If, however, the Interborough and Brooklyn Rapid Transit should both fail to accept the terms proposed, then, the report declares, the city must proceed with the construction of the original triborough route and the advertisement of the contracts for equipment and operation.

$257,400,000 To Be Expended.

On the financial side the report estimates that the city will invest $58,400,000 in the construction of lines offered to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit for operation, in addition to $27,800,000 already contracted for or spent on the Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, Subway and the Centre Street Bridge loop. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit's contribution is $26,400,000 for construction and $24,000,000 for equipment, a total of $50,400,000.

On the lines to be jointly constructed with the Interborough, the city proposes an outlay, including an allowance of $3,000,000 for finishing the Steinway tunnel, of $109,600,000. This is to be shared, half and half, by the city and the company and in addition the Interborough is to spend $21,000,000 for equipment, making an aggregate expenditure for that company of $75,800,000 and an aggregate expenditure by the city of $123,200,000 or $131,200,000, if $8,000,000 additional allowance for the city's share of the real estate to be acquired be added in. The previous figure of $123,000,000 included an allowance of $10,000,000 for the proposed South Brooklyn lines. In summary, then, the financial aspect resolves into these figures:

Total Outlay.

	Construction.	Equipment.	Total.
By the city	$131,200,000	......	$131,200,000
By the Interborough	54,800,000	$21,000,000	75,800,000
By the B. R. T.	26,400,000	24,000,000	50,400,000
Total			$257,400,000

As against this proposed outlay by the city the committee estimates that there will be available for all purposes in the next five years the following margins of credit:

Margin on June 30, 1911, general	$15,000,000
Special credit for transit purposes on June 30, 1911, reserved under the recent constitutional amendment exempting self-supporting investments	60,000,000
Ten per cent. of the additional assessed valuation of the city, becoming effective July 1, 1911	80,000,000
Ten per cent. of the estimated increase of assessed valuation during the four years following	120,000,000
Proportion of the current city debt paid annually through taxation	50,000,000
Total	$325,000,000

On the traffic side, as backing its estimates of expense, the committee figures that in the next decade there will be an increase of population of from 38 7-10 per cent. to 45 per cent. and an increase of traffic of not less than 70 per cent., which by 1920 would create 1,000,000,000 additional 5 per cent. fares every year. Thus an increase of $50,000,000 in gross receipts is figured out, indicating an ability of the traffic ten years hence to carry an investment of $300,000,000 over and above the present investment in transit lines.

Third Tracks for 50 Per Cent. Return

The report proposes that the elevated extensions of the Manhattan Elevated Company, other than the Jerome Avenue extension, and the third tracking of that company shall be allowed, but it puts up one of the highest hurdles to the Interborough of all those contained in the findings of the committee. The elevated third tracks and extensions have been considered the richest prize in the whole transit situation, and the company's pending offer proposes that the city should receive as compensation 2 per cent. of the increased gross receipts at the express stations on the third tracked elevated lines, estimated to produce from $75,000 to $100,000 a year.

The report proposes that in place of this the city shall receive each year 50 per cent. of the increased net profits of the elevated system over and above the profits shown by an average of the two years ending June 30, 1911. The estimates of the increased profits on the elevated lines due to the extensions and the third tracking have ranged all the way from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a year, and on this basis the city would receive as compensation for this privilege from $500,000 to $750,000 a year.

As a matter of operation three important proposals are emphasized in the report, one with respect to the Brooklyn company and two with respect to the Interborough. In general the terms of the Brooklyn company are found to be satisfactory, including the pooling of receipts from the entire system as enlarged and the adoption of the per passenger basis for estimating the receipts and expenses on future extensions, not included as original lines in the system. However, the city takes exception to the company's proposal as to the rate of return which it shall be allowed on its existing elevated lines, proposed to be bound into the system.

The company stipulated originally a basis of return unacceptable to the city and finally modified this so as to be willing to take a guarantee which should not be less than the net earnings of the Brooklyn Union Elevated system in the year ended June 30, 1911, or more than the sum of $3,500,000. The conferrees substitute for this an allowance equivalent to the net earnings of the present year.

Insists on Five-Cent Coney Fare.

The other hurdle erected for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit relates to the Coney Island fare, as to which the report says:

> The conferrees are of the opinion that as the city allows the company to reserve to itself the aggregate rate of present net earnings on its elevated lines without regard to the segregated profit and loss on individual lines no reason remains why a five-cent fare should not be extended to this (Coney Island) as to other parts of the city.

Next to the admission of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit to Broadway and the radical variation of the city's return on the elevated third track franchises, the most important modifications suggested to the Interborough is that in segregating the financial results on the extensions it shall determine operating expenses on a cost per passenger basis and not on a car mileage basis, as the company's offer proposes. The report declares the car mileage basis "unthinkable," in that it starves the future extensions for the benefit of the existing lines. The suggestion, however, of a cost per passenger basis is followed by the words "or other basis equally acceptable to the city," which leaves it open to the company to suggest an alternative scheme of operation and opens the prospect of further negotiation.

The report does not differ largely in the matter of adjustment of the leases of the Interborough below Forty-second Street, Manhattan, from the terms of the company's latest amended proposition. It stipulates that the company must agree, in consideration of getting its new lines, to allow the city at some time after ten years to modify the existing contracts so as to take over either the present Subway from Grand Central to Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, or the present Subway from Times Square to Van Cortlandt Park and West Farms in exchange for the counterparts proposed to be built in Lexington Avenue and Seventh Avenue respectively.

The report proposes that provisions should be embodied in the contract to enable the city to take either line subject to existing liens thereon or to compel the company to assign its rights to a third party designated by the city, and that the company shall bind itself to co-operate with the city in obtaining any necessary legislation; but the report further provides that there should be an appraisal of the relative values of the leases proposed to be swapped under these conditions and a payment from the city to the company or vice versa. As to this appraisal, the report lays down no condition and leaves it for an agreement to be reached between the city and the company whenever the city might desire to reacquire. Public Service Commissioner Maltbie notes his dissent from the findings of the committee on this point.

Lines the City May Recapture.

As to the city's control of the extended system the report asserts that after ten years the city would be able to acquire under the indeterminate clause any of the following combinations of lines:

> The Lexington Avenue and Seventh Avenue lines of the Interborough system, with their north and south extensions, which would be subject to recapture for independent operation either through the building of a new crosstown line between Thirty-fourth and Fortieth Streets, reversing the route of the present lines, or through the exercise of the city's right to exchange the paralleling sections of the system south of Forty-second Street.
> The Queens-Manhattan lines through Forty-second Street and under the East River to Astoria, Woodside, and Corona.
>
> The Broadway, Manhattan, and Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, system, running from Queens through the heart of Manhattan to Brooklyn, and branching into South Brooklyn, Coney Island, and Staten Island.
>
> The line from Union Square under the East River and through the Eastern District to the populous centres about East New York and Ridgewood.

"With all these strategic links subject to the control of the city," says the report, "either through the exercise of the right of recapture or through the transfer of leases from one operator to another, it is difficult to believe that the city will be unable to maintain a mastery of the rapid transit situation of the future."

Action Before June Is Ended.

After the report came out yesterday and it developed that the Board of Estimate would not act on it this week Mr. McAneny gave out the following statement:

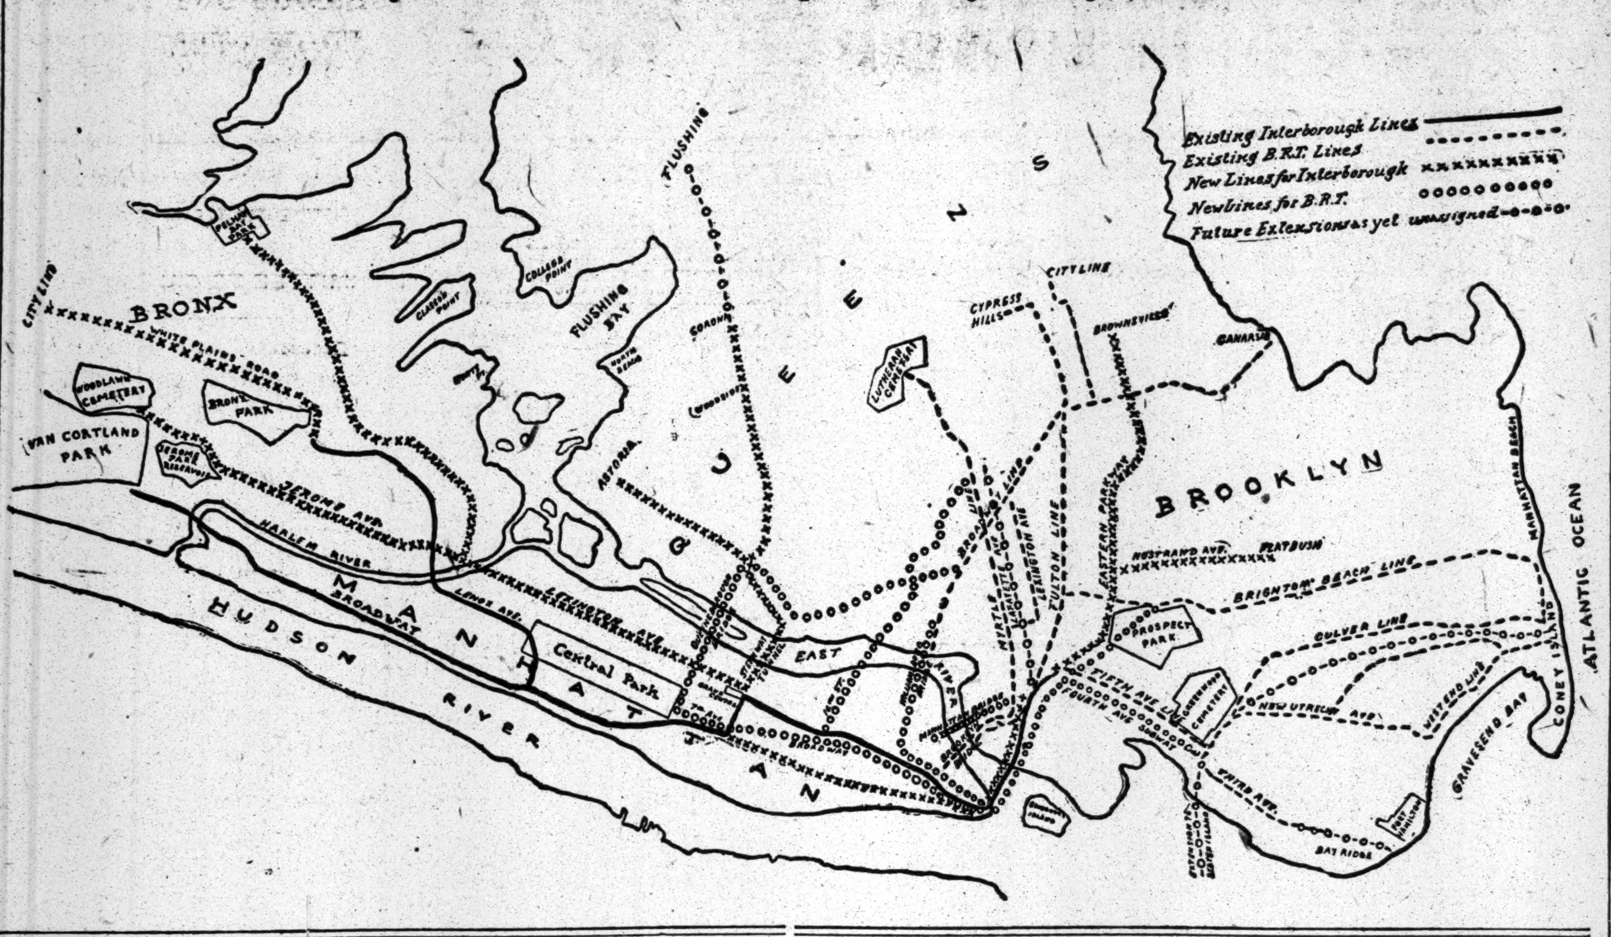
"Under the agreement reached this morning in the committee of the whole the board will take up the report with the expectation of voting upon the recommendations it submits a week from to-morrow. I have no doubt that the board will also approve the suggestion of the committee that a definite limitation of time be set for the receipt of the replies of the operating companies. There will be no delay beyond that, for, one way or the other, the board will vote to go ahead with the actual construction work by the end of the month; and the Public Service Commission, within its jurisdiction, is prepared to act accordingly."

Neither Controller Prendergast nor President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen would discuss the report in advance of examining it. Mayor Gaynor, when asked for his views, said:

"I shall not discuss the matter, but I can hardly refrain from saying that even those who wanted to rush things through six months or more ago must come to see the immense gain to the community which has come from a careful and deliberate consideration of the whole subway matter. This subway matter is the largest matter before any Government in the world, National, State, or local, so far as I know at the present time, and needed the most comprehensive consideration."

At the offices of the Interborough it was said that no comment would be made until the company's engineers and lawyers had passed upon the plan. A similar statement came from the office of the B. R. T.

Subway Division as Proposed by City's Conferrees



LAYS DOWN A TRANSIT POLICY.

The report of the McAneny Committee devotes its first chapter to a chronological review of the subway negotiations and incidental discussion of the questions involved. Then follows this enumeration of the conclusions of the conferrees:

That future rapid transit lines should follow as closely as possible the development of a logical and well-ordered city plan.

That the city should provide, as rapidly as the means at its command permit, not only for relief of congested areas, but for the opening of lines through those sections that, though relatively undeveloped, offer promising opportunity for the better distribution of population.

That the location of particular routes should be determined by the city, for the city's reasons, and not necessarily to conform to plans proposed by operating companies.

That the occupation of lines in the hands of private operators should be kept within the city's control, and that the city should always have the power to retake the component parts of a system capable of independent operation at any time that it may deem such a measure necessary.

That where a proper measure of control can be maintained, it is good policy and correct economy to utilize and extend the facilities offered by existing rapid transit lines already at the service of the city, rather than to reduce the uses of such lines through wasteful competition.

That the available funds of the city should be used for new construction work and placed where they will aid best in preserving the city's strategic position.

That the city should have a full and fair share in all profits derived from the operation of new lines; not only as a matter of the rightful enjoyment of the fruits of its own franchises, but as a means of hastening the release of its self-supporting investments from the constitutional debt limit and of the construction of additional transportation facilities.

That the basis of operation, in every case, shall be such as to secure a proper contribution from the earnings of the more profitable inside or "short haul" lines to help support the less profitable or outlying lines; thus assuring to the city proper service and equitable returns from each system as a system, and not as a section of scattered routes, with the gains of those most profitable reserved for private enjoyment.

That the actual operation of the lines should continue under strict control; and that the contracts for operation should embody not only the essential provisions of the Public Service act, but such other guarantees of the character of equipment furnished or the adequacy of operating service as the city may exact; and,

That no plan should be adopted or proposal accepted that will prevent the development of the entire city as a social and economic unit or hinder the logical extension of transportation facilities in the future.

In considering the present transit situation of the city, and the alternatives developed in the course of these negotiations, the conferrees have not only given attention to the vast amount of underlying detail, but have kept constantly in mind the relation of the several propositions involved to the principles above set forth.

The description of the routing plans as told in detail above is next in order, after which the report gives the following summary of operating terms applying to both companies:

Rate of Fare.

That the rate of fare for one continuous ride over any part of the system operated by a single operator, including transfers, shall be 5 cents.

Terms of Leases.

That all contracts for the operation of lines title to which is vested in the city, whether such lines be constructed by the city or by the company, or upon a basis of division of cost between the city and the operator, shall fix the term of the lease at forty-nine years from the date of beginning of operation; except that the so-called bridge loop lines in Manhattan, if the contract for their operation is given to the Brooklyn company, may be leased for twenty years with the privilege of renewal, upon an adjustment of terms, for twenty years in addition.

Provision for Recapture.

That the city retain its right to take over, after ten years of operation, if it so elects, the line or lines covered by any forty-nine-year operating contract upon the payment by the city of

> The amount of the operator's money investment, if any, in construction, plus 15 percentum—which total sum shall decrease as the term continues and the investment is amortized; and
> The then reasonable value of the equipment attaching to the line or lines.

That the city, in the event of any such recapture, may, upon its option, either

> Pay from its own funds the amount required to reimburse the operator; or
>
> Require a trasfer of lines to a second operator upon the payment of the necessary amount directly by such other operator.

Cost of Construction.

That the costs of construction, whether borne by the city or by the operator, or upon a basis of division between the city and the operator, shall be the cost in money and shall include:

> All contracts for original construction work, or for station finish; all carrying charges during construction; engineering expense; extras and damages, real estate and easements, and such other incidental charges as may be agreed upon; the cost of trackage and signal system to be charged to equipment.

Division of Profits.

That the receipts and operating expenses of all lines operated under the new contracts shall be ascertained as follows:

Receipts shall consist of

> The value of the tickets collected at stations, miscellaneous earnings from stations, a pro rata of advertising and other general receipts.

The fixed cost of operation shall include:

> Station expenses, maintenance of way and structure, damages for accidents, and taxes, if any, attaching to the particular line.
>
> All other operating expenses, divided on a cost-per-passenger basis—or other basis equally acceptable to the city—to be determined according to unit costs on the entire system for a single fare, as follows:
>
> Transportation costs;
> Maintenance of equipment, renewals, and depreciation;
> Cost of power;
> General and admbinistration expenses; and
> General taxes, if any.

That the net profits derived from the operation of all lines shall be divided equally between the city and the operator, after provision has been made for carrying charges in the following order:

> The actual annual charges of the operator for carrying the cost of equipment; with provision for a sinking fund not to exceed three-fourths of 1 per centum per annum to meet obsolescence.
>
> The actual annual charges of the operator for carrying any portion of the cost of construction not met from the funds of the city; with provision for a sinking fund thereon (including brokerage charges, not to exceed 3 per cent.) of not more than 1 per centum per annum.
>
> Interest on bonds issued by the city to defray costs of construction or costs of real estate or easements, which provision for a sinking fund not to exceed 1 per centum per annum.
>
> Provided, that if the gross income in any year, after providing for operating charges, shall be insufficient to cover interest and sinking fund upon the operator's bonds, the deficit for such period shall be borne by the operator solely; and,
>
> Provided further, that if the gross income in any year, after providing for all charges, including interest and sinking fund on the operator's bonds, shall be insufficient to meet the interest and sinking fund upon the city's bonds, the deficit sustained for any such period shall be treated as cumulative and be a charge in the city's favor against future profits, to be made good before any equal division of profit shall proceed between the city and the operator; and
> All of the city's proportion of profits remaining after the payment of operating expenses and carrying charges, and all the operator's proportion of such profit, over and above an additional allowance of 3 per cent. annually upon his total investment in construction and equipment, shall be applied to the reduction of deficits arising from the operation of extensions, so long as such deficits exist, before the further division of profit proceeds.

Operation of Extensions.

That each contract shall contain a clause under which the operator agrees to operate additional lines as part of the single fare system, whether built now or hereafter, upon the following conditions:

> That such new line, whenever accepted as part of the general system by both the city and the operator, shall be governed by and included in all of the general provisions of the contract with relation to operation and the division of profit and loss;
>
> That where such new line is required by the city, but not accepted by the operator as an original line, it shall be operated as part of the general system, but carried on a separate financial basis, with separate accounting of receipts and operating expenses; and
>
> That the deficits on extensions operated separately shall be treated as cumulative and discharged, so far as practicable, from the surplus receipts of the general system, as heretofore provided.

Supervision of Contracts and Accounting.

That the right be retained, through the properly constituted public authorities, to approve the form and the terms of all contracts to be let by any operator, either for equipment or for the construction of lines to be built by him, and to supervise the execution of such contracts.

That the right also be retained to supervise all accounts of the operator with relation either to construction or operation, and to audit all accounts upon which the deductions of receipts and expenditures and the determination of the city's share in such profits are based.

That clauses be inserted in the contract embodying the essential provisions of the public service law with relation to both operation and management, and such added guarantees, as to the character and sufficiency of the equipment to be furnished, and of the service to be given, as the city may require.

Special Terms Applying to the Interborough Company.

Leveling of Leases—That, as part consideration for the lease of new lines for the fixed period of forty-nine years from the date of the beginning of operation, the Interborough Company shall level the renewal periods of the lease for its existing lines so that these shall expire coterminously, forty-nine years from the beginning of operation of any portion of the new lines. The leases of the principal existing lines under Contract No. 1 expire in 1954, and the company, through its right of twenty-five years' renewal, would remain in possession until 1979. The lease of Contract No. 2, covering the Brooklyn extension, expires in 1943, and with the renewal period, in 1968. Under the leveling process, all of the leases, new and old, revert to the city in 1964.

Exchange of Lower Manhattan Lines—That, as further consideration for the lease of new lines, the Interborough Company consent to the modification of Contracts Nos. 1 and 2 so as to provide that the city at any time after ten years may, if it so elects,

> Take over that portion of the existing subway running southward between Forty-second Street and Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn; or
> That portion of the existing subway running northward from Forty-second Street to Ninety-sixth Street, with its Van Cortlandt Park and West Farms extensions; the company in such event to receive in exchange a lease upon either
>
> The Seventh Avenue line from Forty-second Street South to Borough Hall, Brooklyn; or
> The Lexington Avenue line from Forty-first Street to the Bronx, with its projected extensions, for the balance of the term of forty-nine years from the beginning of operation as herein defined.

The purpose of this clause being to give the city the right to take over a continuous north and south line, if it so desires, at any time after ten years, giving the company in exchange a continuous line under the conditions of its present lines, and to reserve to the city the option of taking whichever of the two lines may better suit its needs and purposes under the conditions that may exist when the exchange is effected; also

That in the event of an exchange the respective values of each extension affected shall be appraised on the basis of the earning capacities at the date of appraisal; the difference in value, if there be any as so determined, to be adjusted by the payment by the city to the company of any excess found in favor of the lines taken over by the city, or payment by the company to the city of any excess in value found in its favor; the company, in any event, to reserve trackage rights for the elevated trains from White Plains and Jerome Avenue lines and the right to connect the southerly end of its Lenox Avenue extension, under the terms of Contract No. 1.

Provisions to be embodied in the contract that will enable the city to take either line subject to any mortgages now liens thereon, or to compel the company to assign its rights to a third party designated by the city; the company to cooperate with the city in procuring any legislation that will be necessary to legalize or carry out any part of the agreement in this particular, so that it may be carried out according to these terms, and that the company when such provision is so legalized will perform such acts as may be necessary to make it part of a complete contract.

Purchase of Existing Lines—That the city be given the right to take over the lines of the present Subway at any time after thirty-five years from the date of the beginning of operation of the new lines, provided the new lines shall have been taken, under the ten-year clause, upon payment to the company of a sum equal to the company's aggregate estimated profits for the unexpired portion of the lease, estimated upon the basis of the average annual net profits for the five-year period immediately preceding, or, if the period of final amortization has been passed, then for the average of the five-year period immediately preceding the completion of amortization.

Special Terms Applying to the Brooklyn Company.

Earnings of Existing Lines—That, in lieu of all earnings on its existing lines, the company reserves to itself annually, before the payment of interest and sinking fund charges either upon its own or the city's bonds for new construction and equipment, a sum representing its net profits from operation of the existing lines included in the agreement during the year ending June 30, 1911, proper deductions having been made for current depreciation; all receipts of the existing lines above the sum so stipulated to be pooled with the receipts of the city built lines, for distribution in accordance with the general terms agreed upon.

Leased Lines—That the company incorporate with its existing lines, in such manner as the Public Service Commission may approve, such subsidiary lines as it now holds under lease, and that no allowance be made under the head of operating expenses for further rental of any such leased lines.

Examination of Plant—That the company agree to subject its present plant to the examination of a Board of Engineers to be named by the Public Service Commission, and to make provision from its existing surplus or current earnings to cover such deferred maintenance as the commission, upon the advice of the engineers, may require to be met before the lines pass into the proposed new system.

Management—That the entire system of Subways and elevated lines shall be under the management of one company, and that every subsidiary company having to do with the supply of current, equipment, or other property shall be subject to the provision of the Public Service Commissions law.

SPECIFIC POINTS SETTLED.

Why City Rejects Broadway Ultimatum and Car Mileage Argument.

Several specific points in the subway problem are discussed in the McAneny report separately from the general provisions relating to the terms imposed upon one company or the other. Perhaps the most important of these is the treatment of Broadway, which brings out officially the position of the city on the Interborough's ultimatum against the use of Broadway by the B. R. T. or any other company. The report notes that the offer submitted by the B. R. T. on March 2 did not involve the use of any street in Manhattan for which the Interborough was bidding, and then tells how the conference was informed of the Interborough's ultimatum and asked the B. R. T., as a result, to broaden its offer so as to include the entire Triborough route.

As dismissing the proposal in the last amended plan of the Interborough to build up Broadway from Fourteenth Street to Forty-second, and thence to Fifty-ninth Street, in connection with an Eastern District subway, the report declares:

"It is the conviction of the conferrees that the city should not permit any part of Broadway between Vesey Street and Forty-second Street to be occupied by any company in a way that will interfere with the establishment of a trunk line subway. For this reason they do not favor the construction of a two-track subway for the Interborough Company between Fifty-ninth Street and Fourteenth Street via Seventh Avenue and Broadway, to connect with the Fifty-ninth Street line, on the one hand, and the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District subway, on the other.

"Such a line would provide no service that would not be afforded by the present subway and the Seventh Avenue extension, provided the Fifty-ninth Street line were extended to Eighth Avenue or the river and the Fourteenth Street line were carried across town. The proposed line would not only prevent the construction of a trunk line in Broadway, but would prevent the routes on Fifty-ninth Street and Broadway from being carried westerly, so as to afford communication with all the longitudinal transit lines in Manhattan."

Attack on Car Mileage Plan.

The report lays great emphasis upon the objections raised by the conferrees to the proposed car mileage basis of computing the operating cost on the extensions of the Interborough Subway. It begins by declaring that the acceptance of such a plan would be "unfair, that it would seriously handicap the new lines while adding considerable sums to the already large profits on the present lines, and that it would hinder the construction of additional subways in the future under the terms of contract now being considered."

An appendix to the report goes into this matter at length. After first dismissing as impractical of application here the zone system of determining fares, which is in force on the Continent, the report proceeds to say:

"The rapid transit congestion that has been so long endured and which it is now hoped will be alleviated has been largely caused because of the desire of the operating companies to keep the benefits of the short haul business and free themselves from the necessity of caring for outlying districts. They have wanted an increase of inside lines, but, as a rule, have either refused outside lines or have desired them on such terms that the traveling public would pay an increased fare.

"The present crisis has been largely caused because the city has not had the power to compel the rapid transit operators to project their five-cent fare into outlying districts even if the city paid the entire cost of construction of the new lines, or even if the average profits of a five-cent fare in the old and new districts would have been a handsome return on the investment. If the solution that is now sought does not care for the future growth it will soon be followed by congestion and blocking and the city will again need to go through the turmoil and stress of the last few years. And in that case the city would not be in as fortunate a position as at present, because to-day the city has many routes in downtown Manhattan and lower Brooklyn that can be used for independent subways, but in fifteen years from now it will have fewer left.

Starving the Extensions.

"All depends on the arrangement made between the city and the forty-nine-year operator for the operation of future extensions. If the basis is one that assigns to the extension the fares collected, and charges against the extension the pro rata of car miles operated, then the extension will be starved. For the substantial riding on the extensions will be mornings and evenings only, and fares will be received at the stations on the extensions only in the morning. On such a basis a future extension standing by itself will produce a deficit indefinitely, and if the city pays the deficit to the operator, the future drain on the city will be great. This, however, is the basis insisted upon by the Interborough, and which the conferrees reject.

"If the operator does not contract that he will operate at a five-cent fare future extensions built at city expense, and contribute part of the short haul benefits so that the payment of deficits by the city will, after a time, come to an end, the city will become disouraged by paying deficits on extensions and will build no more. Then the demand will arise for the building of an independent trunk line through the fertile part of the city so that extensions can be added to it and the benefits of the short haul be donated to the support of the desired extensions. If operating contracts are now drawn so that future extensions are starved, the present effort will be no solution of the problem, but only a temporary loosening up, and in a few years another crisis will arise.

How It Would Work Out.

"For instance, if extensions are made to stand on their own earnings, the city paying the deficit without aid of the short-haul profits, and if the demand should arise for two more extensions in the Bronx and two more extensions to the Eastern Parkway line in Brooklyn, the same old question would arise again. The city would be paying deficits and would not want to pay more. It would refuse to build. Then the demand would appear for a new trunk line, so that the short hauls on it would support the two new extensions in the Bronx and the two new extensions in Brooklyn. If, however, the operating contracts are now so arranged that the increase of future short-haul traffic will help support future extensions, then in all probability they could be built by the city, operated at a five-cent fare, and within a reasonable time become self-sustaining.

"The per passenger method of estimating expense applies only to that part of the expense of an extension that cannot be localized. Every extension has to stand on its own bottom as to the interest on the cost of its construction, manning stations, repairs to track and stationary equipment, and accidents on that extension. The per passenger method divides the general expenses of operating the system and moving its cars, so that these general expenses that cannot be localized are divided in the same ratio between the extension and the whole system as the fares are divided.

"This method brings to the aid of the extension part of the excess earnings of the short hauls. It has been worked out by application to many cases and shows that the outcome is not unfair to the operator or over generous to the extension. The extension always will have the smaller earning power, yet will need to stand localized burdens of interest, manning, and repairs. The per passenger basis does not put the extension on an equal footing with original lines, but simply divides the non-localized expense so that part of the profits of the short hauls help to support the extensions. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has adopted this method in its last proposal."

THE TUNNEL TO RICHMOND.

Cromwell on Advantages of Passenger, Freight, and Water Tube.

The last exhibit with the report is a letter from Borough President Cromwell of Richmond on the proposed freight and passenger subway to Staten Island. After calling attention to the advantages of Staten Island as a shipping centre, and to the fact that it possesses direct connection by bridge with the trunk lines of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the Erie, the Lehigh Valley, the West Shore, and the Baltimore & Ohio, Mr. Cromwell says:

"It would not only be quite possible, but relatively economical, to construct between Brooklyn and Richmond a four-track subway instead of a two-track that has been under consideration. Two tracks of such a system could be used for through freight. Continuing those tracks would bring to the Bush Terminal and to the proposed Jamaica Bay terminal bulk freight from the West without transshipment. Continuing such tunnels from the Bush Terminal along the Brooklyn water front and by an additional twin tunnel to the lower end of West Street, Manhattan, would give physical connection to the great railroad water-front development proposed for the west side of Manhattan.

"This would result in practically a complete elimination of lighterage in the Harbor of New York, and would give to all of the other trunk line railroads the advantages that are now proposed to be furnished to the New York Central Railroad. The Pennsylvania Railroad, through the expenditure of private capital, has secured for itself practically all of the facilities that it requires. The New York Central and the New Haven & Hartford, also, at private expense, have secured very great advantages. The other great railroads which are of advantage to the City of New York also, have little present opportunity of serving the city, and under plans heretofore proposed would be under perpetual handicap."

Mr. Cromwell also mentions in this same letter the fact that engineers believe such a tunnel could be used for conducting the pipes of the Catskill water system over to Staten Island and would save the city $1,000,000 needed for a water tunnel which might be applied to the cost of the combination tunnel proposed. He advocates that $5,000,000 of the money now applicable to subway construction be set apart for the construction of subways to the Borough of Richmond.

DAY VOUCHER FOUND; COMMITTEE AT SEA

Discovered on Department Office Floor—Knox to Explain $2,450 Payment for Portrait.

$5,000 PAID TO HALE'S SON

Secretary Also to Tell Committee Why ex-Senator's Son Got This Fee from Canadian Boundary Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Secretary Knox will go before the Hamlin investigating committee to-morrow and tell something more about the voucher for $2,450 for the portrait of Justice Day, which Albert Rosenthal of Philadelphia painted for the State Department, and for which he received but $850 of the amount apparently charged in the department's accounts for it. By the merest chance this morning Chairman Hamlin happened to ask Mr. Morrison, the aged chief of the State Department Bureau of Accounts, if he had seen the Michael voucher since the day it was sent to Chief Clerk Denby in 1907 on the order of Secretary Root. Mr. Morrison said that he had seen the voucher one day last week. This caused a sensation, as it was supposed that the voucher had been irretrievably lost.

Mr. Hamlin ascertained that the voucher had been found last week lying on the floor near Mr. Morrison's waste basket, by a messenger. Mr. Morrison said that attached to it was a statement in the handwriting of Mr. Michael, the former chief clerk of the State Department. The voucher was for the painting of the portrait and the frame. The amount paid was $850, and there was nothing else accounted for on the voucher. Mr. Morrison astonished the committee by saying that, having seen the voucher and refreshed his memory, he now recalled that Mr. Michael asked him to take his check to the Treasury Department and get the cash, which he did, turning it over to Mr. Michael.

Mr. Morrison said he had no idea where the voucher had been while lost, and could not imagine where it had come from.

Under cross-examination by Representatives Hamlin and Davis, Morrison declared that he had never received a receipt for the money from Michaels. The committee decided at once in executive session to subpoena Secretary Knox to come this afternoon to the committee room and explain the matter, bringing the voucher with him. The Deputy Sergeant at Arms was not able to find Mr. Knox until late in the afternoon, when Mr. Knox's secretary called up Mr. Hamlin and explained why the Secretary could not come, and arranged that he should appear before the committee at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

The committee will endeavor to have the Secretary also give the committee the substance of the explanation cabled by Mr. Michael from Calcutta last week. This explanation has been shown to the President, and by his direction the dispatch has been held to be confidential and its publication incompatible with the public interest.

It was also brought out before the committee to-day in Mr. Morrison's testimony that a payment of $5,000 had been made to Frederick Hale, a son of former Senator Hale of Maine, for alleged services with the Canadian Boundary Commission in connection with the Passamaquoddy Bay controversy. Mr. Morrison said he made the payment by direction of Secretary Knox in January, 1909, although he was not the disbursing officer of the boundary fund.

Dr. O. H. Tittman, Superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, said he had made the estimates for the boundary survey and by accident found that they had been increased by $5,000; later he found that without his knowledge Mr. Morrison had paid this sum to Mr. Hale, who was said to be an attorney at Portland, Me.

The State Department's position is that the Hale payment was usual and precisely along the lines of the appropriation covering the definition of the Canadian boundary, notably the Passamaquoddy Bay negotiation, in connection with which Mr. Hale had been employed upon a phase with which Canadian Boundary Commissioner Tittman had nothing to do.

CONTEST DIRECT VOTE MOTION

Tie on Move to Recall It Broken by Sherman's Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Senate to-day came within one vote of recalling from the House the resolution adopted last night providing for popular election of Senators by a constitutional amendment. The vote came this afternoon after a debate that dragged for two hours on a point raised last night by Mr. Reed of Missouri, that the Vice President had exceeded his constitutional powers when he cast the deciding vote for the Bristow substitute.

The question was raised to-day on the adoption of the journal, but finally was modified to a motion to reconsider, coupled with a request that the House return the papers, which, theoretically, are already in conference. The request to the House under the rule had to be voted on at once, and that requirement caught the Democrats by surprise. There were many absentees, and the vote stood 33 to 33. Without voting himself, the Vice President simply declared the motion lost, and that the whole question of reconsideration had failed. The roll call showed the queerest alignments that any one in the Senate can remember. The particular vote on which the point had been raised was that adopting the Bristow substitute with its reservation of the Federal power to supervise elections, which had been so bitterly fought by Southern Democrats.

In the discussion to-day the alignment followed closely that of the vote yesterday, but in the vote late this afternoon so many considerations entered into the matter that while the Democrats, with the exception of Mr. Clarke of Arkansas, voted for the recall of the papers in the hope of ultimately rejecting the offensive amendment, the Republicans, without immediate apparent regard for their attitude on the main question, voted on both sides, regulars and insurgents shifting about.

WOULD SELL RECORD FOR $1.

Taylor Thinks 1,000,000 Would Read Reports of Congress at This Rate.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—In the belief that 1,000,000 people would subscribe for The Congressional Record if they had the opportunity, Representative Taylor of Colorado introduced a bill in the House to-day to make every Postmaster a subscription agent for the daily publication of the proceedings of Congress.

The bill makes the subscription price $1 a year, and provides that the Public Printer shall begin to fill the orders when 1,000,000 subscriptions have been received.

RECIPROCITY REPORT IN UNRECOMMENDED

LA FOLLETTE ATTACKS BILL

Unfair to Farmers, He Says; Also Assails Print Paper Trust—Democrats Against All Amendments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Chairman Penrose, for the Committee on Finance, to-day reported to the Senate the Canadian Reciprocity bill carrying the Root paper amendment, but without recommendation either for the bill itself or for the amendment adopted by the committee. The formal report was made by the majority of the committee, although Senators Kern, Stone, and Williams filed the Democratic claims for the favorable consideration of the measure, while Mr. La Follette, an insurgent, and Mr. McCumber, a standpatter, filed their reasons for voting against it. The debate will begin to-morrow with speeches in opposition to the bill by Senators Curtis and McCumber.

The failure of the majority to make a recommendation one way or another subjected the committee to sharp criticism on the floor. Mr. Dixon of Montana, who seemed to favor the measure, insisted on being told whether the committee advocated or opposed the measure it had reported. He said that hearings had dragged to the unheard-of length of six weeks, at much cost of time and money, and that it seemed absurd that the great Finance Committee should have reached no conclusion. Senator Brown of Nebraska, an insurgent, took the same line, and the Democrats gleefully joined in.

This elicited explanations regarding the vote on the measure in committee. Mr. Penrose said that the committee, failing to agree on any form of report, either favorable or adverse, a report without recommendation was the only course, unless the committee had merely decided to hold on to the bill indefinitely, while the Senate cooled its heels.

Senator Heyburn brought out the facts regarding the motion in committee to report the bill adversely. He said that he had presented this motion and that it had been lost by a tie vote of 7 to 7.

Fate of Free List Bill.

The colloquy was most interesting from the way in which it drew out Democratic plans for the treatment of the Farmer's Free List bill, which when offered as an amendment to reciprocity in committee was overwhelmingly rejected. The President has been much alarmed lest the Democrats in their insistence on a record vote on the free-list measure should hold up reciprocity and prevent a vote on that. Mr. Bailey, however, announced to-day that he felt certain that the Committee on Finance had no intention ever to report out the Free List bill, but that at the proper time he would move to discharge it from further consideration of the measure. That means that the Democrats will get their record vote merely on the motion to discharge, and that they will not hamper the President in his wish for an early vote on reciprocity.

Of the views filed by committee members this morning the most interesting was that offered by Mr. La Follette. He traversed the old arguments advanced by the insurgents against the measure—that it removed protection from the farmer's products and kept it on the things he had to buy, that it in effect increases protection on manufactured products by lowering or removing duties on raw material, and that it is unscientific and in effect an executive mandate for legislation in contravention of the spirit of the Constitution.

Then he takes up the paper question. He voted for the Root amendment in committee which vitiates the paper provisions of the House bill, but in his report he concedes fully the justice of the demand for the abolition of the duties on print paper and wood pulp. In his report he does not mention the Root amendment and seems to assume that it had been defeated, for he refers to the benefit newspaper publishers will receive from the measure. He overlooks entirely that the relief they would have received is entirely removed if the Root amendment, adopted by the committee of which Mr. La Follette is a member, remains in the bill.

Scores Print Paper Trust.

On this point Mr. La Follette says:

"The newspaper publishers are promised a free market for print paper, for which they expend about $55,000,000 annually. No one who investigates the conditions under which the newspapers of this country have been compelled to purchase their supply of print paper can escape the conclusion that the publishers have been subjected to extortion. Prices have been arbitrarily fixed for them, and to keep their enterprises going they have been forced to submit to exactions unwarranted by conditions in the wood pulp and paper-making industries—conditions rendered possible only because of the unlawful trust organizations of the paper manufacturers.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that the newspaper publishers have had to accept whatever contracts the Print Paper Trust offered them to sign or be denied a paper supply with which to continue business. It is true the hearings of the committees of Congress contain many denials by paper manufacturers of the existence of this trust, but against these are the indictments, pleas of guilty, convictions, and fines, all of record, in more than fifty instances.

"The conditions under which the publishers of newspapers are forced to conduct their business are intolerable. These conditions call for action which will afford immediate relief. It should be dealt with directly and not by indirection. The removal of this duty in justice to the users of paper should be the direct and deliberate action of Congress. It is our right and duty to fix the tariff on certain varieties of pulp and paper so as to best serve the interests of our country. All of the evidence sustains the contention for the immediate removal of the duty.

Can Make Cheaper Paper.

"I am satisfied from the recent investigations made by the Tariff Board that, with the exception of wood pulp, we can manufacture paper on an even basis with Canadian manufacturers. Therefore, I believe we should, in accordance with the principle that the tariff should be based on the difference between the cost of production here and abroad, remove the present duty from print paper. The proposed method of doing this, however, cannot in justice be approved. However just the demands of the publishers to be relieved from the oppressive prices fixed by the papermakers' combination, it does not outweigh the gross injustice of this pact. It is the duty of Congress to put print paper on the free list. It is not the duty nor should it be made the privilege of the Executive to secure this concession from Canada at the expense of our agricultural interests."

It will be interesting to see how after that statement Mr. La Follette will justify a vote on the floor for the Root amendment, except on the slender ground that it relieve the papers also of paying revenue to the Government, presumably increasing the farmers' burden to that extent.

As an indication of his attitude toward the reciprocity measure on the floor of the Senate Mr. La Follette's report said:

"I purpose to offer amendments providing for a complete revision of the wool and cotton schedules of the present Payne-Aldrich tariff law, revision of the rates on structural iron and steel, certain other paragraphs of that schedule; also amendments revising the sugar schedule. Such revision downward, while reducing our Government revenues less than $10,000,000 annually, will effect a reduction in the cost of living by lowering prices to the consuming public aggregating more than $200,000,000 a year."

What Senator Williams Says.

In his report accepting the reciprocity treaty Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi said:

"When I want two things, I want both, but if I can't get both then I want the one I can get. Not only is it true that I would, as original propositions, favor most of the amendments offered, but I could easily write down several hundred others that I would like to put upon the statute books, reducing the burden of tariff taxation upon the people. But I see no particular sense in refusing to shoot a rattlesnake, because I cannot at the same time shoot an anaconda.

Mr. Williams gave special prominence to that part of President Taft's Chicago speech dealing with wood pulp as expressive of his views. Adding a few words of his own regarding the wood pulp provision, Mr. Williams said:

"Our Government attempts to meet the situation by giving free entry to wood pulp paper or board as an inducement to the lifting of the Canadian restrictions by the provinces. It seems to me to be evident that that is the only way in which the lifting of the restrictions upon exportations of the raw materials from Canada can be secured. Our manufacturers cannot get their spruce from Canada on any other plan. It seems equally evident that the Root amendment will defeat the purposes of both Governments, although in language it pretends to strive to execute that purpose.

Restrictions on Wood Pulp.

"If print paper and wood pulp made out of wood in provinces which have removed the restriction be permitted to come in free to us while the duty remains upon print paper and wood pulp and pulp wood made out of Canadian wood in provinces which have retained the restriction, then it is evident that it becomes to the immediate interest of the wood and wood pulp and paper people of Canada to bring to bear every inducement upon the provinces not removing restrictions to get them to remove the restrictions, thus benefitting our consumers and our manufacturers of paper."

Senator Williams declared himself to be favorable to a majority of the amendments that were offered in committee, if offered as original propositions, standing upon their own merits, but not in favor of them as amendments to this bill, because he thinks "that their effect in all cases and their purpose in most cases is to defeat Canadian reciprocity, either by means of causing an adverse vote upon the proposition as thus amended in the Senate, or by forcing a protectionist President to veto the bill as passed."

While he favors the House "farmers free list bill" he is not in favor of it as an amendment to this bill, because he thinks the result of putting it on would be to defeat the bill.

Stone and Kern Concur.

"Substantially and in the main I agree with the statement of Senator Williams's view."

Senator Kern also signed the Williams report, and placed an indorsement upon it in which he said:

"I am for the Canadian Reciprocity bill because it looks to freer trade and more intimate commercial relationship between this country and Canada. I am opposed to the Root amendment for the reason so well stated by Senator Williams. I would be glad to support any of the proposed amendments which, in independent and additional sections, provide for reductions in tariff taxation, if the Reciprocity bill, with such amendments, could command enough votes to insure its passage. But, believing that the Reciprocity bill will pass the Senate without the amendments and would fail of passage with them, I can see but one proper course to be pursued by the friends of reciprocity, and that is to oppose all amendments which, if added, would likely defeat the measure."

Taking the position that the Canadian Reciprocity bill should be reported to the Senate with an adverse recommendation, Senator McCumber of North Dakota filed a minority report giving sixteen reasons why he opposed the bill. All were based on the contention that by opening the markets of the United States to Canadian farm products, the proposed bill would have the effect of lowering the prices of American products.

He predicted that by destroying every hope of the farmer for the benefits of an increasing home demand and his ability to obtain just compensation for his labor, the country would again check its agricultural development and send hundreds of thousands of the sons and daughters of farmers to crowd the cities.

Mr. Gore introduced an amendment to the bill which would place Canadian flour, meal, meats, and agricultural implements on the free list, but said he would not press the provision if it became evident that its adoption would imperil the bill.

Attitude of the House.

Speaker Champ Clark was asked to-day as to the probable attitude of the House on the Root amendment should it be fastened on to the Reciprocity bill by the Senate. He replied:

"Since I have been Speaker I have been very slow about stating what the House will or will not do in any given case, but I have no hesitancy in stating my own opposition to the Root amendment.

"On its face it looks fair, but I know that to adopt that amendment would be to throw away entirely the benefits which we would derive from the reciprocity treaty so far as pulp wood, wood pulp and print paper are concerned, and to doing that I am utterly opposed.

"No subject was ever more thoroughly investigated by any Congressional committee than this one was investigated by the Mann committee. In my judgment its conclusions were not only correct but luminously stated. They are incorporated in the Reciprocity bill and should remain there.

"The Denver platform contained these words: 'Existing duties have given the manufacturers of paper a shelter behind which they have organized combinations to raise the price of pulp and of paper, thus imposing a tax upon the spread of knowledge. We demand the immediate repeal of the tariff on wood pulp, print paper, lumber, timber and logs, and that those articles be placed upon the free list.'

"Thus it will be seen that free wood pulp and free print paper are Democratic demands. Most assuredly they are no less Democratic because a Republican President has come around to them. We welcome Republican aid in putting Democratic ideas into law.

"My guess is that the Root amendment will meet with a frigid reception in the House."

OUR TRADE WITH CANADA.

Knox Gives Out Figures Showing Advantage Gained by Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, June 13.— Secretary Knox has supplied the Senate Finance Committee with the latest figures regarding imports into Canada from the United States with the purpose of strengthening the argument in favor of adoption of the reciprocity arrangement. They set forth a much larger trade in the commodities than would be affected by reciprocity during the year ended March 31, 1911, than the figures upon which the pending bill is based, which were those for the preceding year.

For instance, it is stated that on these last returns the total remission of duties by Canada on American products would be $3,364,000, instead of $2,561,000 during the preceding year. The heaviest remissions are in the free list, and particularly on agricultural products, which is a few thousand under $2,000,000.

The greatest remission of duties would be on fruit, vegetables, and live animals, but an increased trade is shown in cottonseed oil and seeds. Farm products show a uniform increase. On the mutually reduced list, including manufactured articles, the total remission of duties would be more than $810,000, as compared with $578,000 the previous year. Agricultural implements form an important item in this list, as well as motor vehicles.

Canada's world trade also increased during the year from $655,081,000 to $736,215,000, the United States continuing to hold the front rank with exports to Canada of $284,935,000. Canada's exports to the United States showed no increase, though her imports from the United States were nearly 62 per cent. of her total imports.

Give Railroads More Time.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day granted to all railroads an extension of time from Aug. 1 next to Jan. 1, 1912, in which to publish their rates complying with the commission's requirements that where a commodity rate has been fixed between points of production and points of consumption, the same concession shall on application be granted to intermediate points.

MAKES PEOPLE PAY FOR DUTY ON SUGAR

Only Half of $104,000,000 Added to Cost Goes to Government, Says Trust Official.

HOW THE PROFITS WENT UP

Almost Doubled When Independents Were Swallowed—Admits Free Trade Would Close Few Plants.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The appearance before the select House committee investigating the Sugar Trust of Edwin F. Atkins of Boston, the Vice President of the American Sugar Refining Company, continued to-day with the development of a vast mas of information as to the affairs and operations of the company. There were present with Mr. Atkins from the sugar company John E. Parsons, accompanied by his counsel, ex-Congressman Herbert Parsons, his son; Washington B. Thomas, Charles H. Allen, former member of Congress from Massachusetts and Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and now Vice President and Treasurer of the sugar company; James M. Beck, former Assistant Attorney General of the United States, now General Counsel of the company; Joseph A. Ball, assistant to the President of the company; Joseph E. Freeman, Secretary, and James H. Gannon, Assistant Secretary of the company.

Mr. Atkins said he could not explain why the price of sugar had been for ten years so stable in this country unless it was that during that period there had been an excess production in the world of 17,000,000 tons. He admitted that while the price was in England 4¼ cents a pound through an average of years, it was about 6.10 ctnts in this country.

To questions put by Mr. Malby of the committee he said that the capital stock of the beet sugar companies in which the American Sugar Refining Company had an interest was $56,883,000 and the holdings of the American Sugar Refining Company were at par $23,133,000, or 41.62 per cent. He said, as he did yesterday, that the American Sugar Refining Company had nothing to say as to the management of the beet companies and was simply a passenger in them, taking the dividends paid and being content to get them.

To questions by Mr. Madison of the committee Mr. Atkins said that the sugar duty was a dosing proposition for the people of the United States. He said that on raw sugars imported the Government collected duties to the amount of $52,000,000 on the domestic, Hawaiian, Porto Rican, and Philippine sugars, which went into the pockets of the manufacturers. He also admitted that under the practice of deducting the duty from the market price at New York, which was practically controlled by the Hamburg price, as Germany is the greatest producer of sugar in the world, the Cuban producer did not get a cent of the 20 per cent. preferential in the existing reciprocity arrangements between Cuba and the United States.

Uniformity of Prices.

The remarkable uniformity of the price of sugar throughout the country was brought out in a striking manner by the Chairman of the committee, Mr. Hardwick, and showed the amazing power of the organization over the market, including beet sugar manufactories as well as the refineries both of the trust and the independents.

"The present price," said Mr. Atkins, "in all places is 5 cents; that is the refiners' price on refined granulated sugar."

"Is that the wholesale price?"

"Yes, Sir, the wholesale price. Do not confuse grocers' wholesale price with the refiners' wholesale price. The sugar refiners sell very little, but a few weeks ago they took all the contracts they could fulfill up till perhaps a week hence at 4.90. Now that 4.90 is subject to a great discount of 50 per cent. for cash."

"That is the price at which sugar is being delivered to-day?"

"All over the present current market."

"Is the price uniform throughout the United States?" asked Mr. Hardwick.

"Uniform in all the refineries. At New York, Boston, Philadelphia, New Orleans, and San Francisco," was the reply.

Mr. Atkins said that the margin of profit was very small. Quoting to-day's price of 2.63 and adding the duty of 1.34, making 3.97, which deducted, he said, from the refiners' wholesale price of 4.80 left 83 points for refining and profit and the ultimate profit was but eight-tenths of a cent a pound. He then gave the figures for the refiners' profits for a series of years back as far as 1885 and on down, showing that the margin in that year was 71.1, in 1886; 78.1 in 1887; 76.8, in 1888.

"That was when the trust got well organized," commented Mr. Hardwick, and he added:

"How do you account for that increase?"

"It was partly to meet expenses, and partly getting the price of refined up a little," replied Mr. Atkins.

"How did you get the price of refined up?"

"There were not so many sellers."

"You put some of those plants out of business and stopped them all from competing with each other."

"Then they were consolidated."

"There were seventeen out of the twenty-three?"

"Yes, Sir," admitted Mr. Atkins.

How Profits Went Up.

"And after you got well organized the refiners' profits went up almost double, did it not?"

"Oh, no, Sir!"

"It went from .76 to 1.258."

"Yes, Sir. That was the following year. In 1889 the margin was 1.307. In 1890 the margin had dropped to 72 cents."

"Do you know why that was?"

"It was competition."

"Was it not the competition of those very Philadelphia concerns that you afterward bought out in 1891?"

"Probably it was."

"So when they knocked the refiners' profits down you went after them, did you not?"

"I did not go after them."

"You went out and bought them. What happened after you bought them?"

"The following year the margin was .828."

"There was still a pretty strong competition from the Philadelphia people?"

"Yes, Sir. In 1892, the next year, it was 1.035."

"That was after you bought the Philadelphia concerns?"

"They came in during that year," said Mr. Atkins.

The witness then traced the refiners' profits on down, mentioning the drop in 1899 to 50 cents, which was due to Havemeyer's efforts to crush Arbuckle, and in 1901 the profit went to 1.03, due to an understanding between Havemeyer and Arbuckle.

In a colloquy with Asher Hinds, Mr. Atkins spoke at some length of the way the duty operates on the consumer.

"At the Treasury Department," said he, "they collect as revenue on one-half of the consumption of the country. The consumers of the country pay, owing to that duty, double the amount of revenue, because they pay on the entire amount of sugar consumed in the country. The United States collects $52,000,000 in revenue; the other $52,000,000, making $104,000,000, adds to the cost of sugar distributed among the domestic manufacturers of sugar, partly beet sugar, partly in Louisiana, partly in the Sandwich Islands, party in Porto Rico, and in a measure to those in the Philippine Islands. The consumer pays the tax and the Government collects only one-half in the form of revenue."

"Suppose we were to have absolute free trade on sugar in this country?" asked Mr. Madison.

Effect of Free Trade.

"Absolute free trade would destroy very many of the beet factories, but not all of them," replied Mr. Atkins. "Some of the factories that are protected by a thousand or fifteen hundred miles of rail could get along, where they get their beets shipped and produced at a very low cost, as, for instance, in California they could survive, in my opinion, or they say they could, but absolute free trade would cripple many of the beet sugar manufacturers. It would cripple the Louisiana people by bringing prices down to a point below their cost of production. Now, that would not be because of the market production, but that would reduce their expenses and they could continue producing. If you wipe out a large source of the supply temporarily you are going to advance the price of that merchandise."

"What would be the effect on the Hawaiian and Porto Rican producers of sugar?"

"It would reduce their price."

"What effect would it have on the industry as to whether it would materially impair or injure it or not?"

"They would tell you that it would destroy it completely, and I would tell you no, that it would not," said Mr. Atkins.

Several members of the committee endeavored to get the witness to say what reduction there should be in the duties on sugar, but he declined to answer, saying that he was speaking simply as an individual and as an economist. The effort to get a reduction has thus far never succeeded, because there are seventeen States where there are beet sugar factories, and these States, said Mr. Atkins, have thirty-four Senators, and they are Republicans.

"This is the first time the opposition has been in the ascendancy, and we are waiting to see what they are going to do," he remarked.

The committee discussed the advisability of forcing the witness to answer the question, but finally dropped it.

which it was determined to appoint a Deputy Chief. An examination was arranged, so Kenlon's competitors charge, qualification to which was made dependent on a single specification, which Kenlon alone of all the Battalion Chiefs could fulfill. This was that the commanding officer of the Marine Branch should hold a master's license. Kenlon, being the only chief to hold such a license, took the examination without competition, and was duly appointed to command the Marine Branch of the service. His present competitors maintain that this did not constitute him a Deputy Chief, and that even if it should be considered to have done so, the examination was unfair, since its specifications prevented competition.

The opposition to Acting Chief Kenlon is not the only dissatisfaction, however, which has arisen in the Fire Department since Chief Croker's resignation. Charges against almost all of the competitors for Mr. Croker's post have been spread broadcast through the department. Among these is the allegation that several of the Chiefs who hold medals or honorable mentions are not entitled to these honors, which yield to their holders a half point, or a point, in the coming examination. Kenlon, again, is brought into the centre of this controversy by the charge that he is not entitled to the honor medal awarded to him on last April 14.

Has Medal of Honor.

Kenlon's medal was granted to commemorate his bravery in the rescue of two men in a North River pier fire in July, 1909. Kenlon was in command of the Fireboat James Duane. Two men, afloat on a log between Piers 14 and 15, were rescued by the fireboat. Since then it has been asserted that Kenlon did nothing beyond giving the orders necessary to bring the boat sufficiently close to the men to allow a fireman to jump overboard to their rescue.

Whatever the rights of the case, however, the question of granting a medal to Kenlon was raised before the Board of Merit, consisting of Deputy Commissioners Johnson and O'Keeffe, Chief Croker, and Deputy Chiefs Lally, Kenlon, and Maher, and the medal was refused. Later the question was raised again, and in the absence of Deputy Chief Lally was awarded to Kenlon. It is a medal of the first class, and as such gives Kenlon credit for a full point in the approaching examination.

But Kenlon, the storm centre of other objections, is not the only one attacked on the ground of irregularity in the award of medals. Deputy Chiefs Langford and Martin, both of them veterans, who, under the new ruling, lose eight points of the old seniority award, have been brought forward by their competitors as objects of protest.

Two Other Medal Awards.

Both Langford and Martin received two Class B medals, entitling the holder to a point preference in examination, on Jan. 4, 1909. They were granted for meritorious acts at fires in 1908. Lally's name was brought before the Board of Merit, consisting of the late Deputy Chief Kruger, John Binns, and Ahearn, and the award was denied. In the Commissionership of Nicholas Hayes, however, this board was dissolved and a new one appointed, consisting of Langford, Martin, and O'Hara. Commissioner Hayes then ruled that applications for medals and honorable mention which had been denied before might be brought up again before this board. Presently Messrs. Langford and Martin, constituting a two-thirds vote of the board, turned up with Class B medals.

It was admitted pretty generally throughout the department last night, however, that the protests of the competing Chiefs would have little effect on the Examining Board, and that prevailing conditions probably would be unchanged at examination time, unless the investigation of Commissioner Fosdick threw new light on the records of three men.

KELLOGG GOT $15,000 FROM STEEL TRUST

COMMITTEE TO CALL MORGAN

Also Roosevelt—Want to Know Why Trust's Railroads Paid Big Dividends on Small Capital.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Frank B. Kellogg, special counsel of the Department of Justice in the prosecution of the Standard Oil Company, and known as the "trust buster," told the Stanley Steel Trust Investigating Committee to-day that he had for years been special counsel of subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation in Minnesota, and that he had no apologies to make for it.

Chairman Stanley declared that the committee would summon any one—even the President of the United States or J. Pierpont Morgan—in order to ascertain how certain railroads owned by the Steel Trust were able to declare enormous dividends on small capitalization. It is probable that ex-President Roosevelt and Mr. Morgan will be asked to appear before the committee when it holds sessions in New York.

"The Chairman and this committee," said Mr. Stanley, "want to know how and why certain railroads are able to pay 100 or 150 per cent. dividends and put $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 into their sulplus when their capitalization is only $4,000,000 or $5,000,000. That may be all right and it may not.

Mr. Kellogg referred to a letter he had sent to the committee in which he explained that he and his firm, Davis, Kellogg & Severance, had for years represented the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad and the Duluth, Mesaba and Northern Railroad, subsidiary companies since 1901, of the United States Steel Corporation. Denying that while acting as special counsel for the Government he had performed any services for the steel corporation, Mr. Kellogg frankly stated that a fee of $15,000 for services previously performed had been approved by officials of the United States Corporation and was paid to him in October, 1907, after he had undertaken trust prosecution for the Government.

"There has been a great deal said," Mr. Kellogg told the committee, "about my connections with the government and with the Steel Corporation. I have explained to this committee my services with these subsidiary companies to the Steel Corporation. They were purely local. They did not concern the Steel Corporation as an organization. Just prior to 1906 I argued some mineral rights cases in Minnesota and presented a bill for $15,000. This, I believe, was approved by the Steel Corporation in 1907.

"Since 1907 I have given my time to the Government in the Standard Oil and a few other cases until they were concluded, and I have done little if any other business. My firm has still continued as counsel for these roads, and both my firm and myself are taking all the legitimate business we can get. I have no apology to make to the American people for appearing for any corporation or individual. I have never advised the organization or the operation of any corporation under the Sherman law. I wish to make this statement as broad as possible."

"Were you ever asked by a Government official about the legality or illegality of the organization of the United States Steel Corporation?" Mr. Kellogg was asked by Representative Littleton.

"I never was," Mr. Kellogg replied.

"Were you ever asked as to the legality of this organization by any officials of the United States Steel Corporation?"

"I was not," was the reply.

Mr. Kellogg testified that there was nothing concerning his relations with the Steel Trust railroad companies in Minnesota that he would not disclose to the committee. He explained the status of those roads and litigation whereby it was determined that their business was inter-State and not intra-State, and that the Inter-State Commerce Commission, instead of the Minnesota Railway Commission, had jurisdiction over them.

He said his firm had represented the Duluth & Iron Range Company as counsel for over twenty years, long before it went into the Steel Corporation. His principal duties were to appear as counsel in big cases. Since the Steel Corporation had taken over the property, he understood that all bills over $10,000 were passed upon by the Steel Corporation heads and that he had several such bills.

James Gayley, former Vice President of the Steel Corporation, who also was a witness to-day, and will continue to-morrow, is the only corporation witness under subpoena to appear here at present.

Mr. Gayley asserted that the formation of the United States Steel Corporation in 1901 had put an end to pools and agreements in the industry. In describing conditions existing before that date, he denied that combinations or agreements existed in the steel trade to-day. Although at first opposed to the plan, he now thoroughly approved the understandings reached between steel manufacturers at the conference dinners inaugurated by Judge E. H. Gary, head of the corporation.

Mr. Gayley said that prior to 1901 there were agreements by which manufacturers were apportioned certain shares of the steel business, and those who failed to get their allotted shares were taken care of with a proportion of the general profits.

Questioned by Representative Young of Michigan, Mr. Gayley declared that for a long time before 1897 the price of steel rails was practically uniform at $28 a ton. It represented, he said, an understanding between manufacturers of rails and the railroads as to an equitable price. He said a fraternal feeling had always existed between the rail makers because of a desire to produce the best possible rails. He also admitted that previous to 1900 agreements were made between the various manufacturers regarding other steel products, in which the Carnegie company participated. These agreements provided fines for violations.

"What body imposed the fines?" Mr. Young asked.

"I do not know," Mr. Gayley replied.

"To whom were the fines paid?"

"I imagine that they were divided pro rata among the different companies."

When asked who could explain the agreements and fines, Mr. Gayley said he presumed Charles M. Schwab, the President, or E. A. Peacock, the Vice President, of the Carnegie Company could tell. Mr. Gayley further admitted that before 1900 there were agreements as to the proportion of business each manufacturer was to have.

"If the companies did not get their share," asked Mr. Young, "were they given the profits anyway?"

"That is my understanding of it."

That there were any such agreements now, Mr. Gayley denied. The witness described the changed conditions in the steel business since the organization of the Steel Corporation, and discussed the Gary dinners.

"I was brought up in the school of keen competition and price cutting," said Mr. Gayley, "and didn't approve at first of the Gary ideas, but later came to see that they were wise under the business conditions of the times."

ARRESTED AT WHITE HOUSE.

Woman Who Wanted to See Taft Is Sent to Asylum Hospital.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Washington police are awaiting word from Cedar Rapids, Ia., from relatives of Mrs. Johanna Bueckning, who was arrested at the White Houses yesterday when she sought to gain access to President Taft.

To the Secret Service men on guard there she said she wanted the President to recover certain lands which she claimed she once owned in Iowa. Her conversation was such as to cause the officers to send her to the Washington Asylum Hospital.

BROWN HAS FAITH IN CROPS.

President of Central and B. F. Yoakum Say Outlook Is Good.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 13.—William C. Brown, President of the New York Central Lines, who has been in Chicago looking over the company's properties and business prospects, left for New York this afternoon. A fellow-passenger on the same train with President Brown was Benjamin F. Yoakum, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Frisco. President Brown was inclined to be reticent about the railroad situation, but he expressed the opinion that the crops throughout the West would be excellent.

"So far as reports have come to me," he said, "indications are that the crops throughout the West will be good this year. It is perhaps putting it too strong to say that wheat will be a bumper crop, but the prospects are exceedingly good for wheat everywhere except in Southeastern Kansas, Central Missiuro, and in Oklahoma. It is too early yet to discus the corn crop, although so far conditions have been favorable."

President Brown said that the traffic is a trifle below what it was a year ago, but that at the present time it seems to be stationary, with no tendency to decrease. The New oYrk Central, he said, had no plans for new construction. It is "merely waiting for developments."

Mr. Yoakum, who has just completed an extensive tour through the cotton belt of the Southwest, declared himself satisfied with the outlook. "The prospects for a good cotton crop this year are very favorable," he said.

New York Is Good Enough for You!

¶At this time of the year, when out-of-town clothing manufacturers are busy on Men's Fall clothes, the re-orders of the clothes-handlers—who must still meet the present seasonable demand—are filled from the residue of the manufacturers' output for the entire season, residue here meaning clothes that are on hand—excess stock and cancellations.

¶Look on that picture—and on this:

¶We ourselves make the Men's clothes we sell — and make them in New York. We never over-produce nor under-produce; our supply automatically adjusts itself to demand; replenishment waits on depletion, even as the attentive host refills the emptied cup; and the garment you buy at Saks' has not pined a whole season long on the counter, nor been returned from a store that cannot use it; but is, for the matter of a week or two, newly-made, and as up to date as though you had given your order for it two weeks before.

¶And in any event, there is no reason why you should wear clothes turned out by factories each catering to the needs of a hundred cities.

¶Saks Clothes for Men, unique in the superiority of their tailoring and style, and obviously much lower in price than those clothes which are weighted with two profits, emphasize more than ever this season the advantage to you of buying your clothes from the maker direct!

Advertising Burns No Bridges

Recently a manufacturer said to us:

"The moment I begin to advertise I have to burn my bridges behind me—modify my long-standing trade relations, adjust my prices to take care of the advertising expenditure, diminish the importance of my salesmen, change well-proven selling methods. What I have, I got through these factors. Shall I forsake them for an experiment?"

Such a view-point is typical of the man whose judgment of advertising is pure guess-work.

Modern advertising burns no bridges.

It does not supplant your present trade relations. It strengthens and broadens them along the very lines that you have found good.

It means lower not higher selling costs—because it multiplies the results from each dollar of selling expense.

It does not minimize your salesmen. It multiplies each salesman's selling power. It brings him new responsibilities and larger opportunities. It offers him a career in place of a job.

It displaces no well-proven methods. It takes those methods and gives them a new power, a new precision, a new scope.

Advertising burns no bridges. It builds larger bridges.

There is no relation, no condition, no asset in your business that you value, no source of strength peculiar to yourself, that advertising, rightly done, will not help you apply to larger ends.

If you think these are extravagant claims you do not know advertising.

The Washburn-Crosby Company's famous Gold Medal Flour has all the bread, biscuit, cake, and pastry-making qualities of the finest wheat concentrated in it. It bakes more to the pound than other flour, saves money as well as the extra work and worry occasioned by the use of flour of less uniform quality. That is why knowing housewives always demand it.

STRIKE OF SEAMEN ORDERED FOR TO-DAY

Has Already Begun at Antwerp—English Owners Appear Unconcerned.

MAY ARREST SAILORS HERE

British Subjects Refusing to Go on Their Vessels Liable to Deportation and Jail at Home.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 13.—The long-threatened strike of the International Seamen's Union has been definitely fixed to begin to-morrow.

The striking coal porters to-day rejected the employers' proffered compromise and demand an immediate increase in wages.

The coaling of the American Line steamer St. Paul, which should have sailed last Saturday, is proceeding slowly.

The new Olympic of the White Star Line, which is scheduled to sail to-morrow, is coaling with imported labor.

LONDON, June 13.—The reports concerning the shipping strike are contradictory. In London to-night very little seemed to be known concerning the threatened action of the International Seamen's Union, and the Shipping Federation is taking the matter quite coolly. The Secretary of the Federation expressed the conviction that there will be no international strike, although he admits the possibility of partial strikes at different places. This view he bases on the seamen's lack of funds and organization.

Havelock Wilson, the leader of the strike at Southampton, in a speech to-night asserted that 10,000 men would go out immediately. It is also announced that in all the Tyne yards the strike will begin to-morrow.

Tom Mann, Vice President of the Workers' Union, has arrived at Liverpool to conduct the strike campaign there. He says, however, that the precise date has not yet been announced. Another strike leader in Liverpool has asserted that the strike will be in full swing next week.

Judging from the various reports to-night a strike involving all British ports seems unlikely.

ANTWERP, June 13.—The Seamen's Union has posted a manifesto proclaiming a strike and inviting all members to adhere to it. As a result of this, the coal trimmers and firemen on the Red Star steamer Finland, due to leave here for New York on Saturday, refused to sign contracts. German sailors who signed for the steamer Marquette refused to go aboard. The Belgian steamer Tigris, however, left port with a full complement.

The Burgomaster has summoned representatives of the ship owners to meet at the City Hall to-morrow to consider means for settling the dispute.

AMSTERDAM, June 13.—At a meeting here to-night the members of the Seamen's Union unanimously resolved to proclaim a general strike to-morrow.

Following the receipt of the cable dispatches announcing that there would be an international strike of seamen, to commence to-day, rumors were circulated in steamship circles here that the crews of the Mauretania and other foreign and American vessels now in port would go on strike at the same time.

Mathew Tearle, Secretary of the American branch of the Sailors' and Firemen's Union, stated last night that the strike would begin in this port on Friday if not to-day. He said that he was still waiting for the order to strike from London, and that the men themselves were anxious to go out, and might even do so without word from him.

"Committees have ben appointed here," said Mr. Tearle, "to go down to the piers of the transatlantic liners and call the crews out as soon as the strike order is received."

A NEW YORK TIMES reporter, who inquired at the offices of the various steamship lines yesterday, was informed that while no alarm was felt with regard to a strike, all precautions had been taken to meet such an emergency.

With regard to the Mauretania, which is due to sail at 9 A. M. to-day with a record number of 515 first-class passengers, mostly bound for London for the coronation, Capt. E. J. Roberts, the Marine Superintendent, said that in his opinion the whole talk about a strike on this side of the Atlantic had been exaggerated. The members of the crew of the Mauretania were mostly old employes of the Cunard Line, and it was not likely that they would lose their positions and take the risk of being sent to jail on their return home for refusing duty on board ship while under signed Board of Trade articles, which was mutiny in the eyes of the law.

Mr. Bennett, the British Consul General, said that in the event of the crew of any British ship deserting, he would, on being notified by the agents, communicate with the Federal authorities and warrants would be issued for the arrest of the men. The deserters would be taken back to the ship and locked up, or, if the vessel had sailed, then to Ellis Island as aliens, liable to become public charges and subject to deportation.

Some of the big ships that are to sail this week and would be affected by a general strike are the Carmania, St. Louis, Minnetonka, Lapland, and Tagus. The Oceanic arrives to-day and is due to sail next Wednesday.

TRIUMPH FOR MRS. CATT.

Her Speech to Suffragists to be Circulated Throughout World.

STOCKHOLM, June 13.—The address which Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the President, delivered at the sixth congress of the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance yesterday is to be translated into the languages of all civilized lands and to have a world-wide distribution.

A proposal to this end received an enthusiastic welcome at to-day's session of the alliance and funds to defray the expense involved were voted by acclamation.

Mrs. Catt announced that an international men's union to further the cause of woman suffrage had been formed.

At the afternoon session of the congress Mrs. Catt proposed the establishment of an international bureau in London. Dr. Anna Shaw asked the congress to express approval of the peace movement.

A great meeting of suffragists was held at the Opera House this evening, several of the delegates making speeches.

MANY ALBANIANS REBEL.

American Traveler Says All the North is in Revolt.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 13.—A news dispatch from Constantinople says that Charles R. Crane of Chicago, who has been traveling in Albania, has arrived at Scutari and reports that all Albania north of the Scumbi River is in revolt.

Czar Entertains Our Officers.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 13.—Emperor Nicholas gave an audience to-day to Ambassador Rockhill, who presented Rear Admiral Badger, the Captains, and twelve other officers of the visiting American battleships. After the reception the Americans were the guests of his Majesty at luncheon at the palace.

Court Silences Riveters.

The riveters on the west wing of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank Building opposite the County Court House were silent during court hours yesterday. Supreme Court Justice Page sent for President Thomas M. Mulry of the bank yesterday, and it was said that the contempt proceedings had been dropped and an amicable settlement of the matter been made. Justice Page held that it was criminal contempt to make noise interrupting the proceedings of the Supreme Court.

PERRY BELDEN HURT.

Thrown from Horse Near Berlin—His Condition Not Serious.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 13.—Perry Belden of Syracuse, N. Y., Third Secretary of the American Embassy here, was thrown from his horse while riding in the Grunewald forest early this morning in company with Herr Hofer, an attaché of the Swiss Legation. Mr. Belden was taken to Herr Hofer's apartment in an automobile, where he is now receiving medical attention. So far there is no indication of internal injuries, but Mr. Belden is suffering from bruises and a general shaking up.

The accident had a curious cause. Mr. Belden and his companion decided to change horses in the course of the ride. The former had been astride Herr Hofer's mount for only a few minutes when the animal bolted and got out of control. It dashed between a couple of trees and threw Mr. Belden from the saddle.

Ambassador Hill was notified by telephone and arrived with an English physician, who found Mr. Belden conscious and cheerful. His condition is in no respect alarming.

CAMORRISTS' LAWYER QUITS.

Accused of Trying to Bribe Witnesses, Says He'll Abandon Post.

VITERBO, June 13.—A sensation was caused at the Camorrist trial this afternoon by the testimony of several women witnesses, who declared that they had received offers of money from the wives of some of the prisoners, and also from Alessandro Lioy, one of the lawyers for the defense, if they would deny depositions previously made by them and swear falsely. One witness added that she had refused to see Lioy and had notified a police official of the attempts to have her commit perjury.

Lioy jumped to his feet and shouted "Liar!"

The President of the court ordered the police official to the witness stand and instructed him to tell what had happened. In the meantime the prisoners from the cage inveighed against the woman, calling her a spy.

The police official said that the mothers and wives of accused Camorristi had tried to take several of the witnesses to Lioy.

Lioy was highly indignant, and asked the official if he knew of anything against him, to which the official replied that he knew Lioy had spoken with Erricone's sweethear at an inn in Viterbo. The President of the court ordered that the proprietor and chambermaid of the inn be interrogated on this subject.

At this point Lioy became furious, and said that he would not permit himself to be made a constant object of inquiry: he preferred to abandon his post. Lioy then took off his lawyer's gown and left the courtroom, and the President suspended the sitting.

NICARAGUA FEARS REVOLT.

Gen. Mena Now Inclined to Side with Anti-American Politicians.

PANAMA, June 13.—Travelers arriving here to-day from Rivas, Nicaragua, state that when they left that place on June 6 there was much anxiety on the part of the Government and the populace. The explosion in the fortress at Managua and rumors of fillibustering expeditions against the Government have caused much alarm. A strict censorship is in force at all cable and telegraph points, and little news of the situation goes out of the country.

It is reported that many arrests of political suspects have been made. It is also reported that Gen. Mena, the Minister of War, has had a falling out with the Conservatives because of the failure of the latter to carry out an alleged secret agreement that Mena should immediately assume the Presidency, and after a term of four years be succeded in office by Emiliano Chamorro.

Mena, it is said, is now inclined to lead the faction of politicians who are anti-American and opposed to the acceptance of an American loan.

CORONATION TO BEAT RECORD

London Has Never Before Been Decorated so Lavishly.

LONDON, June 13. — As preparations for the coronation approach completion it becomes increasingly evident that the celebration will be on a far greater scale of magnificence than the coronation of King Edward VII. Never before have the streets of London been so transfigured for any great public ceremony, or has there been such an enormous expenditure to do honor to a sovereign.

The street decorations and illuminations are of unprecedented lavishness. A whole army of carpenters, electricians, and decorators are working with feverish energy from early in the morning until late at night in order to complete their labors. Nearly 60,000 home and colonial troops are now quartered in the parks, giving Western London the appearance of a huge camp.

The ancient glories of the Thames as a royal waterway will be revived on Coronation Day. The Earl Marshal has chartered a big steamer to convey the peers and peeresses from Chelsea to Westminster. The boat will be handsomely decorated and all the peers and peeresses will be in robes. The river will also be utilized with a fleet of steamers for the transfer of the coronation guests after the ceremony.

The mobilization of the fleet for the naval review has commenced at Spithead, fifty warships taking up their positions there to-day.

GIVES CONTROL TO AMERICAN.

Persia Invests Shuster with Full Power Over Country's Finances.

TEHERAN, June 13.—The National Council to-day adopted in its final stage the measure investing W. Morgan Shuster, the American financier, who was recently appointed Treasurer-General of Persia, with "direct effective control of all the financial and fiscal operations of the Persian Government, including the collection of all receipts of every description and control of all Government expenditures."

The bill empowers Mr. Shuster to establish whatever departments and appoint all staffs that he considers necessary.

THE VIRGINIA AT HAVANA.

Yacht Only Slightly Damaged and Will Sail for This Port.

HAVANA, June 13.—The yacht Virginia, chartered by E. C. Benedict, arrived here to-day in tow of a wrecking tug. The yacht was released from her position on the Colorado Reefs at high tide yesterday after much rock near the midship section had been blasted out with dynamite.

Capt. Burd reports that the vessel is undamaged except for slight dents in the bottom plates, and it will be unnecessary to drydock her here. The Virginia, after taking on coal and food supplies, will sail for New York.

PUSHING LICENSE CRUSADE.

Commissioner Farley Prosecuting Hotels for Excise Violations.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 13.—State Excise Commissioner Farley is continuing his crusade against alleged violators of the excise law in Albany.

Following the recent raids on places in which it is alleged liquor was sold without a license, Commissioner Farley has instituted proceedings against ten hotels and saloons in this city and vicinity for the revocation of their licenses for alleged violations of the excise law.

ELIZABETHAN SILVER SELLS FOR $57,500

Harris Plate, Made from Metal Looted from Spanish Armada, Sold at Christie's.

BIG SUMS FOR AUTOGRAPHS

Letter of Mary, Queen of Scots, Bought by Mr. Huth for $10, Brings $5,125—$4,000 for Another Letter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 13.—At an auction sale at Christie's to-day twenty-two pieces of silver known as the Harris Elizabethan banqueting plate brought £11,500, ($57,500.)

The plate was hidden at the time of the civil war and was discovered accidentally at the beginning of the last century.

The romance of collecting was illustrated at another sale to-day, when a letter written in captivity by Mary, Queen of Scots, which was acquired by the late owner, Alfred Huth, for $10, brought £1,025 ($5,125) at auction at Sotheby's.

There were several other remarkable prices. A letter written by Catharine of Aragon brought $4,000. Mr. Huth paid $130 for it. A letter from another of the wives of Henry VIII., which Mr. Huth got for $135, fetched $875.

The story of the Harris plate reads like some romance of Stevenson. At the time when the Spanish armada had set out to conquer England a certain John Harris commanded thirty-five volunteers on a vessel called the Adwyse, and a relative, William Harris, paid £50, a much larger sum than it is now, toward the defense of his country.

The Harrises, as a reward, obtained a considerable share of the loot from the luckless Spanish ships. In 1581, it is known, the family possessed a few silver-gilt dishes. The spoils from the armada permitted the making of more. Accordingly, the service was extended to fifteen dishes and seven plates, severally hall-marked for the years 1599, 1600, and 1601, and carrying the maker's mark—three trefoils and monograms. Later on the rim of each was engraved with the coat of arms of Sir Christopher Harris.

Time went on, and the civil war began. Sir Christopher's descendant held a command in the royal forces at Plymouth, and became alarmed for the safety of the heirlooms. Accordingly, he had them hidden away in a cave in the parish of Yealmpton, on Dartmoor, and the secret of their hiding place died with him.

For nearly 200 years the Elizabethan banqueting service lay in the ground. Then at Christmas time, 1827, the countryside rang with the story of its discovery by three Dartmoor laborers employed by a Mr. Splat of Brixham, who wished to enlarge the cave for storing potatoes. Both the Crown and Mr. Splat abandoned their claims in favor of the Harris family, and the John Harris of the day came into his own again.

Subsequently, another descendant of the family, Mrs. Cator, of Trewsbury, Cirencester, purchased the service, and by this lady's orders it was offered at Christie's yesterday. When unearthed eighty-four years ago the local experts judged it to be of Queen Anne design. The judges of to-day know better. For years collectors have been endeavoring to purchase the beautiful pieces privately, but have failed.

OPPOSE GRADY POLICE BILL.

Police Chiefs to Ask Senate Committee and Dix to Prevent Its Passage.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 13.—Police Chiefs from all parts of New York State at the annual meeting of their association here to-day unanimously expressed their emphatic disapproval of the Grady bill now before the Legislature at Albany, and a committee was appointed to go before the Senate Rules Committee and Gov. Dix in an effort to defeat the proposed measure.

James W. Rynex, Chief of Police of Schenectady, who is the retiring President, spoke against the Grady bill, saying that it would amend the Penal Law relating to assaults upon or oppression of persons under arrest. The measure, he said, would prohibit the taking of Bertillon measurements and pictures of suspects, and also the questioning of prisoners before conviction except in the presence of counsel. He held that the measure would seriously handicap the police in their legitimate work.

Questions W. H. Boardman's Sanity.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich appointed a committee of three yesterday to examine into the sanity of William H. Boardman. Mrs. Henrietta Hall Boardman of 32 East Fifty-third Street, wife of Boardman, made the application. She says that her husband, who has an income of $25,000 a year, suffered a paralytic stroke on Jan. 28 last and has been unable to transact any business since. He is now at Lewisboro, Westchester County, she told the court, on the advice of a physician.

To Convert Contractors' Assets.

Judge Holt of the United States Circuit Court, in an order made yesterday, authorizes and directs Receivers Hand and Selden of the Elmore & Hamilton Contracting Company, which became insolvent while engaged on contracts for the Catskill Aqueduct, to sell 300 shares of the Washington & Berkeley Bridge Company stock in the State of West Virginia and Maryland at 95 per cent. of its par value, or at a greater price if more can be procured.

Gen. Sickles Addresses State Senate.

ALBANY, June 13.—The Senate was addressed to-day by Major Gen. Daniel E. Sickles of New York, who was a member of the Assembly in 1847 and of the Senate for three years beginning 1855. Gen. Sickles complimented the Senate on its work, and gave some interesting reminiscences of his long political and military career.

CHOLERA HALTS SHIP HERE.

One Death on the Berlin, but City in No Danger, Dr. Doty Says.

The North German Lloyd liner Berlin on arrival at Quarantine yesterday morning from Naples reported that four days after the liner left Naples a steerage passenger was seized with what appeared from examination to be an attack of cholera and died thirty hours later. This is the first case of cholera reported at this port on an incoming steamer for several months.

The Berlin brought 375 cabin passengers and 840 immigrants in the steerage. Dr. Doty ordered the ship to be detained at Quarantine for twenty-four hours, during which time she will be thoroughly disinfected. It is expected that the Berlin will proceed to her pier in Hoboken early to-day and land the cabin passengers. The steerage passengers were removed to Hoffman Island for five days' observation, until all danger of infection has passed.

The Berlin left Naples on June 2, and on June 6, Russo Braggio, an immigrant, was taken ill with violent cramps and other symptoms of cholera. He was buried at sea on June 7.

Dr. Sterzi Ippolito, the Royal Italian Health Commissioner on board the Berlin, and Dr. Kliemann, the ship's surgeon, agreed on the diagnosis of the case. Dr. Ippolito reported the case to Dr. Doty yesterday on the arrival of the Berlin, and after a study of it at Quarantine, at which the two doctors were present, Dr. Doty said the case was plainly one of cholera.

Every precaution was taken to prevent the entrance of the malady into the port, Dr. Doty said. He added that in his opinion the stringent measures taken by the Port Health authorities were thoroughly effective, and that there need be no fear of the dreaded scourge of the East getting a foothold here.

Among the 125 first-class passengers arriving on the Berlin are Harrison S. Morris, Commissioner General of the United States to the exhibition at Rome; Vicente Palacio, Spanish Consul at Callao, Peru; Antonio de la Cierva, Spanish Consul at Havana; Don Francesco Theodili and Donna Beatrice Theodili.

LOSS IS THE RAILROAD'S.

New York Central Must Pay Mrs. Hasbrouck for Missing Jewelry and Money.

ALBANY, June 13.—The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, as lessee of the Boston & Albany Railroad Company, was held responsible to-day by the Court of Appeals for the loss of property valued at $1,500 from the suit case of Mrs. Julia M. Hasbrouck, wife of former Supreme Court Justice Hasbrouck, in May, 1908, at Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Hasbrouck alleged that jewelry and two ten-dollar bills were taken from her suit case while in the possession of a trainman who carried the case from the train to the station steps in Worcester.

The court holds that the printed restriction of a passenger's loss to $100 applies only to checked baggage, and so far as the evidence in this case is concerned the property is still in the possession of the railroad company.

ILLNESS UPSETS A VERDICT.

Judge's Charge Prejudiced Because of It, Says Higher Court.

ALBANY, June 13.—Because the trial Judge, who was in ill-health, undertook duties in the trial of the case "beyond his strength to carry" and created in his charge to the jury an atmosphere prejudicial to the defendant, the Court of Appeals to-day granted a new trial to John Kinney, who was convicted of killing Adolphus Bovia in Jericho, Clinton County, on Dec. 29, 1909.

The Judge has since died.

LIFE JOBS FOR JUSTICES.

Referees at $5,000 a Year After Age of 60—Anti-"Mugging" Bill Passes.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 13.—After a lively debate the Assembly to-day passed the McGrath bill, which provides for a method of pensioning Justices of the Municipal Court. The bill provides that any such Justice who shall be at least 60 years of age and who shall have served in this capacity for at least 25 years shall be made an official referee for life at an annual salary of $5,000.

The Assembly also passed the Grady bill, which defines as assault and makes punishable by imprisonment for not more than one year and not less than six months the photographing by the police of prisoners before conviction or subjecting them to what is commonly known as "the third degree."

The Cuvillier bill providing for the organization of a colored regiment of the National Guard in New York City was passed without objection by the Assembly on a reconsideration of the vote by which it had been defeated earlier in the session.

The Assembly also passed the Foley bill making it a misdemeanor knowingly to make false or misleading statements in advertisements in connection with the sale of real estate.

REICHMANN TRIAL TO-DAY.

Carnegie Trust Head Fails to Get the Indictment Quashed.

Joseph B. Reichmann, former President of the Carnegie Trust Company and one of its Directors at the time it failed, will be placed on trial in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court to-day on an indictment charging him with making a false report to the State Banking Department. Supreme Court Justice Davis denied a motion yesterday to quash the indictment against him.

District Attorney Whitman will conduct the prosecution in person, assisted by Assistant District Attorneys Clark and Delehanty, and by William M. Ivins as special counsel.

WOMAN STRANGLED; POLICE MYSTIFIED

SUICIDE, THE POLICE THINK

Mrs. William W. Simmons was found strangled to death in her bed yesterday morning by her six-year-old daughter in her home at 20 Hunt Place, White Plains. The manner of her death forms as complete a puzzle as any police force was ever called upon to solve.

Around her neck when she was found were two pillow shams, taken from the bed on which she lay. Each one was separately knotted at the back of her neck with a double knot and so tightly tied that Coroner Squires, the first official on the scene, could not get his finger between them and the flesh. Just below the neck the flesh was discolored, as if scratched or bruised, and on the neck were marks that the Coroner said looked as if made by fingers. But the room and bed were undisturbed.

Coroner Squires, Assistant District Attorney Weeks of Westchester County, and Under Sheriff Doyle, each of whom made an investigation, insist that the woman was murdered. Police Capt. Harmon of White Plains believes she committed suicide. The utter lack of established motive for the woman's violent death, and the fact that her two children sleeping in the house and neighbors close at hand heard no unusual sounds during the night are what makes the case so puzzling.

Mrs. Simmons was the wife of an engineer on the Harlem Division of the New York Central Railroad. He left his wife just after 9 o'clock on Monday night, going by train to the Harlem freight yards, where he took a freight train to West Albany. He returned home at 11:30 yesterday morning to find his wife dead and the Coroner in possesion of the place. The police verified his report of his movements and exonerate him.

Later the police appeared to take another view of the case and decided to arrest Simmons. He was taken into custody at 9 o'clock last night, protesting his innocence. His neighbors stood by him and said he could not have had anything to do with Mrs. Simmons's tragis death.

The body was still warm when the police arrived on the scene.

The Simmons home is in a quiet section of White Plains, where there has never been any disorder. Their house is one of a row of two-story, connected buildings in which each family has three upstairs and three downstairs rooms, with separate entrances. The houses are occupied by families in comfortable circumstances.

There are two daughters in the family, 6 and 4 years old, respectively. The children sleep on the second floor in a large room in the front of the house. The mother's room was a small one in the rear. The children have been taught to dress themselves, the mother often boasting of their cleverness to the neighbors. This accounts for the fact that they did not enter her room before 11:30 yesterday morning.

At that time the elder, Lillian, went to call her mother. She saw her lying on the bed and realized that something was wrong. She ran next door and called a neighbor, Mrs. Knapp. The woman returned with her, and immediately called Dr. A. W. Page. He made a hasty examination and then hurried in his automobile to the County Court House, where he knew Coroner Squires of Ossining was attending as a witness.

After examining the body, he called in the police and told them a murder had been committed. The house was searched, but no evidence of the commission of a crime was apparent. The house was nowhere in disorder. In the room in which the body was found the shades were drawn and the gas still burned. Mrs. Simmons's clothing was on a chair. The two pillow shams, soft laundered, were cut off by the Coroner to preserve the knots for examination.

The little girls said there had been not a sound to disturb them during the night. The police went among the neighbors, but got not a clue. One woman recalled that several men had run past in the street in the night, disturbing several of them, but Capt. Harmon later found that they were firemen hurrying to the scene of an explosion half a mile away.

Mrs. Knapp said she had a sick son, into whose room she was called frequently during the night. His room is separated from Mrs. Simmons's bedroom by a thin wall. The boy told the Captain that he could hear what went on in the Simmons house so well that he knew just when the engineer left the house. Yet despite the fact that his illness kept him awake most of the night, he said he had heard no suspicious sounds from the other side of the partition.

Simmons agrees with the police that his wife was not murdered. He is convinced that she took her own life.

He told the police that she had been in delicate health. Neighbors corroborated this and some of the women told of having come into the house at the call of the children and revived her from a fainting condition. The engineer, however, supplied one of the clues that pointed to murder. He said that his wife's purse had contained a little more than $15. The police found it empty. The robbery theory is strengthened by the fact that the back door of the house was found open and that the key was missing. But Simmons was not certain that his wife ever locked the door.

"In my opinion," said the Coroner, "it would have been impossible for Mrs. Simmons to have killed herself with the shams. Allowing that she might have succeeded in double knotting one at the back of her neck, the tightness with which I found it tied would have meant that she never could have survived to tie the other. Moreover, she was a small, delicate woman, and had not the strength to tie the knots, especially at the back of her neck. It takes much less strength to tie them at the throat than in the back.

"There are bruises on her neck made by a hand, and there seem to have been ante-mortem hemorrhages under the skin. The marks on the chest, covering an area about 12 by 4 inches, consist of ten or fifteen of the same ante-mortem hemorrhages. I do not believe she could have done this with her own hands, for I examined her fingernails and found that they are shortened almost to the quick."

The mother of the dead woman has been communicated with by Under Sheriff Doyle, who is making an independent investigation. He expects her to arrive from her home up the State to see him this morning.

CHARGE MORTGAGE FRAUDS.

Creditors Want American Women's League Wound Up.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 13.—Following the filing of two receivership suits to-day in the District Federal Court here, against the corporations directed by T. G. Lewis, President of the American Women's League, it was announced to-night that a special session of the Federal Grand Jury had been called for July 6. Lewis at present is at San Bernardino, Cal., a few miles from the Mexican border.

One suit is a general creditors' bill against all the Lewis corporations, asking for a receiver to wind up the affairs of the league. The other is a foreclosure action against the University Heights Realty Company, the Peoples' Savings Trust Company, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Nathan Frank, as trustees of the league.

It is charged in the suits that Lewis and his associates advertised the issue of $600,000 of 6 per cent. real estate notes, to be secured by a first lien on real estate, when, as a matter of fact, there already existed a first deed of trust against the property for $400,000. It is also charged that lots to the value of $200,000 were released without the knowledge or consent of the mortgage holders. It is alleged that these were transferred to the University Heights Realty and Development Company.

It is charged also that Lewis resorted to the endless chain methods in all his business transactions; that all his concerns are insolvent, and that Lewis paid all his corporation debts in paper or certificates of indebtedness in new corporations.

It is said that the total indebtedness is more than $5,000,000 and that Lewis's personal expenses as representative of the American Women's League averaged $6,000 a week. The league was established about three years ago and has ramifications throughout the United States and Canada.

The majority of the members are persons of moderate means, and many have invested their savings in the Lewis projects.

The foreclosure suits were filed by D. S. Mersereau of New York, R. L. Wood of Pennsylvania, Minnie Owen of New York, Robena and John S. Morrison of Michigan, Charles A. McFarland of Iowa, and Sarah E. Mott of Pennsylvania. There are 233 petitions in the general creditors' suit headed by Mrs. Wilbur R. Force of New York.

NO MONEY FOR SEWER FIGHT.

Aldermen Refuse to Vote $50,000 for a Contest with Jersey Commission.

The Aldermen refused yesterday to appropriate $50,000 revenue bonds to pay the expenses of a suit for an injunction against the State of New Jersey and the Passaic Valley Sewage Commission restraining them from "menacing the health and property of the citizens of New York" by reason of the alleged pollution of the waters of the harbor.

An order of the United States Supreme Court provides for the appointment of a Commissioner to take testimony, which must be concluded by March, 1912. The testimony, it was stated by Acting Corporation Counsel Sterling, would include that of sanitation specialists, chemists, bacteriologists, engineers, and physicians and will also embrace a large volume of analytical work comprising more than 4,000 chemical analyses, 2,000 bacteriological examinations, and a long series of tests to determine salinity, oxygen percentage, observations on tidal phenomena, and geodetic surveys. Mr. Sterling's report further states:

"The Passaic Valley trunk sewer will drain 103 miles of New Jersey's most populous region and discharge near the New York City line over 360,000,000 gallons of crude sewage per day, an amount far beyond the power of our harbor waters to assimilate. This would be a continuous menace to the welfare and property of our large population.

"The evidence presented will be entirely scientific and will necessitate securing the services of men of the greatest eminence and professional reputation."

Objections were made by Aldermen Nicoll and Downing of Brooklyn. Nicoll was willing to give $25,000, but Downing said that he would not favor the giving of 1 cent "until the Corporation Counsel reconizes the judicial powers of the Board of Aldermen and the rights of Brooklyn."

Several Aldermen explained that Downing evidently meant "legislative" and not "judicial" powers. Downing, however, refused to correct himself, and as the measure required unanimous consent it was sent to the Finance Committee for consideration.

JAILS SPEEDING CHAUFFEUR.

Ran Away from Police and May Have to Spend Thirty Days in Jail.

David Daggett, a rather youthful chauffeur of 233 West Thirty-seventh Street, was somewhat scornful to a policeman yesterday, and as a result he was fined $30, with the alternative of spending thirty days on Blackwell's Island, by Magistrate O'Connor in the Yorkville Court.

Daggett was going up Fifth Avenue with the large touring car of his employer, C. Richardson of 35 East Thirtieth Street.

A large volume of smoke was pouring out of the automobile when Patrolman John Bullman of the Health Squad, who is stationed at Fifty-second Street to watch that particular sort of thing, hailed Daggett.

"Well?" inquired Daggett.

"Your auto is smoking," replied Bullman, "and I will give you a summons to appear in court."

Daggett put on full speed and whisked onward.

Bullman blew his whistle, and Mounted Patrolman Frisch put his hand up to Daggett to stop. Daggett only laughed, and speeded up Fifth Avenue at the rate of thirty miles an hour. Frisch impressed a passing automobile and gave chase. At Fifty-sixth Street Daggett turned west, and kept up a lively speed until he was overtaken by Frisch at Broadway.

The chauffeur was taken to a cell. Unless his fine is paid he will spend the next month in jail.

EX-FIGHTERS MAKE TROUBLE IN MEXICO

OROZCO AND HIS MEN ANGRY

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, June 13.—The necessity of disbanding or in some way removing the armed Maderist forces from the cities of Mexico is accentuated by troubles, more or less serious, which are occurring daily. A number of arrests have been made in this city, those arrested including several officers, and have resulted in bad blood between the Maderists and the police.

The press of the capital is almost unanimous in demanding relief from a situation fast becoming unbearable—armed men girdled with at least three cartridge belts stalking with clanking spurs into restaurants, cars, and theatres.

Gen. Navarro, the defender of Juarez, appeared in the streets here to-day and received a continual ovation. He is popular with Maderists and Federals alike.

MEXICO CITY, June 13.—Soldiers who distinguished themselves in the futile defense of Juarez to-day raised such a row over their alleged grievances that mounted police had to disperse them and their supporters. No shots were fired. They were not regulars, but a band of volunteers, who fought under Gen. Navarro.

CUERNAVACA, June 13.—Though Señor Madero came here primarily to review the insurrecto troops, he really accomplished a great work toward pacifying the State of Morelos, giving relief to Americans and other foreigners who have been terrorized by the presence of 4,000 insurgents.

Madero left here to-day for Balsas after having conferred with Gen. Zapata, who is on none too friendly terms with Gen. Figueroa, the head of the rebel army of the South, and with Gen. Anunsolo, the representative of Figueroa here.

CHIHUAHUA, June 13.—Mexico's post-revolution military comedy continued to-day. Four thousand Federal troops, commanded by three Generals, are patrolling the streets, determined that the victorious army under Gen. Orozco shall not enter the city. Orozco's force extends north along the railroad thirty miles, with headquarters at Sause.

The insurrectos make no effort to conceal their anger. They say that while reports come to them of banquets being served in Mexico City, they, in spite of peace, are kept in the field on short rations.

Orozco, at Sause, frankly expressed displeasure at the failure of the Federal authorities to turn the city over to his forces. Many of Orozco's followers have openly declared that if the Federals do not soon evacuate the insurrecto army will enter in a body.

All the insurrectos desire is to enter the city, led by a brass band, carrying their arms and with flags flying, and thus to march through the streets. A triumphal procession is their notion of a proper reward for military services.

FOURTEEN AMERICANS FREED

With Other Prisoners Captured by Federals at Casas Grandes.

CHIHUAHUA, June 13.—All the political prisoners in the penitentiary here, including fourteen Americans and two Germans captured in the battle of Casas Grandes, were liberated last night.

All the prisoners of war will be paid from the time of their enlistment.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The American prisoners captured by the Federals at the battle of Casas Grandes on March 6 and released from prison in Chihuahua yesterday, are R. C. Beck of Mount Pleasant, Penn.; William Current, Erick, Oklahoma; O. O. Franks, Santa Ana, Cal.; W. F. Fowler, Fort Worth, Texas; J. W. Graham, Oklahoma City; John Harrison Farnsworth, Mentone, Cal.; B. D. Hemenway, Fort Wayne, Ind.; William Huggard, New York City; Bruce R. Jacoby, Minneapolis; J. H. Jones, Duluth, Minn.; R. C. Lee, Washington, Mo.; Floyd A. Martin, Denver, Col.; C. H. Rice, San Francisco, and Sidney Severns, New York City.

The State Department has been watching over the welfare of the prisoners, and as soon as the peace compact was signed the American Consul at Chihuahua was instructed to request that they be set at liberty.

WARRINER TELLS OF THEFTS.

Admits He Stole $643,000 from Big Four and Accuses Cooke Also.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 13.—Edgar Street Cooke, who is being prosecuted for the theft of $24,000 from the Big Four Railroad, thinks he could possibly secure the dismissal of the present indictment against him by testifying that he was discharged by the company on Dec. 13, 1901. The indictment charges him with the theft of this money on Dec. 14, 1901.

When Attorney Baker asked Charles L. Warriner, former Treasurer of the road, and now a convict in the Ohio Penitentiary, what he would say if Baker showed him by the books of the company that Cooke was discharged on Dec. 13, 1901, Warriner answered that he guessed that date was right. At any rate, Cooke says that the trial will go on because he wishes to say a few things when he takes the stand. These will be regarding the officers of the road and their business methods.

Warriner was on the stand almost all day. For three hours he was grilled by Lawyer Baker for Cooke. Warriner admitted that Auditor Hewitt, now occupying a position with the road in Buffalo, must have known that there was crooked work.

Warriner also admitted that before Cooke left the office as an employe Treasurer Frank Comstock, Auditor Hewitt, and himself had examined Cooke's accounts and certified to their correctness.

When Cooke left, Warriner said, he knew Cooke was short $24,000, and he had obtained only $2,000 of this amount from Cooke. He said Cooke had agreed to make the loss good.

Warriner said he had stolen $643,000 from the road. Asked as to his present circumstances he said that his home in Wyoming, a suburb of Cincinnati, is now the property of the Big Four, but that his wife and family live there.

Much interest was attached to Baker's intimation that two high officials of the road were anxious that Cooke should take Mrs. Jeanette Ford to some other city in order that they might be free from her demands.

Baker says he will not rest until he finds out why the cash books from the Big Four offices for the years 1900 to 1904 were destroyed. "I am informed that they were not destroyed until the news of Warriner's shortage became public property," said he.

HELD FOR POISONING CHILD.

Special to The New York Times.

DELAWARE, Ohio, June 13.—Mrs. Joseph Way Henkle, accused of poisoning her stepdaughter, was acquainted with Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk of Wheeling, West Va., and Mrs. Henkle's first husband died suddenly, according to Dr. R. M. Wilson of Martin's Ferry, Ohio. Dr. R. M. Wilson is a brother of Dr. H. E. Wilson, who attended Mrs. Henkle's first husband previous to the latter's death.

Miss Merle Henkle, the stepdaughter, is still in the hospital in a serious condition. Physicians who analyzed the contents of her stomach say they took therefrom two drams of arsenic. The County Prosecutor and County Detective say that they have eidence that the poison was administered to the girl in a glass of grape juice. They charge that Mrs. Henkle gave the girl the poison.

According to the Martin's Ferry physician, Mrs. Henkle, who was then Mrs. Way, was a neighbor of Mrs. Schenk in Wheeling. Mrs. Schenk was accused of poisoning her husband with arsenic. Mrs. Henkle was bound over to await the September Grand Jury to-day under $2,000. B. F. Atkinson of Caldwell, father of the accused woman, arrived to-day and furnished the $2,000 bail.

"It is absurd to think that Mrs. Henkle is mixed in anything of this kind," he said. "I would hate to think that I have raised a daughter who would do such a low, contemptible thing as that which she is charged with. She is as innocent as you are, and the courts will find her so. I have come here to help her out of this affair, and I expect to use every reasonable and fair influence to see that she is freed of the charge."

"That woman can never face me on this charge," the stepdaughter said. "She knows that she poisoned me, and she knows that she hates me. And just as sure as she escapes the law in this case my life will not be safe. I will not be able to go back home, or anywhere else, as far as that is concerned."

Steinert May Go to Special Sessions.

Magistrate Steinert, according to a City Hall rumor, is to be appointed a Justice of Special Sessions to succeed Justice Wyatt, whose term will expire on July 1. It is also understood that Magistrate Freschi, who has been taking Magistrate Crane's place for several months, has been tentatively selected to fill Magistrate Steinert's unexpired term. Ex-Police Justice Sweetzer will be assigned temporarily to serve during the incapacity of Magistrate Crane.

'EFFICIENCY' SPEECH MADE TO WORKERS

Advocate of Time and Labor Saving Was Not Liked at First in the Labor Temple.

APPLAUDED AT THE END

He Said When Things Were Just Right the Laborer Wouldn't Have to Work More Than 4½ Hours a Day.

An advocate of the new science of "efficiency engineering" appeared in the Labor Temple last night in order to demonstrate to workingmen how they would gain when things were so that half the number of laborers now required would be sufficient to accomplish any given job. He was not very warmly received. He was asked who paid him to come, and if it was not the allied manufacturers, and wherein his scheme of higher gearing of life by utilizing the time taken to light an occasional cigarette or the measurement of the foot power or horse power of energy consumed in absorbing a glass of beer, was going to profit the free worker.

Through much heckling the efficiency advocate held his ground firmly, and at the end won warm applause. He was H. F. Stimpson, an engineer, with an office in the Singer Building. He declared he had volunteered to come only because he knew the laboring men were wondering how they were going to benefit, and felt he could answer the question, as he had heard it put at a meeting in the same hall last week.

"In the first place," said he, "the laborer is strictly up against one sad proposition: his employer, so long as he is able to, will want to get all he can get out of his laborer for the least he is required to pay. We cannot expect any higher altruism to soften the heart of the employer in this regard.

"So the laborer must yield to efficiency methods, for he cannot help doing that, and at the same time must offset the loss he will have to bear by extra activity as a citizen. While I cannot see where the laborer will win anything by direct appeals to his employer's generosity, I can see where he can win a vast amount by a proper use of his citizenship.

"Efficiency, in other words, has got to be carried from the methods of production to the methods of consumption—from the factory to commerce, where waste is more widespread than in any other field of human endeavor.

"The fact is that the ordinary purchaser knows nothing about the cost of the thing he buys. He cannot know in the very nature of things. Now that's all wrong, and efficiency engineering will have to come into play just there. It costs an exact amount in labor effort and brain effort to produce every article. Therefore that article has an exact value, and it is stealing to charge more for it than its actual value comes to. The result is that one-third of the people, say, work all the time, and two-thirds work none of the time, to produce the goods the world needs.

"Now, obviously, the capitalist or employer should not have the final power in fixing the value of goods produced. As long as he can do that the laborer is certain to get only what the employer has to give him. And the laborer should not have that power, for he is not likely to measure justly the interest of the employer nor the interest of the consumer.

"There is one power that could be fair to all. This is the power of the general government. The Government's efficiency engineers could determine just how much energy a human worker can expend each day without overstrain and overwork and the wreck of his own body—all he has to offer to the world as an engine of energy. I do not speak for government ownership—not that, nor Socialism. What I am getting at is strong government regulation.

"Efficiency nowhere contemplates the consumption of more of the laborer's energy, but only the utilization of the energy now consumed so as to eliminate waste. It contemplates the reduction of energy in every case where the energy is over the point of healthful strain. The future I see for efficiency engineering is that, properly and universally applied, the work day for every laborer can be reduced to about four and one-half hours. Thus, efficiency, properly bulwarked for the interests of all, would mean that, instead of throwing a large part of us out of work, all of us could get along on much less work than we have to do.

"Until as citizens the laborers can force the Government to act, they must fall in with the programme and take what proportion of the benefits they can win from the conditions that now prevail. If unionized, the laborers must learn that they can employ efficiency engineers as readily as their employers."

At the University's Annual Commencement Degrees Are Granted to 210 Seniors.

GOV. WILSON SIGNS DIPLOMAS

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 13.—Princeton University held its 164th annual commencement in Alexander Hall to-day, when 268 degrees were conferred, the graduating class alone numbering 210. Dean Henry B. Fine presided at the graduation exercises and presented the diplomas, and Secretary Charles W. McAlpin of the university awarded the fellowships and prizes. The salutatory address was delivered in Latin by Lawrence Maxwell Bament of East Orange, N. J., and the valedictory by Alexander Tilton Schauck of Princeton. The exercises closed with the singing of "Old Nassau."

There were ninety Bachelors of Art, sixty-two Bachelors of Letters, seventeen Bachelors of Science, and forty-one Civil Engineers, thirty-five Masters of Arts, three Electrical Engineers, one Doctor of Philosophy, two Civil Engineers as of the class of 1910, one Bachelor of Science as of the class of 1907, and three recipients of honorary degrees.

In the Graduate School, Dean Andrew Fleming West awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity to the Rev. Charles Samuel Thompson of New York, Secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian General Assembly; the Right Rev. Edwin Steven Lines, Bishop of Newark; the Rev. Hugh Black, Professor of Practical Theology in the Union Theological Seminary of New York.

The degree of Doctor of Science was awarded to John Alfred Brasher; that of Doctor of Laws to John R. Mott of Montclair, N. J.; to George Lockhart Rives of New York, and to Johannas Maria Degroot of Seydon, Holland. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was also conferred on the Rev. William Nesbitt Chambers, for thirty-two years a missionary in Asiatic Turkey.

Weiller, W. L. Whitman, B. T. Woodle; and H. G. Buckingham and A. J. Donovan as of the class of 1910.

An announcement was made yesterday at Princeton's Cannon exercises that the diplomas of all seniors left at the university offices to-day would be signed by Gov. Woodrow Wilson and returned to-morrow morning between 9 and 10 o'clock.

A large number of graduates left their sheepskins and Gov. Wilson signed them to-night at the State House at Trenton. Dr. Wilson conducted classes at the beginning of the academic year, and would have signed all diplomas as President if he had not resigned.

GOV. POTHIER URGES HONESTY.

Rhode Island's Executive Addresses Manhattan College Graduates.

Gov. Aram J. Pothier of Rhode Island, addressing the class of twenty-eight graduates of Manhattan College at the graduating exercises in Carnegie Hall last night, told the young men that the virtues of veracity and honesty were more needed in this age than at any other time in the history of the country, and that the solutions of the most serious National problems of the day would only be reached by the pursuit of these virtues. He received the degree of Doctor of Laws, and to Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, an alumnus of the college, was awarded a like honor. Archbishop Farley presided.

When the seven scholarship prizes were announced, John F. Brosnan, one of the orators of the evening, came to the front three times, claiming, in turn, the English Essay Prize of $50, the Kelly Medal for Philosophy, and the Grady Memorial Medal for Oratory; in addition he received honorable mention for competition for the Cohalan Medal for Civil Engineering.

To Michael J. Lynch was awarded the Herman Ridder Purse of $50 for Experimental Physics; to Joseph L. McGoldrick the Doelger Medal for German, the Milmo McGowan Medal for religious instruction, and the Cohalan Medal for Civil Engineering, both went to Joseph T. Kiernan. The graduates are:

BACHELOR OF ARTS.—J. V. O'Leary, J. J. Donovan, J. L. Scanlon, and J. Monahan.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN CIVIL ENGINEERING.—J. T. Kiernan, J. F. Brosnan, W. C. Roux, F. A. Dee, J. R. McCarney, F. J. Began, E. B. McGuire, J. M. Holahan, G. J. Meise, W. J. Broderick, W. B. Carroll, J. T. Ryan, J. B. Martin, E. D. Kennelly, J. J. Donahue, T. F. Malone, L. D. Connelly, and J. A. Churchill.

MASTER OF ARTS.—W. S. Herns, J. J. Martin.

CIVIL ENGINEER.—J. C. Heinrich, J. E. Salazar, and G. J. Breslin.

NEW BRONX POLICE HEAD.

Waldo Promotes "Sunny" Farrell—Stationary Post Plan Under Way.

Police Commissioner Waldo transferred and promoted yesterday Capt. John J. Farrell, heretofore in command of the West 125th Street Station, to be Inspector with practically all of the Bronx as his territory. The promotion was made only after Commissioner Waldo had interviewed half a score of Captains, occupying himself two days with the work of selection.

Capt. Farrell joined the force in 1886 and four years later was promoted to the rank of roundsman, now known as Sergeant. In 1894 he became what is known now as Lieutenant, and in 1903 got his Captaincy. He is known to his associates as "Sunny" Farrell, and his promotion was received with approbation by all who heard of it last night.

The promotion of Capt. Farrell necessitated other changes, which resulted in the transfer of Capt. James F. Thompson from the West Sixty-eighth Street Station to the West 125th; Capt. Thomas Palmer, from the Gates Avenue (Brooklyn) to the West Sixty-eighth Street; Capt. Alfred Thor, from College Point to Gates Avenue.

Further necessary changes caused the transfer of Inspector Murtha from the Bronx to Williamsburg and Inspector Dennis Sweeney from Williamsburg to Harlem.

Commissioner Waldo spent some time yesterday trying to perfect his plan for stationary posts at critical points. It is his idea to have men stationed at certain points from 11 o'clock at night till 7 in the morning, so that in case of emergency there may be a man near the scene of possible trouble, but above all, so that the residents of the neighborhood may know where to find a policeman with certainty.

It is part of the Commissioner's plan to establish telephone stations at these stationary posts and to mark them also by some special signal light. The difficulty encountered in putting the plan into service is the lack of men in the department, and at the conference yesterday the various captains called to it, brought with them maps of their precincts and also charts showing the workings of the new three-platoon system. All of the captains in consultation concurred with the Commissioner's ideas and work was started selecting the location of the new posts.

Second Deputy Commissioner Dougherty started for Rochester yesterday to attend the convention of Police Chiefs. It will be the first time since the days of Chief Devery that this city will have been represented at such a congress. Mr. Dougherty is to make an address, and besides persuading his brother policemen that New York does not feel itself self-sufficient in the matter of police work, he hopes to inaugurate some reforms. Particular among these is the matter of notifying other cities when men for whom alarms have gone out are captured. At present, alarms for fugitives are sent broadcast, but no care is taken to notify other cities that an arrest has been made and that the fugitive is no longer sought.

GROUT MAKES DENIAL.

Says the Union Bank Didn't Tie Up Realty Through a Loan.

Ex-Controller Edward M. Grout, who was President of the Union Bank of Brooklyn when it closed for the second time in April of last year, made prompt reply yesterday to a statement by Assemblyman Louis E. Goldstein of Brooklyn in which the legislator intimated that the bank had borrowed $500,000 from the Metropolitan Trust Company of Manhattan without the knowledge of the State Banking Department. This was denied by Mr. Grout.

Assemblyman Goldstein has introduced in the Legislature a bill providing for an investigation by a legislative committee of the case of the Union Bank. The measure has not as yet come up for a vote.

"There are several matters about which the depositors want to know the particulars," said the Assemblyman yesterday. "They want to know how and why a loan of $500,000 was obtained from the Metropolitan Trust Company only a few months before the Union Bank closed its doors. They have a right to know, if it is true, that the loan was secured without the knowledge or permission of the State Banking Department. They want to know why it was necessary to pledge all of the valuable real estate assets of the Union Bank to secure this loan of $500,000 and so tie up the assets that the depositors have not been able to get a penny of their deposits since the bank closed.

"They want to know why it was that it cost the Union Bank $100,000, all told, to get this loan of $500,000."

"It is not true," said Mr. Grout, "that the loan of $500,000 from the Metropolitan Trust Company was made without the knowledge of the State Banking Department. The contrary is the fact. This loan was to meet the last of the bank's deferred payments, and no more of the bank's assets were pledged than was necessary to make reasonable security for the loan. It is untrue that it cost the Union Bank $100,000 to get the loan. It is also untrue that the making of that loan has prevented the sale of any of the bank's real estate. It is the condition of the real estate market that has done so."

GEN. WOOD ADVISES WEST POINT CLASS

STIMSON GIVES DIPLOMAS

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 13.—The United States Military Academy gave eighty-two Second Lieutenants to the army to-day and one officer to the army of Venezuela. The occasion was the graduating exercises of the class of 1911, the first under the superintendency of Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, the highest ranking officer, with one exception, who has ever held that place.

The diplomas were presented to the graduates by Henry L. Stimson, the new Secretary of War, while the principal address was made by Major Gen. Leonard Wood, the Chief of the General Staff, who is among those not of West Point, yet who in his address praised West Point and all that it stands for, and added that he hoped the day was coming when all officers of the regular army would be graduates of the institution.

The graduation exercises were to have taken place in the open and arrangements had been made for the seating of 2,000 persons on the parade ground. A heavy downpour of rain, however, made this part of the programme impossible, and the young officers received their diplomas in Cullom Hall instead. Under command of Lieut. Col. Sladen, the Commandant of Cadets, the entire corps of cadets marched from the barracks to Cullom Hall, where the first class men fell out of ranks, and, forming a column by themselves, marched into the hall followed by the other three classes.

On the stage besides Secretary of War Stimson, Gen. Wood, and Gen. Barry, were Mgr. O'Keeffe of Highland Falls, Gen. Horace Porter, Gen. J. Ford Kent, Gen. Charles Morton, Loyall Farragut of the academic staff of the Academy, and the higher ranking of the tactical officers. Among those of the academic staff was Col. Samuel E. Tillman, head of the Department of Chemistry, who this year retires after a service of forty years as a professor at the Academy.

The first part of the day's exercises were in honor of Col. Tillman. Gen. Barry, in referring to his retirement, paid a glowing tribute to the old soldier and voiced on behalf of West Pointers the love which all of them entertain for Col. Tillman.

Col. Tillman thanked Gen. Barry for the nice things he had said and assured him that the forty-two years of continuous service to which he referred had been the pleasantest of his career. Col. Tillman referred to his own graduation when he received his diploma from Gen. Sherman, and alluded to the fact that he had signed the diplomas of thirty-four successive classes of West Pointers. Perfect truth and perfect frankness, he said, was and always should be the aim of officers of the American Army. After Col. Tillman came Gen. Wood, the Chief of the General Staff.

"Gen Wood," said Gen. Barry in introducing the Chief of the General Staff, "has by his indomitable will, energy, and ability risen to the head of the United States Army. He is interested in West Point at all times and he has shown it by leaving his busy desk to come here to-day."

"I am glad, indeed," said Gen. Wood, "to have this opportunity to say a word of appreciation of this institution, and I am particularly glad to welcome the class of 1911 into the United States Army. Your course of training, if kept up, will bring you success. It has been my good fortune to have known many graduates of West Point in all parts of the world, and they have never failed no matter what they were called upon to do, even down to the organization of schools in strange lands. When I look at you and realize that I am getting older, I have a feeling of envy for you young gentlemen. If I should suggest anything as to your future careers, I would say that the chief characteristics of an officer and gentleman are courtesy and consideration for others. Be especially courteous and considerate to your subordinates. Remember that each man has his self-respect, and if that self-respect is destroyed then the soldier is destroyed too. There is not much money in the career before you, but there is much honor. Remember that you represent the best military academy in the world. I can say it because I am not of the academy. I hope that some day we shall be able to officer the army entirely with West Pointers. Good men will come into the service in other ways, but, all things being equal, the man from West Point makes the best officer. I wish each of you all success."

In introducing Secretary Stimson as the next speaker Gen. Barry referred to Mr. Stimson's defeat for Governor of New York last year.

"A great many," said Gen. Barry, "still believe that he should have been elected Governor. But we are all glad that he was not and we are proud to have him where he is."

Secretary Stimson in his address said that in its second century West Pointers would have more important problems to solve than did their distinguished predecessors of the Academy's first century. He referred to the responsibilities of the officers of the different branches of the service.

He then delivered the diplomas, Gen. Barry standing at his right and Gen. Wood at his left. As each cadet came forward he grasped him by the hand with a word or two of congratulation.

The first cadet was Fleming of Iowa, the first honor man of 1911. Fleming got a noisy greeting from the cadets massed behind him and blushed like a schoolgirl when the Secretary intimated that it took a mighty smart youngster to lead a class of West Pointers in scholarship. Next in standing was Cadet Stewart of Pennsylvania, then Mehaffey of Ohio, Ranicke of Pennsylvania, Wheeler of Illinois, Hardigg of Indiana, Nance, Kutz, Schimmelferig, Lawrence, Bowley, Baxter, Franke, and Beatty, these being the cadets who, by reason of standing, were entitled to enter the Corps of Engineers.

Every graduate got a noisy reception from the cadets, but the noise that followed the calling of four names indicated that these were probably the most popular among their fellows. First in the volume of sound that greeted his name was Thomas Jonathan Jackson Christian of North Carolina, a grandson of "Stonewall" Jackson and a fine football player. When the tall, handsome young officer stepped forward the cheers fairly shook the rafters. Hardly less in volume was the reception given to Weir, Captain of the 1910 football team, Surles, another of the football men, and March-Duplat, the Venezuelan who received a West Point education by special authorization of Congress.

At noon the exercises were over. To-morrow morning the corps goes into camp for the Summer.

CADETS CHEER "PINK LADY."

Last night was West Point night at the New Amsterdam Theatre, and the auditorium, decorated with National flags and the colors of the academy, rang with West Point songs and class cheers. Almost all of the seats were occupied by the graduating class, the "furlough class," and the officers of the Cadet Corps, with their friends, relatives, and companions, and they had the usual good time.

"The Pink Lady," the New Amsterdam play, does not offer possibilities for interpolated speeches, but the orchestra played the West Point music, and the future saviors of the country found that sufficient. The evening-dressed Second Lieutenants and the gray-coated "furlough men" devoted the entreacts to cheers and excursions to the street.

BURNED IN CHEMICAL FIRE.

Albany Works Destroyed by Explosion in Which Superintendent Is Killed.

ALBANY, June 13.—One man is dead, one is missing, and six others are in a serious condition in hospitals as the result of an explosion in the distilling room of the Albany Chemical Works on Van Rensselaer Island this afternoon.

Fire which burst out all over the works immediately after the explosion destroyed the greater part of the plant, causing a loss estimated at $100,000, and threatened the plants of the Standard and Texas Oil Companies, where 4,000,000 gallons of oil and gasoline are stored. So great was the danger that the fire-fighting apparatus of the Standard Oil Company was made ready for action, and men stationed near the monster tanks.

The missing man is Frank F. Adams, Superintendent of the works, who was seen to fall inside the building in the path of the advancing flames. John J. Flannigan, helper to his father, who was engineer at the plant, died three hours after the accident from his injuries.

Those most seriously injured are Henry Quinn, chemist, badly burned and will probably die; Lambert G. Bleecker, laborer, body burned, may die; Wilson Brierley, steam fitter, both arms broken, body burned, may die; John J. Flannigan, Sr., engineer, badly bruised, will probably die; Patrick J. Burns, engineer, scalp wound and burns, has chance of recovery; William Sherry, steamfitter, arms and body burned, may recover.

The cause of the disaster is problematical, but it is supposed that a tank containing hundreds of gallons of acetone, a preparation used in making photograph films and a solvent for smokeless powder, burst and detonated other tanks containing high explosives. The shock of the explosion was felt for miles, and a mass of flame and dense black smoke shot skyward.

The foreman of a gang of men laying a water pipe for the chemical works said afterward that he was about 300 feet from the structure and heard a slight explosion, closely followed by a violent one. The ground shook beneath his feet, he said, and when he looked up the whole side of the building crumbled and fire burst from every window.

Burns, the engineer, was hurled through a window and thrown 350 feet into a swamp, landing in water deep enough to break his fall. Two others, Quinn and Sherry, were hurled some distance and fell side by side.

Henry Allen, the shipping clerk, was inside the structure and was shoved backward through the door. He says he saw Adams fall face downward a few feet from him.

Firemen were hampered by the continual explosions of cans of chemicals, and several times they were forced to retreat when massive tanks containing explosives ripped open and sent out seething volumes of flame and smoke. When the cannonading of the exploding tanks ceased the fire was speedily brought under control.

Mrs. Garden Sues for Alimony.

Lillian T. Garden, who got an award of $12 a week temporary alimony in 1893 against her husband, Alfred L. Garden, in a divorce suit which has never been brought to trial, says that Garden, who is now in Nice, France, owes her $15,000 back alimony. She obtained permission yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Giegerich to sue a piano company in Philadelphia, bonds of which Garden is said to hold, to restrain interest payments to him and compel the company to deliver bonds to her.

RIO GRANDE PASSES REGULAR DIVIDEND

On Advice of Bankers, Directors So Vote for the First Time in Ten Years.

EARNINGS UP TO THE MARK

But Owing to Interest Requirements on Western Pacific Bonds a Conservative Policy Was Adopted.

Directors of the Denver & Rio Grande, at their adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon, voted to pass the usual preferred dividend, in accordance with the recommendations of the Gould bankers. The company had an unbroken dividend record for the past ten years.

Although this action had been expected since the postponement of action at last Thursday's meeting, the news of the omission had a depressing effect on the stock. The preferred opened at 62½ and sold up to 63¼ before the meeting, after which it broke to 59¾. It closed at 59⅞, a loss of 2¾ points. There was a sudden increase in the activity of the issue, 12,200 shares being traded in. Denver & Rio Grande common declined only half a point.

It was reported before last week's meeting that the regular semi-annual payment of 2½ per cent. would be declared, even though part of it had to be made up from the previous surplus. Speyer & Co. and Blair & Co. opposed continuing the dividend on the ground that the company will be called upon for interest on the Western Pacific bonds, and George J. Gould intimated last week that their advice would be followed.

The following statement was given out after yesterday's meeting:

"The Directors concluded that current income should first of all protect the guarantees of the company as well as its fixed charges, and, after careful consideration, they unanimously decided to follow a strictly conservative course and forego declaring the usual semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent., even though the gross operating revenues for the current fiscal year (two months estimated) will approximate $23,500,000, compared with $23,563,436 for the preceding year, and the net revenue, exclusive of taxes, $7,500,000, against $7,779,467 a year ago.

"Operating expenses this year include depreciation charges, under Inter-State Commerce Commission method of accounting, approximating $500,000; whereas there were no such charges against operation expenses heretofore. Without this depreciation charge the estimated surplus for the current fiscal year would approximate that of last year. The cash balances to-day are about $2,000,000, and there is no floating debt, but in view of the guarantee of the interest on Western Pacific first mortgage bonds, the Directors concluded to take the safe course of temporarily suspending dividends on preferred stock and applying the amount, about $1,250,000, in payment of the semi-annual interest, due Sept. 1, on $50,000,000 of Western Pacific 5 per cent. bonds. It was deemed best to follow this extremely prudent policy and thus conserve the cash resources of the company as well as its other treasury assets, and insure beyond question its ability to meet its guarantee on the bonds and also protect its $50,000,000 of Western Pacific stock.

"Delay in completion of Western Pacific in accordance with the engineer's estimate has been disappointing, but the unfinished construction work is being gradually closed up and arrangements are being made for applying the standard operating methods of accounting, commencing with the new fiscal year, so that for July, and thereafter, monthly statements of earnings, expenses, &c., will be published."

INSPECTORS FIND MANY WATER LEAKS

Sixty Per Cent. of the Houses They Visited Were Using the Supply Recklessly.

MAYOR OPPOSES METERS

Thinks Their Installation Would Encourage Undue Water Economy and Unsanitary Homes.

When the first group of thirty special Inspectors sent out by Water Commissioner Thompson to detect the points where the water supply of the city is being wasted turned in their figures yesterday for the day's work, it was learned that they had found leaks in 60 per cent. of the houses they entered. The very walls of the Water Department offices in Park Row seemed to be saying, "I thought as much," for in the face of the danger of a water famine, Commissioner Thompson has always felt that the first step should be in the direction of checking needless waste.

The district visited by the Inspectors, green from the civil service lists, was the upper east side, between Eighty-sixth and 110th Streets, an area of indifferent property management which, it was supposed, would furnish more leaks than any other part of the city. The thirty by no means completed their survey of the district, and yesterday their number was increased to fifty-five. Others will be added up to 150, until the entire city is subject to inspection.

The Inspectors will return to the visited houses after a space of four days, and if the leak has not been repaired in the interval there will be a fine of $2 a leak, and this will constitute a lien on the property. Failure to repair then leaves the householder liable to have his water supply cut off without notice.

Although Commissioner Thompson never lets any one lose sight of the fact that we are by no means out of the woods yet, it is plain that the water affairs of the city are looking up a little. Monday night poured nearly as much water on the Croton watershed as did Saturday night, the average rainfall measuring something more than .55 of an inch, adding roughly nearly two billion gallons more to the reserve.

When, toward the end of April, Commissioner Thompson sounded his first warning, the reserve store was about fifty-four billions, as compared with eighty-eight billions at the same time last year. On that small reserve, the city was obliged to draw little by little, so that at the end of last week, just before the heavens opened, the reserve had dropped to about fifty billions.

Monday's Rainfall.

Monday night's rain on the watershed—the figures being taken from 8 in the evening to 8 in the morning—were as follows: Boyd's Corner, .61; Middle Branch, .63; East Branch, .43; West Branch, .55; Titicus, .56; Cross River, .60; Croton Falls, .52, and Croton Lake, .52. The rainfall in Manhattan was lighter, only .31 falling in Central Park.

In the matter of rainfall, June has surpassed herself, and has already given the city more water than any other month except February. Up to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon 3.09 inches represents the rainfall for the first thirteen days in June, a month whose normal total is only 3.26 inches.

The rainfall in January was only 2.27, compared with a normal of 3.79; February had 3.17, when it should have had at least 3.74; March fell below a normal of 4.10 by more than an inch, and April had 3.06, when the normal for that month is 3.30. May was worse than any, for its normal is 3.18, and it had less than an inch. The first five months of the year, then, had furnished only 12.28 inches of rain, when a whole year should bring the city 44.63. Even June started off lamely, so that up to Saturday night it, too, was below the normal. Then came the storms, one after another, and June has almost reached its normal for the entire month.

Commissioner Thompson is particularly gratified at the response which has met his appeal from the schoolchildren. He took his story of needless waste to Supt. Maxwell, and the children report to their teachers where they have seen leaking faucets, traps, and what not, with the addresses and names of the offenders.

From the Commissioner's office yesterday a warning was issued lest the public allow itself to be alarmed into what might be embarrasing contracts with certain private water waste prevention companies. He has been told that at least one such company is soliciting business on the assertion that it can prevent property holders from getting into serious difficulty with the department.

"All that these people have to do is to stop any leaks they may have, and they will have no difficulties with this department," the Commissioner said.

Mayor Against Meters.

Throughout the discussion of an impending water famine, it has been frequently suggested that it would be well to put water meters in the dwellings of the city. In a letter to Secretary Harding of the High Bridge Taxpayers' Alliance, Mayor Gaynor expressed himself yesterday as strongly opposed to such a plan. Here is his letter:

>
> Dear Mr. Harding: Your favor of June 12 is at hand. I entirely agree with you in regard to putting water meters in dwellings. I do not believe in charging for water according to meter for domestic purposes, or for use in dwellings or tenements. I examined the matter very carefully over a year ago and came to that conclusion, and I see no reason to depart from it.
>
> If heads of houses had to pay for water according to meter, they would be uneasy when their wives and children took baths, for such is human nature. The result would be discomfort and uncleanliness. Every one would hesitate to take a bath sooner than add to the household expense. This would be particularly so among the poor and people of moderate means.
>
> I believe in getting an inexhaustible source of water supply and letting every one use all the water he or she wants for washing and bathing and domestic purposes. That is necessary to keep the community clean and in a good sanitary condition. Tell your association to stick to this. Sincerely yours,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

By 9 o'clock yesterday morning the Western Union wires between Washington and New York were restored from the disorder caused by the storm which struck the head of the Chesapeake on Monday evening. Communication had to take such roundabout courses as by way of Pittsburg, Cincinnati, and St. Louis. The section along the Chesapeake has given no end of trouble in past storms, the day of President's Taft inauguration being a memorable instance.

The completion of the underground cable between the two cities will prevent such difficulties in the future, and the telegraph companies were able to announce yesterday that after a week or two more such havoc as was raised on Monday cannot be repeated, for by that time the cable will be completed. The cable which is being laid by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is already completed between New York and Philadelphia, and only a little work is left to be finished between Philadelphia and Washington. It will be used jointly by the Western Union and the American Telephone and Telegraph, the latter company planning to use it for its long-distance business.

This Summer, it is promised, will see the completion of the underground cable between New York and Boston, a task undertaken by the same company. The two links will cover a distance of 473 miles. The Washington cable, weighing 3,000 tons and costing several million dollars, carries 148 wires, capable of bearing at the same time to any one point 99 telephone messages and 296 telegrams. The route between Baltimore and Washington is the same as that over which Prof. Morse, inventor of the telegraph, planned to lay an underground telegraph conduit sixty-seven years ago.

Brief word of many disasters due to the storm of Monday night kept coming from the South yesterday. Reports from Newport News estimated that perhaps fifteen fishermen had been drowned at Hampton Roads and in the James River. The engineer of the southbound Federal Express brought his train to a stop at the sight of a red light in the signal tower at Elkton, Md. No one came down from the tower and, wondering, he went up to find the operator lying unconscious on the floor. He had been struck by lightning.

Near Magnolia, Md., the engineer of the northbound Colonial Express brought his train to a stop with violent abruptness. As it was, the locomotive crashed into a tree that had fallen athwart the track, and the trainmen had no easy task in chopping it out. The same train found three other prostrate trees ahead.

MAYOR COMMENDS HIGHWAYS SOCIETY

GARDEN LABOR FOR THEM

Playgrounds Also Being Provided to Vary the Monotony and Keep Them from Street Dangers.

President Thomas N. Rhinelander of the National Highways Protective Association received a letter yesterday from Mayor Gaynor commending the work of the Junior Branch of the association in trying to prevent accidents to children by keeping them from playing in the streets. This is the Mayor's letter:

> CITY OF NEW YORK.
> June 9, 1911.
> Dear Mr. Rhinelander: My attention has been called to the work of your Junior Branch of the National Highways Protective Society. Your efforts to safeguard the children of the city against loss of life and injury in the streets, and to provide them with playgrounds are most laudable. It is very gratifying to see private citizens engaging in such work. Sincerely yours,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Col. Edward S. Cornell, Secretary of the association, told yesterday how the Junior Association came to be formed and what it was doing.

"The parent association," said he, "has done its best to provide playgrounds for the city's children. One of the great obstacles has been the education of parents. However, at the opening of the last farm garden we established on East Sixty-sixth Street a large number of mothers asked that plots be reserved for their children.

"There are perhaps 800,000 children now playing in the streets of New York. We hope gradually to bind them together in an association, pledged to keep certain rules, and to accomplish our ends, the safety of the children, and at the same time giving them a chance to breathe the pure air of an open playground or farm garden, and to keep the city clean by their loyalty to the association a co-operation among themselves. At present the playgrounds of the city are not equal to the number of children needing them, but we hope in time to provide space for all, and are particularly pleased at the interest the Mayor has shown in our work. We will, we feel sure, have the help of the officials."

These, Col. Cornell said, were the rules of the Junior Branch:

> To use the nearest playground. Not to play ball or any other game in which missiles are thrown on the streets. To refrain from hitching onto vehicles, and from jumping off or on street cars. Not to throw stones at automobiles, cars, or wagons. To cross the streets only by cross walks. To help to keep the streets clean. To refrain from throwing paper or refuse, or building bonfires on the streets.

These pledges must be signed by the child and countersigned by the parents. After three months the child, if he has obeyed the rules, will receive a badge, and special badges will be awarded for good conduct.

Deer Stole the Cow's Milk.

BEDFORD, Penn., June 13.—For some days Hart Bush, a farmer at Oppenheimer, this county, had found no milk from his cow at milking time. The cow was kept in a field near the house, and it was thought the calf had stolen it, so it was locked up in the barn. Yesterday morning Mrs. Bush thought she saw in the early dawn the calf with the cow, and started to drive it off, when a large deer lightly leaped a fence and made off.

A meeting of the Fourth of July Celebration Committee for the Borough of Queens was held at the Borough Hall in Long Island City yesterday, and it was decided to hold in the forenoon exercises in each of the wards at which music will be provided.

SCHEIB HELD ON NEW CHARGE

Bail Put at $2,000 and He Stays in Jail.

Harry A. Scheib, husband of Lillian Scheib, whose body was found in a bathtub at the Scheib flat in East Seventy-eighth Street four months after she had disappeared, was held in $2,000 bail by Magistrate Freschi in the West Side Court yesterday on a charge of using his employer's automobile without leave.

Scheib had no bondsmen and went to jail. The case is frankly admitted by the complainant, John A. Wyeth, to have been instituted in an effort to assist the police in keeping Scheib in custody for the longest period possible under the law. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wyeth were deeply impressed by the evidence brought out at the murder hearing, which ended on Monday afternoon in Scheib's dismissal because of a failure to produce actual proof of a murder. They said yesterday they would press their charge before the Grand Jury.

The proceedings resulting in the decision to hold Scheib for the Grand Jury were brief. Anna Kraus, who had written an "Anna" letter to Scheib, described an automobile ride she had had with him on May 18. She said she remembered the date because it was the last time she had seen him, and that he described the car as one belonging to his employer. She had been out with him on such rides before, and always in the same car.

Lawyer Karlin, for Scheib, denounced the proceeding as an "insane effort to make a case." Magistrate Freschi, however, held that a good case had been established and that it was surely a matter that could properly be taken before a jury.

Lawyer Karlin attempted to press a perjury charge against John A. Wyeth on the ground that he had made out a complaint on Monday, swearing he had direct knowledge that his car had been used, whereas his evidence had shown he had only been told so. Magistrate Freschi refused to entertain the charge. Thereupon Karlin threatened a civil suit, but Magistrate Freschi explained that it would be necessary to prove willful intent, and he personally would be glad to testify in such a suit that Mr. Wyeth had displayed only a lack of familiarity with the formalities.

MAYOR AIDS HOUSE HUNTERS.

Residence Numbers Should Be Visible at Night, He Tells the Aldermen.

Mayor Gaynor sent a communication to the Aldermen yesterday suggesting that an ordinance be passed, requiring that the numbers of residences be so placed that they can readily be seen at night. It read:

> To the Honorable the Board of Aldermen:
>
> Gentlemen: May I suggest to you that your honorable body take up the question of having the numbers of the residences of the city put where they may be seen at night. You have all experienced the difficulty of finding the numbers of houses at night, for the reason that they are commonly put on the glass of fanlight of the outer door, and when that is swung back you cannot see the number. If we had an ordinance that all numbers should be put on the fanlight or glass of the inner door, they could all be seen all the time, and at once by the passer by. The subject is one on which I have received many communications. Very respectfully,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Women Held for Union Serenade.

GREENSBURG, Penn., June 13.—Eleven women locked up in the County Jail for serenading non-union miners were released last night. The United Mine Workers' organization paid the fines of four, while Judge A. D. McConnell released the oher seven for want of evidence.

The charge against the women was that they had violated a court injunction by serenading non-union miners by beating dishpans, thereby annoying them.

First Policy on Flying Machine.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 13.—The first insurance policy for a flying machine in Connecticut has been written here. It is for a two-passenger machine bought by William C. Beers, President of an aeronautic company which is to establish headquarters in this city. The machine is soon to be put into commission.

THE SUBWAY REPORT.

Doubtless we shall have innumerable amateur and volunteer suggestions for the betterment of the report prepared by Mr. McAneny for the solution of the rapid transit problem. But never has any city work been more exhaustively discussed, and never up to this moment has a better plan been proposed by anybody. Unless talk is to be interminable, and the dirt never is to fly, here and now is as good a time to turn talk into action as we are likely ever to have.

Mr. McAneny has cut a loaf of rather larger dimensions than anybody has anticipated, and everybody has a little larger slice than has been expected. Perhaps the Bronx gets a smaller addition to its expected facilities than any other section. But the Bronx is fortunate that its travel is not to be subordinated to the traffic considerations of a company whose main interests must always be in another borough. The Bronx, if disappointed in any degree, should consider that for many years it has thrived above all other boroughs, and that they are receiving now no more than the Bronx long has had. Queens certainly is better cared for than it had any previous right to expect. The extension of the Steinway tunnel westwardly to Broadway and Forty-second Street—and perhaps ultimately to the North River—and the extension of the tunnel route eastwardly by elevated roads, besides the Second Avenue route over the Queensboro Bridge, make a filling meal fit for the sturdy appetite which has a right to be satisfied. Brooklyn gets access to territory tributary to over a hundred miles of route, and the traffic of the bridges is carried to Broadway through Spring Street and down to the Wall Street section. Nobody from Brooklyn is heard to protest, or ought to be heard. The Bronx, indeed, may protest that the gain of Brooklyn is the loss of the Bronx. But nothing is taken from the Bronx, which receives additions to the great facilities which it long has enjoyed, and from which Brooklyn even now is excluded as much as it is excluded from the facilities of the existing Interborough system. Neither has a right to a monopoly of either system, and it is not by intention that either is excluded from the other's advantages. It arises merely from the necessities of the case, and must be so unless it is argued that Broadway should receive no betterment because it cannot be divided equally between the two systems. Richmond's share is deferred for ampler fulfillment than before suggested, but it is brought nearer by whatever strengthens the city at large, and promotes that growth to the south upon which Richmond must depend for facilities which geography denies it at present.

It is necessary to consider also the city as an entirety and the interests of the rival companies. It is idle to deny what, indeed, is the motive of these expensive proposals, that a certain redistribution of population will follow, and to some extent a readjustment of valuations. These will be mutually corrective on an inclusive view of the full situation, and there is no reason to fear that they will be so great or so destructive as when the subways replaced the ferries. It is not now a question of entire alteration or diversion of currents of travel, but of development of them along general lines of which all the world has had notice for years. Nothing can deprive the Bronx of its great natural beauties and manifold residential advantages. Its values must grow with the present addition to its facilities. Nor, on the other hand, can anything deprive the two easterly boroughs of the advantages of their proximity to the central borough, and which they have a natural claim to utilize.

Acceptance by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company is taken for granted, and the refusal of the Interborough is also assumed, with perhaps too great certainty. Undoubtedly it is reluctant to divide its monopoly of Manhattan. Bitter as it is to lose Broadway, it is offset largely by the completion of its H system. It would be worse to lose more. The greater the loss of its business, which the report thinks is overestimated, the greater is the necessity of the Interborough to build to protect its routes through territory naturally its own, and at which only its own [illegible] can deprive it. The question of ways and means is conservatively considered in the report. The present income of both rivals is not adequate to support an added capital charge of $257,000,000, roughly halved between the railways and the city, with the Interborough contributing one-half more than the Brooklyn company. The support of the great enterprise—greater for the city than the Panama Canal for the United States—is the growth of the city. The report reckons upon a billion additional fares within ten years, a mere moment in the life of the city. There is no suggestion in the report of danger of loss to the railways, and it may be added that from the standpoint of the city there is a tax gain apart from considerations of traffic and profit by the haul.

It is only possible here and now to consider the salient points in a plan which may not be every man's ideal, but which is better than that in being practical for every farepayer. The report says that the consideration which guided the deliberations has been "to distribute the new lines in a way that will produce the best results and serve the greatest number of people for a five-cent fare." It has done this better than by proposing a single five-borough route, by co-ordinating the best portions of each offer into a double or competitive system of which each half will serve completely the daily needs of those adjusting their residences and offices for that end. And both systems will be equally available for the needs of the casual rider for short distances. The advantage of this co-ordination is that each company will serve its own territory more intensively than either could serve both sections. No conceivable expenditure would enable the Interborough to serve Brooklyn and the Bronx equally, and the same is true of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit. Each has all that it can do for the present, so that the idea of doubling the task of either is unreasonable. If any straphanger is weary of straphanging, and if any flatdweller is desirous of a home of his own, or for a cheaper and better flat than present conditions allow him, the thing to do is to rally to the support of the report which does so much credit to Mr. McAneny in its preparation, and to his conferrees for their loyal support and sinking of individual preferences.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

All who care to may celebrate today the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." We must still consider that book, in the popular sense, the foremost American work of prose fiction. "David Harum" and the pseudo-Oriental, quasi-religious romance of Lew Wallace were of much briefer fame. Probably as few persons are reading "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in this centenary of Harriet Beecher Stowe as Mr. Westcott's book or "Ben-Hur," but for a third of a century the tale of "life among the lowly" held sway, while countless theatrical versions of it were so profitable that "Uncle Tommers" became a descriptive phrase in actors' parlance, and Topsy and Little Eva were transformed into dramatic personages as familiar if not as vital as the characters of Shakespeare and Sheridan.

A work of fiction that thrives so well must be something more than a veiled treatise or sociological document. In spite of its crudity and sentimentality, in fact, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was a good story, a novel of exceptional spirit and force. That its portrayal of the woes (and the distinguished virtues) of the negro slaves treated of individual cases rather than the general was never denied, but the brutality of Legree, the suffering of Tom, the shame of Cassie were not the less true to nature because they were not typical. Of the value of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as an instrument in the overthrow of the system of slavery there is nothing to say. The Beechers were all Abolitionists, and Harriet was a Beecher of the Beechers. But she followed rather than led the trend of New England thought in her day. She was an alert, well-meaning, and gifted woman, but she was not a great or original thinker.

She is remembered chiefly as the author of the famous anti-slavery novel. But the verity and charm of her New England tales, like "Old Town Folks," are not to be disputed. Her attack on the memory of Lord Byron served no purpose; the scandal she raked up was old; but her sincerity was never doubted. She was a true American product, in all her faults and virtues, in her outlook on life and her habit of mind, and is worth remembering.

SENATORS BY DIRECT VOTE.

There are still a few lions in the path of the Constitutional Amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people. The Senate adopted an amendment which the House had thrown out. Unless the House shall now accept it a conference will be necessary, and if neither body yields, the proposal to change the Constitution will fail. The amendment which the Senate approves retains the present Federal control over the election of Senators as provided in Art. I., Sec. 4. Federal control is not acceptable to the Democratic members of the House, and they may insist on the original form of the amendment. Even if they should assent the Legislatures of the Southern States, where Federal control is most unpopular, might refuse to ratify, or [illegible] enough of them might refuse, to kill the amendment. It is evident that this change in the method of choosing Senators has great popular support. But to ask the Legislatures to ratify the amendment is to ask them to strip themselves of power conferred upon them in the beginning and exercised by them since the foundation of the Government. Three-fourths of the States must ratify the amendment, or it will fail.

The general all-around foolishness and superfluity of this amendment of the Constitution ought to cause its rejection by the Legislatures of many more than one-fourth of the States, but quack remedies are having a great run among the people just now, and this one may be swallowed in blind confidence that it will transform the United States Senate and make it at all times a pliable and obedient instrument of the will and whims of the people. In States the members of the second or upper house are elected by direct vote of the people. The system of choosing both houses by popular vote has thus been on trial for a great many years in all the States. Probably the most zealous advocates of direct popular elections and direct popular lawmaking would admit that, on the whole, the Federal Government has accomplished its work with greater efficiency and has been a nobler and more dignified institution than the State Governments. Probably not one person in 10,000, however, has ever given thought to the somewhat significant fact, alluded to by Mr. Ivins in his address at Carnegie Hall a few weeks ago, that in the Federal Government only two officers are elected directly by the people, the President and the Congressman. The election of the President is nominally indirect, although the members of the Electoral College never do, in fact, exercise that freedom of choice and discretion which, theoretically, belongs to them. With only two of its offices filled by the people's direct vote, this great, powerful, and exceedingly complex piece of Governmental machinery has, nevertheless, done its work in a manner that has commanded the admiration of historians and students of politics the world over.

But the muckrakers and men of a Populistic turn of mind generally are not satisfied. They want to put the Senate into the people's hands. The change appeals to them, apparently, chiefly because it is a change, for certainly they have no very well reasoned arguments to support it. The hopes they express of the working of the plan are almost certainly delusive. If the election of Senators by the people works any change in the Senate at all, it will be to lower its character, its standing, and its dignity. Smaller men will go to the Senate. The superstition—we will not dignify it with the name of belief—that the people will send to Washington a higher order of Senators, men better capable and more worthy to serve their interests and the interests of the State and the Nation, has no basis in reason or experience. Both point the other way. The bosses and the "interests" have nothing to fear from this amendment. They can make their arrangements with the people quite as successfully and with less publicity than with Legislatures. Direct nomination, of course, is a corollary of direct election. We shall then have practically two elections a year. Politics will become more of a nuisance than they are now in the opinion of the average voter. Save when some awakening issue stirs up the electorate, the direct nomination will be a farce. Under that plan Mr. Sheehan would have gone to the Senate from New York and Mr. James Smith, Jr., from New Jersey, just as Wisconsin sent Mr. Stephenson, who embodies everything that La Follette fights against, although it was La Follette's own nostrum of the direct primary that sent him to the Senate.

We hope this amendment will fail altogether. It would be better if it failed in the conference between the two houses. If it goes to the States, we trust that the common sense of the Legislatures will suffice for its rejection.

MODERN CITIES.

The world's cities are reaching back to their ancient beginnings, scanning their own histories and the histories of each other for those characteristics which will aid them best in their modern development. They are richly appreciating their past. The reforms of the architecture of Munich and Nuremberg, of Paris, of Milan, of Amsterdam, and of Antwerp are extending throughout Europe by rapid processes of contrast and comparison, and are projecting themselves across the ocean for the upbuilding of the new American cities.

Times are not overlaid upon times, but past time is merged into the present, and far and near are compared by this bodying forth of the best ideals, ancient and modern, in the building of the habitations of men. There is on view in Philadelphia an exhibition of city planning, which reflects tendencies that are transforming the conditions of modern life. Hardly a city in the United States as large as Springfield, Mass., but has its public-spirited committee of architects preparing plans for the proper placing of buildings, the providing of conditions for cleanliness and sanitation, the relief of congestion and its ugly concomitants, the planting of trees and shrubs along well-paved streets, and the building of stately civic centres. Everywhere public pride is evincing a purpose to triumph over incivism, to employ architects and designers, landscape gardeners, and eminent engineers in place of the politicians and camp followers of the old army of civic spoilsmongers.

What William Morris began to do for the adornment of the walls and furnishings of men's dwellings is being carried to their architecture—even to that of the humblest workingmen's homes—and to the fitting of their homes into the schemes of well-ordered communities. Parks, children's playgrounds, recreation centres, public baths, trolley waiting stations, boulevards, parkways, public markets, the location of public buildings, the improvement of water fronts, the clearing away of what is ugly in the old areas and the development of harmonious proportions in the new, are discussed in the reports and acted upon by the resolutions of the authorities in cities extending from Boston Bay to the Golden Gate, and from Lake Superior to the Rio Grande.

The work is proceeding rapidly, almost feverishly. In some cities admiration for exotic models may lead to extravagance and grotesqueness. But quaintness and beauty may be attained without neglecting the needs of the community and its proper development. Present sites and properties have acquired their own associations and affections which need not be rudely trampled upon or affronted. Good planning always takes account of conditions as they are, and seeks by the best examples not to destroy them, but to make them better. This principle should be adhered to firmly by the town planners, while the city authorities should cheerfully grant them powers to make beneficial changes.

THE INFLUENCE OF SPORTS.

The Boston Globe publishes an interview with Mr. Edward A. Wilkie, in which that gentleman takes occasion to denounce sports, because "the spectacle, the competition, the excitement" are their essential elements. Sports are not recuperative, Mr. Wilkie asserts, they are exhausting to the spectator and to the performer, while the ethics of sport "runs all the way from the ethics of war and the ethics of business to the ethics of gambling." Rather strangely, we think, he classes with the cockfighting of Greece, the gladiatorial contests of Rome, the bullfighting of Spain, and the boxing of England, "the baseball of the United States."

Sports, as exhibited on the football and baseball fields in this country, are something more than manifestations of the normal human spirit of play. We are not quite so sure as Mr. Wilkie that they are invariably manifestations of the "robbing and fighting instincts." But it is very certain that they mean "playing to win," and it is often difficult to keep the spirit of emulation free of the vices of greed and malice. Participation in well-conducted sports, both by the players and the observers—for the observers do take a very real part in them—is quite wholesome. For the masses it relieves the monotony of a routine existence, and the excitement is genuinely recuperative. Men genuinely crave to have their mental activities and emotions led into fresh channels of experience, during which their nerves, relieved of the customary wear, may rest and find repair. The stimulus of concentration upon sports may not be so noble as that derived from the enjoyment of the fine arts and music and the drama, but these are not always within the means or the comprehension of the masses. Relief in the sight of out-of-door games, whether amateur or professional, if stripped of their worst features, is incomparably better than relief sought through the stimulus of alcoholic drinks and vicious associations. Of course, the bullfighting, prizefighting and gladiatorial contests to which Mr. Wilkie alludes are not sports in the sense in which baseball and other popular forms of athletics are called sport.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Adjusting Prices to Resources. That old question whether or not a doctor has a right to charge a rich patient more than a poor one for the same service was raised in a somewhat modified form in the Supreme Court this week, and Justice Giegerich, though postponing decision while waiting further light on the case before him, plainly intimated that in his opinion it was improper to base charges on ability to pay.

In this particular instance the Superintendent of a State insane asylum, acting under the law which empowered the Commission in Lunacy to fix the amount which shall be paid by patients with means, had raised the weekly charge for the maintenance of an incompetent woman from $3.50 to $5 a week, having discovered that she had an estate of about $15,000. The guardian of her property had resisted the advance. His position was not that $5 a week was too much but that no more should be demanded from one patient than from another, neither being without means and each receiving about the same treatment.

This, it will be seen, is not quite the problem of the physician in private practice, but it is closely analogous, and its ultimate decision will do something toward establishing a general rule. Doctors are, so far as we know, unanimous in holding, to put the matter bluntly, that the rich must pay for the poor. They talk more or less—the wiser they are, the less, not the more—about the greater weight of responsibility they bear when treating a rich patient, but the main argument they advance to justify a custom obviously in direct conflict with ordinary business principles is that as they render much service to patients who can pay little or nothing, they could not live if they did not demand from the rich fees proportioned to their resources.

It detracts a bit from the force of this argument, that hospital and other [illegible] is to the competency and repute of the man doing it, and so is not wholly without remuneration, and, second, that the doctors are always complaining bitterly about the abuse of medical charity and trying to decrease its amount. What the members of the finest profession in the world do, however, is pretty likely to be right, and as the rich are not suffering while the poor are certainly profiting from the anomalous custom, perhaps Justice Giegerich should think more than once before condemning any phase of it.

Averages and the Weather. Grudging as is the admission of our Water Department officials that quite a lot of rain has fallen in the last three days, the fact is indubitable. So they do not deny it—they only hasten, very properly, to advise against premature rejoicings, and in solemn tones tell us that we are not yet out of the woods, or, rather, out of the desert. That is true, for though "4,000,000,000 gallons" sounds like a good many, New York will partly waste and partly use it all in less than a fortnight, and then be back just where it was before except for the fact that Autumn and its rains will be a little nearer.

It is true, also, that the somewhat abnormally large precipitation which has marked the first half of June is no proof that we are going to have a wet Summer at last. People who make much of averages—chiefly because they misunderstand them—assume that because several past seasons have been unusually dry, several unusually rainy ones are due. They are, in a way, for there is no reason to suppose that our climate is changing, but nature, with all time at her command, is in no haste to balance her books, and such prophecy as can be founded on averages, in this or any other matter seemingly governed by blind chance, must be of the long-distance sort and of no present or practical value. Gamblers never learn this, else would they not keep laborious records of what has happened and expect thereby to acquire information as to what is going to happen next.

Of course, the weather is not determined by chance, really, but for all we know about its causation it might almost as well be, for we have taken only a few steps, and those uncertain, beyond the keeping of a record. The meteorologists have arrived at "probabilities" for a day or two ahead, and have vaguely glimpsed interdependent phenomena and a recurrent cycle or two, but they leave to quacks the privilege of telling what next year's, next month's, or even next week's weather will be.

The fact remains that the drought has been broken—by a few thunderstorms. That is something. It is enough to take the keen edge from New York's anxiety about a water famine, but it is not enough to justify the abandonment of caution. Our overlords, for some mysterious reason, have refused to utilize the one immediately available source of supply, so the only thing for us to do is to take "waste not, want not," as a promise as well as a proverb, and be as happy as we can in the circumstances.

Sending Rowdies to Jail. Thanks to the somewhat belated, but none the less admirable, vigor with which the City Magistrates are now treating the class of criminals known generically as "street-car rowdies," there is a pleasing possibility that these particularly obnoxious creatures will learn to mend their manners. For some of them a workhouse sentence is a severe punishment, and for none of them can it be a welcome alternative to the trivial fines which were in effect a license fee or a but mildly regretted addition to the cost of a hilarious day.

There is, of course, the grievous possibility that in the workhouse the young ruffians will learn how to do things in some ways worse than disturbing the peace and insulting the ears of decent passengers in street cars and trains, but that is a risk that must be taken until the good time comes when our jails shall exert reforming instead of corrupting influences. Meanwhile, the "street car rowdy" is simply intolerable, and he must be suppressed by means immediately available.

It is a pity that for his sins some punishment cannot be imposed upon his parents, who certainly share responsibility for his acts. The situation in this respect gives one understanding of the Chinese system of making whole families suffer for the misdeeds of individual members. That plan is not wholly unreasonable. Few Chinese plans are.

PHOSPHORUS POISONING.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In The Times of June 6 I notice the following item:

> Trenton.—Eighteen-months-old Dorothy Stone is dead of phosphorus poisoning. A box of matches having become wet, Mrs. Stone spread them out to dry. A short time later she found the child chewing the heads. A doctor was summoned, but could do nothing to save the baby's life.

News items of this kind are all too common. When everything is considered, it appears almost criminal to foster longer the use of a deadly poison for which there is a harmless substitute, particularly when by acting in harmony with the most-advanced countries of the world we can save the match manufacturers the annoyance of expensive and arduous precautions, protect the workers in the match industry from unnecessary disease, horrible deformity, and death; save the general public from additional accidental poisoning and convenient instruments of crime, free ourselves from the burden of supporting those who are incapacitated by the peculiar hazards of the industry, and, finally, absolutely eliminate one loathsome occupational disease, known as "phossy jaw."

When Congress finally passes the Esch Phosphorus bill it will put an end to this unnecessary poisoning. Nine of the leading countries of Europe, upon the initiative of the International Association for Labor Legislation, have joined in an international treaty to absolutely prohibit the use of poisonous phosphorus (for which there are inexpensive and harmless substitutes) in the manufacture of matches.

A Word for Col. Garrard.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Col. Joseph Garrard, who is now the subject of a great deal of criticism, is a very good, painstaking, faithful officer without prejudice against Jews as such, and didn't intend to convey the idea that he was so prejudiced, but that the cadet was personally undesirable. The Army and Navy Journal states editorially that an old-time personal friend of Col. Garrard's is a Jew. The poor man has been pounded worse for a carelessness than if he had committed a serious military or moral crime. There is no prejudice in the army against Jews as such. If a man is not the right sort, he is disliked, be he Jew or Gentile; if he is the right sort, he is liked, be he Jew or Gentile. Every man stands on his own feet. We have many well liked Jews in the army. Lissak was a most able Professor of Ordnance at West Point, and we never cared whether he was a Jew or not, but we greatly regretted when his health broke down and he went away. Gen. Mordecai, a Jew, was Professor of Ordnance there before him.

FORCED TO MOVE ITS CABLE.

Commercial Company Explains It Does Not Go Voluntarily to Its New Station.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Times of Sunday has a story headed "Plans for New Cable Route" in which it is said of the Commercial Cable Company:

> There was no intimation prior to the purchase by the company of the tract of ground near Far Rockaway and the subsequent announcement that a new receiving station would be built as soon as possible that the present station was inadequate to the company's needs. It develops now that the change in location is voluntary on the part of the company.

These statements are exactly opposite to the facts. The company's facilities for present use and future expansion are entirely adequate to the company's needs, and there is nothing voluntary on the part of the company in the projected changes. The changes will be a serious impediment to the company's business while they are in progress, and will be very costly. The company desires nothing better than to be left undisturbed with its cables landing within twelve miles of its main office in New York, but it has been ordered to make way for a public improvement, and to do so it must remove its cables and carry them back to a point nearly twenty-two miles from its main office. It is this increased distance between the landing place and the main office that creates the need of the extensive work at Far Rockaway. Novel methods of operation must be adopted.

The company is not moving of its own accord and does not desire to move. The company is forced to move and to spend a very large sum of money to move from an advantageous position to a less advantageous one. The statement in The Times that the company is changing its location voluntarily is very unfortunate and liable to do harm. Attempts have been made all along to show that that was the case so as to prejudice our rights in the matter of extending our underground connections.

Will you not see that The Times publishes a corrected statement?

"Rinafore."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why is it that managers in producing the plays of years ago seek an all-star cast for the reason, apparently, of making it especially fine, and then go ahead and spoil it by presenting it in an entirely different manner from when it was first produced, thereby losing a great deal of the humor of the selection? I make special reference to "Pinafore." Much of the humor of this piece is lost in its presentation now. I refer especially to the character of Little Buttercup. When this piece was first produced Little Buttercup was one of the most humorous characters, being large, ungainly, and, in fact, the very opposite of the name implied—a bumboat woman, one who rowed out to the ships selling goods to the sailors. Who can reconcile this character with daintily clad Miss Cahill of the all-star cast? Another humorous feature of the original play was the fact that the Captain was a big fellow, and Ralph Rackstraw, who finally turns out to be the real Captain, a small fellow. Hence when the changing of the uniforms was accomplished much amusement was caused by little Ralph trying to wear the Captain's clothes and vice versa. Why are not the managers more careful to rightly produce these old plays?

New York, June 13, 1911. OLD TIMER.

[The original Little Buttercup in New York was Blanche Galton, (Mrs. Thomas Whiffen,) who was not large or ungainly, but very dainty. Miss Rutherford, who sang the rôle with the Philadelphia Church Choir Company, was a comely young woman. The singer brought over for Little Buttercup by Gilbert and Sullivan themselves was large, and so was Adelaide Phillips of the Boston Ideals, but neither was ungainly. We have remembrance of many performances of "Pinafore," but of none in which any particular fun was made of the exchange of uniforms by Ralph and the Captain.—Editor The Times.]

The Hospitals for Tuberculosis.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The tuberculosis situation in this city is critical. Thousands of consumptives are unable to secure hospital treatment because of the inadequate facilities furnished by the city. It is estimated by experts who are familiar with the situation that at least 7,000 beds are needed immediately. We have at present only 3,200, less than one-half the number needed.

Requests are now before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for appropriations in the next Corporate Stock Budget to increase the facilities in the tuberculosis hospitals under the control of the Department of Health and of the Department of Public Charities. The money should be granted. To this end this committee has been conducting an active campaign.

Our pamphlets, copies of which may be had upon request, describe the need and what we think ought to be done. We sincerely hope that we may have your help in urging the appropriation of sufficient funds to meet this critical situation.

Explosive Motion Picture Films.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of June 6 you gave us the news of the fire in the Powers moving-picture plant. One of the chief dangers seemed to be from explosion of the celluloid films stored in the place. As many of these picture studios are located in the suburbs, often very near frame dwellings, it suggests that the owners of such places through an ordinance might be compelled to keep all films not in actual preparation or use in asbestos-lined cases in the cellar of the place, if not even the subcellar. If a subcellar is not on the premises, the cellar would have to do.

All places storing matches have for many years been compelled to store them in zinc-lined vaults to minimize danger.

A Self-Ventilating Subway.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Regarding the question of ventilating the Subway, allow me to say that I have stood on the platform of the Oxford Tube in London and felt the draught of air forced out of the tube for fully a minute before any train appeared. In fact, one could always tell when a train was coming simply by the great current of air.

But—the Oxford Tube is built so that each track is inclosed in a separate tunnel, and as the train almost fills the space there is necessarily a tremendous volume of air pushed ahead of the train, and splendid ventilation is the result. Let the new subways be built after this plan and they will be self-ventilating.

A Transit Need.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the letter in last Sunday's Times, as to the necessity of a proper connecting link from the east to the west side in that beautiful section between Fifty-ninth Street and 110th Streets, it seems to me a matter of great importance to have a subway from the Lexington Avenue station at Eighty-sixth Street to the station at Eighty-sixth Street and Broadway. The trolley running in at Eighty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue and coming out at Eighty-sixth Street and Central Park West doesn't begin to supply the needs of those great sections.

QUEEN'S GIFT-BOOK IN KINGSLEY SALE

ROYAL PORTRAIT GOES CHEAP

A presentation copy, from Queen Victoria to Canon Charles Kingsley of "The Principal Speeches and Addresses of His Royal Highness, Albert, the Prince Consort," brought $210 in the Kingsley library sale at the Keeler Art Galleries, 70 Liberty Street, yesterday. It was the highest price realized by any one of the many books, which had interesting associations.

The volume is in white morocco binding, and, on the fly leaf, is the following inscription in Queen Victoria's autograph:

> To the Rev. C. Kingsley. In recollection of the greatest and best of men, from the beloved Prince's broken-hearted widow. Victoria R. Osborne, January 4th, 1863.

The attendance was good, and the competition for this valuable and interesting memorial of the Queen, the Prince Consort, and Canon Kingsley, was spirited. The prize was finally knocked down, at the price named, to George D. Smith.

Another item of interest was the "Works of St. Augustine," five volumes folio, bound in pig skin, and printed at Basel in 1569, with autograph presentation from Thomas Carlyle to Canon Kingsley, and a note in the latter's handwriting, stating that the work had been given to Carlyle by the poet, John Sterling. George D. Smith secured this also for $40.

Carlyle wrote a remarkable biography of Sterling, who died of consumption. It has been said, by one biographer of the poet that this is an instance of James Boswell and Dr. Samuel Johnson reversed, Johnson (Carlyle) in this case being the biographer Boswell, (Sterling.) It is one of Carlyle's most admired works.

The "Book of Common Prayer," in the Hawaiian language, printed at Honolulu in 1862, and presented by Emma, Queen of the Sandwich, or Hawaiian, Islands, to Canon Kingsley, was bought on order for $14. It contains an inscription to him in Queen Emma's autograph.

A copy of "The Most Ancient and Famous History of the Renowned Prince Arthur," by Sir Thomas Malony, the three-volume reprint, published in London in 1816, with Charles Kingsley's autograph and the inscription, "The copy he always used," went to Mr. Waldo for $13.50. A collection of books and pamphlets on aeronautics, was bought by Augustus Post for the Aero Club, for $22.50.

An interesting New Testament in Greek, London, 1829, with Charles Kingsley's autograph, and inscription in Mr. Kingsley's handwriting, "The Testament he always used," was knocked down to H. K. Kingsley for $37.50.

For a manuscript Bible hand-illuminated, and on vellum, title page and last page missing, V. G. Simkhovitch of Columbia University, paid $20.50. Hakluyt's "Collection of the Early Voyages, Travels, and Discoveries of the English Nation," five volumes, London, 1809-12, with Charles Kingsley's autograph and book plate, fetched $45, (Order.)

Capt. Charles Johnson's "General History of the Pyralis," ten volumes, London, 1726, with Charles Kingsley's autograph, went to Columbia University for $23. The original edition of McKenzie's "Voyages from Montreal, on the River St. Lawrence, through the Continent of North America," London, 1801, with Charles Kingsley's autograph, was also knocked down to Columbia University for $12.

"The Natural History of Dee Side and Braemar," by William McGillivray, an eminent Scotch naturalist, was bought on order for $7.50. It was left in manuscript by MacGillivray, at his death, and, by command of Queen Victoria, it was edited by Prof. E. Lankester and privately published in London in 1855. This copy was presented to Canon Kingsley by Albert Prince Consort.

An interesting memorial of William Morris, the well-known English Socialist and eminent litterateur, "The Story of Grettis, the Strong," London, 1869, presented by Morris, with the author's compliments, sold for $21, (order.)

An almanac used by Queen Anne of England, and said to contain her presentation inscription of the work to John Sigary, one of her Court attendants, was bought for $26 by Walter Scott. It is bound in red morocco and the royal arms are stamped in gold on the four corners of the covers. Sigary, to whom Queen Anne gave this almanac, is said to have presented it in turn to a Mistress Kingsley, who was one of the Queen's ladies-in-waiting.

A copy of Charles Darwin's "On Origin of Species," with autograph inscription by Darwin, "From the Author," and Charles Kingsley's book plate, sold for $5, (Westbrook.)

The last sixteen lots of the sale consisted of crayons, engravings, and paintings presented to Canon Kingsley by his contemporaries. Lithograph portraits of Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort, with fac similes of their signatures, presented to Canon Kingsley by command of Queen Victoria, sold for $13, (Order,) and a lithograph of the Prince of Wales, afterward King Edward VII., with his autograph signature, dated 1859, realized $3, (Order.) It was one of the bargains of the day.

An Obstructed View.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having moved to the twelfth floor of an apartment house, and correspondingly elevated rent, in order that I might have a further outlook than across the street, I am now confronted by another apartment house building back of me, which will be higher than the one I live in and will come so close to my place that I can't see as far as half way across the street. Is there no law to protect me in this case, or must I move to an apartment house whose view is not obstructed and continue to do this as long as I live?

The Proposed Tax on Champagne.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reference to the bill now before our Legislature levying a tax of 50 cents a bottle on champagne, such a law would be unconstitutional, for the fact that when an imported article has once paid duty at the port of entry no further duty can be collected.

If the several States could collect further duty it would be tantamount to levying custom, which, according to the Constitution, can only be assumed by the United States.

OLD GLORY.

Written for Flag Day, June 14, 1911, the 139th anniversary of our flag.

The breeze upholds its flut'ring folds,
The Night has given up its stars;
And Truth has drawn her finger through
Where sunlight crimsons into bars—
And there we have "Old Glory"!

The years may find our fondest wish
Yet unfulfilled—may bring dismay;
Youth may be gone, and Hope, and Love—
Our Dearest may have passed away—
But yet we have "Old Glory"!

Then let us hail the flag we love;
Let ev'ry eye grow glad to see
The sacred pledge to Liberty,
Beneath which ev'ry Soul is free—
The God-be-thanked "Old Glory"!

'Tis of our parents and our home;
The champion of our ev'ry right;
'Thas been our comrade through the years;
Ambition's pinnacles shone bright
Since first they flew "Old Glory"!

"From many, one; in God we trust"!
And what we have, or Time shall bring,
Pays homage to the Stars and Stripes,
For here there is no other King,
But just our own "Old Glory"!

NEW $4,000,000 HOTEL NEAR TIMES SQUARE

TO BE NEW YORK'S TALLEST

Structure Will Have Twenty-four Stories and 1,200 Rooms, 200 More Than the Waldorf.

With the announcement yesterday that a syndicate of bankers and realty operators are preparing to spend $4,000,000 in the erection of a twenty-four-story hotel on the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street comes the first visible evidence of the long-awaited development of Seventh Avenue in the blocks between the new Pennsylvania Station, at Thirty-second Street, and Times Square.

Since the Pennsylvania Railroad's enormous operations a few years ago this ambitious hotel plan is the largest deal that has been concluded directly on the avenue. The location is midway between the Pennsylvania Station and the Times Square theatrical centre, while the eastern wall of the hotel will be within 195 feet of Broadway.

Plans for the hotel have been completed, with the exception of minor details, by the architect, Herman Lee Meader of 178 Fifth Avenue. It will have the distinction of being not only the tallest hotel in New York, but, in the estimation of the architect, in the world. It is to be of the highest type, containing 1,200 rooms, about 200 more than the Waldorf-Astoria, and every room will be provided with a bath. Provision is being made for a great rathskeller in the basement, and the plans are being prepared so that with the completion of the subway extension down Seventh Avenue from Times Square an entrance to a station at Thirty-seventh Street may be had through the basement of the hotel.

The plot to be occupied by this latest addition to the large number of sumptuous hostelries recently finished and under construction in New York has a frontage of 100 feet on Seventh Avenue and 244 feet on Thirty-seventh Street, about 24,000 square feet. The syndicate has just signed contracts to buy the plot, paying close to $1,350,000, and as soon as title is passed, which will be in four to six weeks, construction work will begin. The hotel is to be finished, one of the representatives said yesterday, by the Fall of 1912. It may cost more than $4,000,000, so that the total financial deal, including the price of the land, represents an investment of nearly $5,500,000. So important an improvement for that section of Seventh Avenue, which, despite the fact that it is within a few steps of Broadway, is still lined with many old structures, will exert, in the opinion of realty men, a great influence in the future upbuilding of the district contingent to Times Square.

As a further illustration of the care with which the plan has been worked out, it was announced that the hotel has been leased to a prominent hotel man for $350,000 a year, the lease to take effect when the house is ready for occupancy. The lease runs for four periods of twenty-one years each.

The syndicate was represented in the purchase of the plot from the owner, Robert W. Evans, by L. W. Flaunlacher of the brokerage firm of L. M. Reinach & Co., and Preston S. Faust. The names of the principals and the proprietor of the house were not divulged.

The hotel will be built in four sections, the façade being broken by three large courts. Granite trimmed with marble will be used for the first three stories. From that point up to the twentieth story the façade will be embellished with white-glazed faience in white and polychrome tile, and the upper four stories will be treated in overhanging work, giving the impression of balconies.

The entrances in both Seventh Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street will lead through large courts to a rotunda sixty feet in diameter, finished in marble and topped with a glass dome running up two stories in the centre of the structure. The main dining room will be nearly 100 feet square and will seat 1,000 persons. On one of the upper floors will be an elaborate banquet hall and breakfast room. A Pompeiian bath also will be provided, having a plunge pool fifty feet long. On the roof will be a glazed dining room surrounded by terraces, and there will also be an open garden with pergolas and other artistic adornments.

The corner which is about to be so handsomely improved has long been known as the Marshall corner. Its history presents some interesting features in the rapid rise of New York realty values. In 1847 the entire corner was sold by John I. Norton to Lewis I. White for $5,000. Five years later, in 1852, it was bought by John F. and Jesse Marshall for $13,000. The Marshalls ran the old Seventh Avenue stage line for many years, and part of the plot was used for their stables.

The Marshall family retained the property until April of last year, when it was sold to William H. Bryan for $880,000, a price which was considered a bargain at the time. Bryan held the corner barely a month, when he sold it for about $1,130,000, and the present selling price shows a profit of $200,000.

The only hotels in the locality are the York, at Thirty-sixth Street, and the Navarre, at Thirty-eighth Street, both of which were built nearly ten years ago.

TABLET OF LAFAYETTE'S VISIT

To Be Ceremoniously Placed in Public School 3 by an Old Pupil.

Public School 3, in old Greenwich Village, at the corner of Grove and Hudson Streets, is to have a tablet in bronze commemorating the inspection made nearly half a century ago by Lafayette of the public school system of New York. It is to be placed through the devotion of one of the old pupils, who studied under the late Mr. Sutherland.

The tablet, Colonial in outline, bears in the upper section the intertwined flags of France and the United States, as of the year of visitation, together with the Common Seal of the City of New York; below follows the inscription, reading:

> On September 10th, 1824,
> MARQUIS DE LAFAYETTE,
> Major General in the American Army
> During the War of the Revolution,
> Visited
> Public School No. 3,
> Which was selected as the Best Example > of the Public School System Established > by the Free School Society of the City > of New York.
> In Memory of that Event
> THIS TABLET
> School under the direction of the > Board of Education.
> A. D. 1911.

Invitations for the unveiling of the tablet on June 15 have been sent to the French Ambassador and the French Consul at New York, and the city authorities.

PARMELEE-MacMAHON.

Announcement was made last night of the marriage of Charles L. Parmelee, the banker of 25 Pine Street, to Miss Katherine MacMahon.

Mr. and Mrs. Parmelee returned from their bridal trip yesterday and are now at Mr. Parmelee's home, 201 West Eighty-fifth Street.

Mrs. Parmelee is the daughter of Mrs. J. G. MacMahon of this city, and up to within a short time of her marriage she was with the law firm of William W. Mumford at 2 Rector Street.

The wedding took place on the first day of the month of roses at the Hotel Aberdeen, 17 West Thirty-second Street.

Mr. Parmelee is a member of the banking firm of White & Co., in Pine Street, and belongs to a number of clubs. He took his bride to the Berkshires on their wedding trip, and later they expect to go to Europe.

Although the wedding at the Aberdeen was quite a large one, no announcement of the affair was made in the newspapers at that time. A suite at the hotel was made over into a floral bower for the nuptials, and the Rev. Richard M. Sherman performed the ceremony.

Miss Muriel MacMahon was one of her sister's attendants, and Miss Paula Mayer of St. Louis, Mo., was the other attendant. Robert J. Buck of Watertown, N. Y., waited upon Mr. Parmelee as best man.

MOTHER OF 23 IS HAPPY.

Mrs. Martha Butler, Aged 75, Sees Her Last Daughter Married.

Mrs. Martha Butler of Park Avenue, Corona, L. I., aged 75 years, is now satisfied that she will live the remaining years of her life in peace, for she has just been one of the most interested witnesses to the marriage of Rosa, her last unmarried daughter, who was one of twenty-three children. Only four sons and six daughters are now living, however, there having been fourteen deaths in the family, including that of Mrs. Butler's husband.

Miss Rosa Butler was married to William H. Avery of Arverne, L. I., the ceremony being performed by the Rev. William J. Peck of the Union Evangelical Church of that place. Mrs. Butler is spending the Summer at 38 Carlton Avenue, Arverne, so as to be near her youngest daughter.

Notwithstanding her age, Mrs. Butler is in good health, and is active as a woman of fifty. She says she has so many grandchildren and great-grandchildren that she couldn't begin to count them.

MALCOLM A. STRAUSS WEDS.

Malcolm A. Strauss, the illustrator, of 30 West Fortieth Street, and Miss Katharine Agnew MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. MacDonald of 67 West Fifty-fourth Street, were married yesterday at Christ Church, Broadway and Seventy-third Street, by the Rev. Dr. George Alexander Strong.

Earlier in the day the couple visited the City Hall, where they obtained their marriage license. Mr. Strauss, in filling out the certificate, gave his age as 31 and Miss MacDonald gave her age as 19.

Those at the wedding included the bride's parents and her two sisters, also Alderman Becker and several friends of the bridegroom. Mr. MacDonald came there from Pittsburg, where he was well known.

Mr. Strauss was engaged to Lotta Faust, the actress, when she died in January of last year, and painted a portrait of her which was sold at the benefit tendered to her parents.

Mrs. J. L. Riker to Wed Dr. A. S. Clark

Mr and Mrs. Charles D. Leverich of Corona, L. I., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. John L. Riker, to Dr. A. Schuyler Clark of 38 East Forty-ninth Street, this city, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Clark of New Brunswick, N. J. Mrs. Riker's city home is at 43 East Fifty-eighth Street.

Mr. Clark is a graduate of Rutgers College, class of '95, and also of Columbia University, class of '99. He belongs to the University and St. Elmo Clubs.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Dr. Bennett Weds Miss Hope, Nurse.

Dr. Thomas Linwood Bennett of 307 West Ninety-first Street, and Ethel Hope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hope, of Second Street, Bayside, L. I., were married on Saturday at the bride's home by the Rev. William E. McCord, rector of All Saints' Church, Bayside. Dr. Bennett met his future bride on a professional call to New York Hospital, where she was a trained nurse.

Commissioner E. E. Clarke to Wed.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Inter-State Commerce Commissioner Edward E. Clarke will be married on June 28 to Miss Agnes Barnes of Selma, Ala., a Census Bureau employe.

HUTCHINS SUITS MAY BE SETTLED

LUNACY HEARING PENDING

Dr. Ruffin Declines to Indorse Statement by Wife's Counsel That Mr. Hutchins Is Mentally Incompetent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Friends of the Hutchins family here to-day are authority for the statement that efforts are being made on both sides to compromise the differences between Mrs. Rose Keeling Hutchins and the son of her husband, Stilson Hutchins, the multi-millionaire, and that the wife may drop the two suits by which she has sought to gain a portion of the vast family estate.

The lunacy hearing instituted several weeks ago in the District Supreme Court by Mrs. Hutchins has been ordered by Chief Justice Clabaugh to be removed to the equity side of the court, and the petition of Mrs. Hutchins pending there, in which she asks for an appointment of a receiver for her husband's property, will not be taken up for several weeks.

Mrs. Hutchins is her husband's second wife and is much younger than he. Differences over money matters have kept their relations strained for some years.

Counsel for Mrs. Hutchins here to-day deny the recent statement published in a New York paper that Mrs. Hutchins had filed another petition for a receivership at Narragansett Pier, where Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins have been for several weeks.

In regard to the petition already filed in the District Supreme Court by Mrs. Hutchins, Walter Stilson Hutchins, a son of Mr. Hutchins by his first marriage, has filed his answer to the court's order that he show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to assume charge of his father's estate. In his reply Mr. Hutchins summarized the report of Dr. Sterling Ruffin, the physician appointed by Chief Justice Clabaugh to conduct a mental examination of Mr. Hutchins.

Dr. Ruffin emphatically declined to sign an affidavit on June 1 prepared by counsel for Mrs. Hutchins, reciting, among other things, that Mr. Hutchins was totally incompetent and irrational, that his case was progressive, and that he was suffering from advanced senile dementia.

Dr. Ruffin states that he found the patient suffering from a left-sided paralysis due to cerebral hemorrhage, general arterio sclerosis, with increased blood pressure and chronic Bright's disease, and was in a mental state likely to result from such a combination of ailments. He also says that such a condition was not necessarily permanent in its present degree, and that there was hope for improvement mentally and physically.

Both sides declined to discuss the case. Negotiations prior to the filing of the lunacy suit resulted in an offer to give Mrs. Hutchins $2,000 a month in place of $1,000 which William J. Dante, the millionaire's fiscal agent, was directed by Mr. Hutchins to pay her. Mrs. Hutchins insisted that in addition debts of about $3,000, contracted by her during a recent visit abroad, be paid. This was refused.

NO MORE MIXED POLO.

Combination Match Indefinitely Postponed—Special Game Saturday.

With the announcement that the polo match scheduled for yesterday at Meadow Brook between mixed teams of Englishmen and Americans had been indefinitely postponed went a-glimmering the hopes of devotees of the game to see, for this season at least, the challengers in action again.

Capt. Lloyd looked over the playing field early in the morning and determined that it was unfit to take a chance on. With the other members of the team he spent the rest of the day bidding farewell to many persons with whom he had become acquainted since his arrival here.

The English team Captain had nothing but praise for everything and every one connected with the international matches, and confessed himself proud to have been one of the players in a series wherein so much genuine sportsmanship was in evidence. He further said that he had played against a great team, the greatest in the world, and hoped to be in the line-up in the next attempt to lift the cup.

Last night at the Ritz-Carlton Capt. Lloyd entertained a party at dinner, sixteen covers being laid. There was nothing formal about the affair—as the host expressed it, "a pleasant dinner, with no speechmaking or anything of that nature." Among those who participated were Capt. Wilson, Capt. Cheape, Capt. Barrett, Lieut. Edwards, Lieut. Palmes, Harry Payne Whitney, Devereux Milburn, Lawrence Waterbury, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., H. L. Herbert, William A. Hazard, August Belmont, and Foxhall P. Keene.

With the exception of Capt. Barrett, who goes to Mexico, the other members of the English team will sail for England this morning on the Mauretania, which leaves at 9 o'clock. The ponies used by the challengers will be shipped on Saturday on the Minnetonka.

Arrangements have been perfected for a match at the Meadow Brook field for Saturday between the champion four and the second best American team, which will be made up as follows: J. S. Phipps, 1; René La Montagne, 2; Foxhall Keene, 3, and Malcolm Stevenson, back. There is also a likelihood that Louis E. Stoddard will be a factor in the latter team during the latter portion of the match, which will be for special cups.

FIRE FIGHT IN BELLEVUE.

Quiet Work of Nurses and Hospital Brigade Assured All Patients.

Owing to the discipline maintained by the doctors and nurses, and the quick and quiet work of the hospital fire brigade, a fire in Bellevue Hospital yesterday afternoon gave little or no alarm. Few of the patients knew of the danger until it had passed.

The fire was on the sixth floor of Pavilion A-B, a new building recently completed, which is a six-story, brick, fireproof structure.

The drying room, in which the fire occurred, is six feet high, seven feet wide, and three feet deep. Coils of steam pipes run about the room. Some flimsy article of clothing is thought to have rested upon one of the steam pipes and to have caught fire, the blaze spreading to other articles of clothing and blankets in the room, and finally igniting a small portion of the woodwork.

The fire was discovered by Miss Carrie Ennis, a nurse, and she promptly smashed the glass in the auxiliary fire alarm box. Then she telephoned, and the alarm was quickly passed through the institution.

Doctors, clerks, orderlies, and other employes got into position as provided under the fire drill, which they practice twice a week.

Miss Ennis and her three assistants, the Misses Cavanaugh, Shea, and Hoe, went among the patients in the maternity wards, and quietly notified them that there was a little fire, but no danger.

Dr. C. A. Reid, in charge of the pavilion, went through the different wards, instructing all the nurses to close the windows, so that the patients might not smell the smoke, and starting all the music boxes.

LOVE LIVES AFTER DIVORCE.

Mrs. Bethune Admits It and Insists on Keeping Husband's Name.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 13.—Judge Lucien F. Burpee of the Superior Court was asked to-day by Lawyer J. S. Seymour of Ridgefield to change an order entered by him last Friday when he gave a decree of divorce to Florence C. Bethune of Ridgefield from Faneuil D. S. Bethune of 118 West Fifty-eighth Street, New York City, on the ground of cruelty.

The plaintiff is a daughter of William A. Jenner, a lawyer, with offices in New York City. The divorce was uncontested, and at the trial last Friday the plaintiff gave the impression that she was an unwilling witness. When Judge Burpee asked her why she took the trouble to have detectives follow her husband to Chicago and Texas, she said that she still loved him and could not help it.

As the allegations in the pleadings were proved the court granted the petition of the plaintiff which contained the request that she be allowed to change her name. At the time of the decision the plaintiff turned toward her lawyer, and was very emphatic that she did not want her name changed. Both her father and her lawyer thought that she might change her opinion in a few days. As Mrs. Bethune was obdurate on that point Lawyer Seymour was obliged to come from Ridgefield to-day to have the order of last Friday corrected.

BOY CAMPED IN VACANT LOT.

Didn't Want to Wash Dishes, so Ran Away—Children's Society Gets Him.

Thirteen-year-old Robert Scott for the last ten days has lived in a camp of his own making in a vacant lot in East 134th Street. For that reason he was up in Children's Court yesterday.

He told Justice Hoyt that he couldn't come down to the level of a dishwasher, which his sister-in-law, Mrs. Annie Scott of 629 East 136th Street, wanted him to be, so he ran away, and with the help of a group of his companions pitched a tent of tin, boxes, boards, and a window blind. His friends brought him provisions.

A woman whose window overlooked the lot saw Robert all alone at his camp fire, and the next thing he knew he was a ward of the Children's Society.

"Why," said Robert to Justice Hoyt, "I've been ten days in that tent and I want to go back there again. I had all the sweets and candy I wanted, and oranges and bananas, and even strawberries, too. It was as good as Coney Island, nearly."

Justice Hoyt thought the Children's Society a better place for Robert, and he sent him there to remain until the society can investigate his case.

FORTUNE FOR FACTORY HAND.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, N. J., June 13.—Joseph Miller was called from his bench in a local shoe factory to-day to be told that he is probably the sole heir to a fortune of more than $250,000, left by Mme. Monchezi, a forgotten cousin, who died intestate in New York. For several weeks lawyers have sought relatives of the dead woman, who was the widow of an artist, and Miller's right to the fortune was established by a chance letter received from a New York friend by William D. T. Travis, the Civil War artist, who resides here.

Mme. Monchezi was Hannah Stockton Miller, a Burlington girl, and first cousin of Miller's father. She left Burlington when young, studied art in Philadelphia, and then went to New York, where she met and wed Monchezi, a wealthy Italian. Two relatives of Mme. Monchezi's husband may share in the estate if they are living, but the Millers are the only direct heirs of the woman herself.

POSTAL IN TELEPHONE FIELD.

Starts Service Over New Wires in the West and Will Extend It.

The Postal Telegraph Company announces that it has put telephone service in satisfactory operation over a stretch of 534 miles between Reno and Salt Lake over wires used steadily for telegraph business. In all-day tests made at Salt Lake there was no disturbance of the telephone messages by the telegraphic service or vice versa.

A reporter in Salt Lake called up another reporter in Reno while an electric storm was on. They discussed the thunder and lightning for some time, finding that while the disturbance was making a very good subject for conversation it was not in the least interfering with the discussion itself.

A new wire circuit, which has been recently installed has made the telephonic attachments possible. The wire strands are each thicker than a lead pencil, and weigh 435 pounds to the mile instead of 210 pounds, which was the old standard. The new wire will eventually supplant the lighter size on all trunk lines of the Postal Company, and as soon as equipment can be provided telephonic extensions of its trunk lines will be made by the Postal Company in a number of Western towns.

This plan of extension will be a direct invasion of a field heretofore occupied exclusively by the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone Company in conjunction with the Western Union telegraph lines. A new power plant, just being completed in Reno, will furnish electric energy for the new venture.

When an effort was made at the New York offices of the Postal Company yesterday to ascertain if the Western experiment in a combined telegraph and telephone service was likely to be tried in the East, it was said that the company officials here were not interested personally in the Western experiments and had nothing to give out about them.

DISCUSS TOBACCO PLAN.

Counsel for Company Still at Work on Reorganization Details.

W. W. Fuller and De Lancey Nicoll, counsel for the American Tobacco Company, returned yesterday from a trip to Washington, and it was reported that they had submitted to Attorney General Wickersham the draft of a tentative plan for the reorganization of the company, as made necessary by the recent decision of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Nicoll denied that this was the case, and said he went to Washington primarily on other business.

"Are the lawyers still working on the plan?" he was asked.

"We are still thinking about it," he said.

J. PROCTOR KNOTT ILL.

Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Nearly 82, Threatened by Pneumonia.

LEBANON, Ky., June 13.—Ex-Gov. J. Proctor Knott is critically ill at his home near here. Weakened by a stroke of paralysis a few months ago, he is threatened with pneumonia. He is nearly 82 years old.

James Proctor Knott was elected in 1857 to the Missouri House of Representatives. In 1859 he was appointed Attorney General of the State. He was a member of the Fortieth, Forty-first, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, and Forty-seventh Congresses. He was Governor of Kentucky from 1883 to 1887.

MARY GARDEN OFF FOR PARIS.

Champagne Supper to "Papa" Delayed Singer's Arrival on Steamer.

Mary Garden, the opera singer, was one of the last passengers to board the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. yesterday morning at Hoboken just before 10 o'clock, the scheduled hour for sailing. The singer, who seemed to have hurried somewhat in making her toilet, explained to the reporters on deck that she had given "Papa" a champagne supper at the hotel the previous night and had been searching everywhere for him that morning to say good-bye.

Her parent in the meantime had been waiting for an hour on board the liner looking on every deck for his daughter. He noticed that she had on a new pair of low shoes, and asked where they had been purchased. Mary Garden replied: "Oh, in New York, where I get all my shoes. I tried on and purchased forty-nine pairs since yesterday morning."

With regard to her plans Miss Garden said that she was going to see her sister in Paris and rest before the season. She expects to return for the Maine festival on Oct. 14, and added that she might or might not appear in "Salome" in Paris this Summer.

M. A. LUESCHER SAILS TO-DAY

Mark A. Luescher of the theatrical firm of Werba & Luescher, will sail for Europe on the Mauretania to-day with Alice Lloyd to complete arrangements with an English composer and author for the new musical comedy in which Miss Lloyd is to be starred next season. He also expects to engage a well-known English baritone for the rôle of Prince Aladra in "The Spring Maid."

In Paris he will meet George Marion, who is to stage "The Jolly Peasant" for the firm and play the leading rôle himself. Mr. Luescher also intends to hunt for a suitable opera for the use of Lillian Russell, who will be under the Werba & Luescher management next season if a piece to suit her can be found.

U. of C. Glee Club Will Tour Europe.

The Glee Club of the University of California sails to-day on the steamship Pretoria, of the Hamburg-American line, to give concerts in Europe. It is the first time that an American college has appeared in this role in Continental cities. The club consists of fifteen members, including H. W. Sherwood, a violin soloist. Concerts are scheduled for Paris, London, and Berlin, the latter to be given with the assistance of the American Women's Club. On its trip across the continent the Glee Club gave sixteen concerts between San Francisco and Chicago. The Glee Club plans to return to America on July 30 on the Graf Waldersee.

Jane Oaker to Act Everywoman.

Henry W. Savage has engaged Jane Oaker to play the title rôle in the second company of "Everywoman" that is now being organized for next season. The contracts were signed yesterday, and Miss Oaker has gone to the home of her parents in St. Louis to spend the Summer. Miss Oaker was leading woman with James K. Hackett in a series of revivals of romantic dramas, and with Wilton Lackaye in "The Pit." Later she appeared as Trilby in W. A. Brady's revival of that piece, and last season she played in "Love Among the Lions" and in "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Forty Concerts for Central Park.

Commissioner Stover of the Park Department announced yesterday the schedule for the Summer concerts at the Mall in Central Park. There will be forty concerts, covering fourteen weeks, starting on Sunday, June 18, and ending Sunday, Sept. 17. All will be orchestral concerts, and the leaders will be Arnold Volpe and Franz Kaltenborn, who will alternate weeks in leading the orchestra. The concerts will be held on Sunday afternoons, Wednesday evenings, and Saturday afternoons. The only change in this schedule will be on Tuesday evening, July 4, when a concert will be given instead of the regular Wednesday evening concert.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Frederick Macklyn has been engaged by Henry W. Savage for the leading role of Harry Mallory in the company of "Excuse Me" that is to begin its season in August.

The last two weeks of John Mason's present season in "As a Man Thinks," at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, will begin next Monday. Mr. Mason and his company will take a vacation beginning on July 1, and will reopen in the same play at the same theatre on Aug. 7.

Henry B. Harris has engaged the Arverne Pier Theatre, at Arverne, L. I., for the annual benefit of the Hebrew Infant Asylum on Sunday evening, July 23.

About 100 of the delegates attending the State Convention of the Knights of the Maccabees gave a theatre party at the Herald Square Theatre last night to witness a performance of "A Country Girl."

Harry Cooper, formerly of the Empire City Quartet, in vaudeville, has been engaged by A. H. Woods to play the negro in "The Littlest Rebel" with Dustin and William Farnum next season.

STOKES AT SEA, MOTHER DIES

Wireless Messages Fail to Reach ex-Gov. Stokes of New Jersey.

After vain attempts to communicate by wireless with her son, now aboard the steamer Amerika on his way to the coronation in England, Mrs. Matilda G. Stokes, mother of ex-Gov. Edward Caspar Stokes of New Jersey, died at her home in Millville, N. J., yesterday.

Mrs. Stokes was in poor health when her son and his father sailed on the Amerika on Thursday, but there was nothing to indicate that she was in danger. Her son and her husband had intended to stay only a few days in London and then to return here. Soon after they went away, however, Mrs. Stokes grew worse, and expressed the hope that she might speak with her son before she died, and the conviction that if he could be reached he would hasten to her bedside, wherever he might be. Efforts to locate the Amerika, however, proved futile, and the ex-Governor has not yet been heard from.

All day on Monday, as she grew weaker, Mrs. Stokes asked again and again whether her son had been located and informed of her illness, adding that she knew she would live until he returned, or at least until she would hear from him. Strenuous efforts were made on Monday night to gratify her wish, but the Amerika remained out of hail of the wireless. Mrs. Stokes died early yesterday morning.

She was a well-known Methodist worker, and her husband, to whom she was married in Philadelphia, was a Quaker. Her son was one of the best-known Methodist workers in New Jersey. The family had lived in Millvile since 1871.

Mrs. Henry Pendleton Rogers.

Mary Shillito Rogers, wife of Henry Pendleton Rogers, head of the family in the fifth generation from its American founder, James Rogers, who came over on the ship Increase in 1635 when he was 20 years of age and settled in Stratford, Conn., died yesterday at the Hotel Plaza of pneumonia after three weeks' illness. She married Mr. Rogers in Cincinnati, and besides her husband she is survived by two sons, John Shillito and Henry Pendleton Rogers, Jr., and one daughter. The family home is at 35 West Forty-ninth Street, but Mr. and Mrs. Rogers had been staying at the Plaza since May 1.

Memorial Services for Slocum's Dead.

Memorial services of the Organization of the General Slocum Survivors will be held at 3:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the Lutheran Cemetery, in Middle Village, L. I., where many who lost their lives in the steamboat disaster several years ago lie buried. Beneath the Slocum Memorial Monument there lie sixty-one unidentified dead. The Rev. D. W. Peterson will conduct the services.

The Yankees took the third straight game from Cleveland on the Hilltop yesterday, playing with all the assurance of a team which is anxious to climb back to the first division in the league race again. The score was 5 to 1. This clean-up of the Naps comes as a fitting preliminary to the advent of the Detroit Tigers to the Hilltop to-day.

The base paths were heavy and muddy yesterday, and the Naps found it hard traveling from base to base. Sweeney's arm was in good shape, and he turned back several of them. Up to 3 o'clock it was doubtful if the game could be played, but the puddles were filled with sawdust and the tussle transpired on slippery, uncertain footing. The crowd was small on account of the threatening weather, but it didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the English polo players, who came up from Meadow Brook and watched the Yankees perform.

Big Jim Vaughn, after a month's absence, was back on the mound and unfurled a lot of twists with which the Clevelands were unfamiliar. He held them hitless in five of the nine innings and let them scatter six hits through the other four. One ferocious slam by Griggs, a three-bagger along the right field foul line, sent Olsen across with the only run the Clevelands absorbed. Kaler was pitted against the Yankees, and they hit him in every chapter except the second. The home team's runs trickled in one at a time, but they all made a comfortable and safe total.

With Gardner back at second base and Knight at short field, the Yankees are playing smart ball. Gardner's second base playing yesterday was an accomplished piece of work from beginning to end. He has the faculty of being where the ball is, and he made a scoop-up of Kaler's grasser in the eighth inning that was a joy to behold. Knight is moving about the shortstopper's territory like a shadow, too.

Graney tried so hard to kill the ball when he stepped to the bat in the first inning that he broke the lumber in two and banged a liner into Gardner's hands. Olsen singled and Easterly was safe when Hartzell failed to dig a grounder out of the mud. These two tried a double steal, but Olsen was nabbed at the plate. Stovall flied to Daniels.

Daniels started for the Yankees by grounding out. Wolter singled to left and went around to third on Kaler's wild pitch. Hartzell's single to left pushed him home. In the fourth inning Cree walked and stole second. Knight walked and Cree dived into third. Chase forced Cree out at third. Gardner whistled one through second, which scored Knight.

Cleveland peeked into the game in the sixth inning, but not long. With one out, Olsen singled to centre and Griggs went in to bat for Easterly. It was a timely change and the pinch hitter sent a three-bagger to right, scoring Olsen with the Naps' lonesome run.

Gardner was hit on the wrist in the same inning and scored on Jim Vaughn's two-bagger between the centre and right gardens. In the seventh inning Wolter was safe when Ball juggled his grounder. Hartzell sacrificed and Wolter went to third on Land's passed ball. He scored on Cree's single. The final run came in the eighth inning, when Gardner pocketed the white ball along the left corner and scored on a two-cushion rap to left by Daniels.

Syracuse Pitcher Pitches Wonderful Game Against Columbia.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 13.—As a fitting close to an enviable college diamond career Capt. Ensign S. Cottrell, a left-hander, to-day defeated Columbia University without a hit, Syracuse winning 2 to 1. Twenty-five hundred commencement visitors looked on and wondered as the six-fot southpaw went through inning after inning without a safety or a semblance of one being placed off his delivery. On the other hand, Lee, the Morningside mound artist, proved easy for the Orange, and six well placed hits, including Holmes's triple and two doubles by Newhart, earned the two Syracuse tallies. Newhart opened the sixth with a double to left. Kling flied out to centre, and Holmes drove a slashing three-bagger to deep centre, bringing in Newhart. Hand followed with a single, and scored the Syracuse catcher.

Root drew a pass in the third inning and stole second. Lee's infield out sent Root to third, and Holmes retired Hastings on a foul fly. Root scored on Kling's error on Sounders's grounder.

Cottrell joins the Pittsburg club to-morrow. Kling, under contract with the Detroit club to-night received word to report to Manager Stallings at Buffalo to-morrow. Holmes is considering a New England berth. The score:

Newark and Troy Trade Players.

TROY, N. Y., June 13.—Manager Schlafly of the Troy State League team announced to-day the exchange of Second Baseman George Smith, who was purchased from Buffalo this Spring, for Pitcher Cy Parkins and Infielder James Frick of the Newark Eastern League club. The two latter will arrive here to-morrow and Smith will depart at the same time to join the Newark team at Providence, R. I.

New Umpire for National League.

Ralph Frary, umpire in the Northwestern League, is to be added to the National League staff of umpires. It was announced last night at National League headquarters that President Lynch had closed negotiations for Umpire Frary's services. Frary was recommended by a number of baseball experts who have watched his work. He will report for duty as soon as President Lucas of the Northwestern League can replace him with another official.

Pittsburg Appeals Protested Same Case

The Pittsburg Club has appealed to the Board of Directors of the National League from the finding made by President Lynch in the case of the protested Pittsburg-Chicago game of the morning of May 30. This announcement was made last night at the National League offices here. On the protest of Chicago, alleging mistaken decisions by the umpires, President Lynch threw out the game and ordered it to be played over.

CINCINNATI, June 13.—It's the same old story—the Ginger men simply couldn't get the hits to win the game from Mathewson. They did get eleven, the same number the Giants procured, and New York beat them out, 5 to 2.

Let's see. It's been almost three seasons since Cincinnati won their last game from Mathewson. In May, 1908, he reported to the Giants, a sick man. But he went in just the same. The first game the Reds knocked him out of the box, and when he tried again they did the same. But since then Matty has grown to be a well man and that's the last time they ever beat him. Somehow or other he's got the edge on the Reds. He said this evening that he could have been hit for twenty-five safeties, yet could have trimmed them.

Secretary Gray has decided to play no non-scheduled games, and both teams and their managers will take a flier to Latonia to-morrow afternoon. The McGrawites leave to-morrow evening for St. Louis and Cincinnati will wait a day for the Brooklyn team.

Now, as to the game to-day in detail. Working with a winner was an excellent tonic for the Giants, and they went in to the game in the early innings to capture the concluding contest and assure themselves an even break in the series. Far from being right, Fromme bravely went to the front, but bases on balls and base hits quickly crossed his thorny path. Little Joshua Devore was the first foe to face him. Josh picked out a good ball and maliciously drove it directly at Arthur's feet. It caromed toward left field and the peppery Devore was credited with a scratch hit. Doyle helped along the good cause by protruding his person in the pathway of one of Fromme's wild shoots. Snodgrass could not bat the ball past the pitcher and he forced Devore at third, Fromme to Grant.

Egan intercepted Murray's grounder and threw out Doyle at the plate. But the Giants weren't through. Snodgrass and Murray put the Cincinnati infield up in the air by pulling off a spectacular double steal. Had Catcher Clark held the ball instead of attempting to head off Murray the Reds might have escaped. Egan's return was wide of the mark and "Snod" didn't have any trouble registering the first run.

The first run was only a forerunner of more to come. The second was a fruitless round, but in the third the Giants went after the game in earnest. Devore and Doyle didn't do a thing, but Snodgrass started trouble by dropping a double in right field. "Red" Murray singled to centre, scoring Snodgrass, and followed up this fine work by stealing second. Fred Merkle's terrific home run drive put the finishing touches on Cincinnati's chances of winning the game. Merkle trotted triumphantly around the bases, with Murray ahead of him. Devore went out in the ninth. Doyle's nightcap was a three-bagger. Snodgrass took Doyle's cue and scored him with a left field liner. In trying to stretch a three-bagger into a home run in the fifth Al Bridwell lost out at the plate.

As the Reds were the also rans, their runs are not of so much consequence. Only in the sixth and ninth innings did they register any runs. Singles by Mitchell, Esmond, and Clarke turned the trick for one tally in the sixth. Doubles by Altizer and Bescher broke the New Yorks' defense in the ninth. With men on bases, Cincinnati's attack wasn't concerted enough, and these two runs were all the damage done.

It was not that the Reds didn't have opportunities to score, but that Matty tightened up and proceeded to earn his $9,000 salary. In the fourth and fifth innings Cincinnati batters, first up, singled, but the 4 to 0 lead put the Giants in humor to stop all further advances. Nothing like a lead to put ginger and confidence in a team. Then Matty's name on the score card works wonders. The Reds couldn't beat this combination.

Cubs Win in Twelfth Inning.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Chicago made a clean sweep of the Boston series by winning the final game to-day 5 to 4 in twelve innings. McTigue pitched well except for moments of wildness. Pfeffer was hit for a home run in the tenth inning by Goode. Richie was batted freely, but had fine support in pinches. Score:

PIRATES WIN AGAIN.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 13.—Fred Clarke shifted his forces in the eleventh inning to-day, and after getting Bill McKechnie to third base, Clarke slapped a screecher along the right field line and drove home McKechnie with the winning run. The score was 4 to 3. The Dodgers lost a hard game, making three straight victories for Pittsburg. Flynn, batting for Leifield, singled to right in the eleventh and McKechnie, who supplanted him, reached second when Carey walked. With none out, Clarke then turned the trick with his drive to right field.

The Dodgers played a perfect fielding game, but inability to hit at the right time cost them another game. Wagner's sensational fielding was another stumper in their path.

Tommy Leach, who returned to the game last Saturday, again injured his leg and was forced to retire in the first inning. Carey, who ran for him, scored the first run of the game. Pittsburg did not hit Schardt very hard at any stage of the game. The Dahlenites scored their runs mainly through Wheat's efforts with the bat. Dahlen was ordered off the field in the fifth inning for a run-in with Umpire Eason. Nap Rueker took the mound in the tenth inning, and he is charged with the loss, the score having stood 3 to 3 until Clarke's wallop in the eleventh brought victory for the home team.

Coulson, the Brooklyn right fielder, was presented with a watch by citizens of Donora, Penn, before the game began. The Donora Postmaster made a speech, while 100 Coulson admirers formed in a circle around the home plate. Coulson also made a speech. It was a great send-off for Coulson, and admiration for him was contagious, for the entire Forbes Field assemblage joined with the Donorans in the racket every time Coulson appeared at bat. Tradition asserted itself again, for, as usual, in such events the recipient of the gift did not get a hit.

Leifield pitched steady ball, but Wheat found him for two long drives. Tooley opened the sixth by drawing a pass. Wheat then cracked out a double, and both scored on Davidson's single. Wheat's triple in the fourth had paved the way for the first Dodger tally, Zach scoring on Davidson's long fly. The score:

Dorothy Campbell Out of Scottish Golf.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, June 13.—Miss Dorothy Campbell of Hamilton, Ontario, holder of the golf championship of the United States and Canada and winner of the British championship on May 19 at Portrush, Ireland, was defeated to-day by Miss Futtle in the second round of the Scottish women's golf championship by one hole.

Patersons vs. Lincoln Giants.

The Lincoln Giants have another hard game confronting them to-day, when they play the Patersons at Olympic Field, 136th Street and Fifth Avenue. Schwab, the star of the Patersons, will be in the box for the visitors, and Manager McMahon will have McClelland and Booker in the points. The Lincoln Giants have won twenty-four out of twenty-six games this season. The game will be called at 4 P. M.

KING AND QUEEN SEE ASCOT RACES

NOTABLE AMERICANS INVITED

ASCOT HEATH, England, June 13.—Never has Ascot looked better than on this, the opening day of the coronation meeting. The weather was rather uncertain, but not sufficiently so to have any effect on the attendance, which was the greatest in years.

The royal inclosure, club and other stands, and the lawns were crowded with fashionably attired persons, while along the rails about the course hundreds of motor cars and carriages formed a solid line.

King George and Queen Mary, with the members of their house party at Windsor, came in semi-state in eight landaus, each drawn by four bays, while three landaus drawn by pairs carried their suites. Among the occupants of the state carriages were Count Mendsdorff-Pouilly-Dietrichstein, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador in London; Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, and the Countess Beckendorff; members of the royal family, the Duke of Roxburghe and the Duchess, who was Miss May Goelet of New York; the Earl of Granard and the Countess, formerly Miss Beatrice Mills of New York.

Accompanied by mounted equerries, the procession proceeded slowly from Windsor Castle to Ascot Heath, and thence along the course to the royal inclosure amid cheering and the waving of handkerchiefs.

It is the strict rule of their Majesties that the royal inclosure must not be crowded, and accordingly Lord Chamberlain the Earl of Shaftesbury was obliged to refuse thousands of applications for admission to the coveted place.

Among those present to-day besides the King's Windsor guests were the colonial statesmen and their wives and many distinguished persons from the oversea dominions. Americans who had received invitations were American Ambassador Reid, Mrs. Reid, and the embassy staff, with their wives; John Hays Hammond, Special United States Ambassador to the coronation, and Mrs. Hammond and their children; W. E. Dodge, Charles P. Taft, Mrs. Taft, and Miss Taft; H. Roger Winthrop and Mrs. Winthrop, Charles Carroll and Mrs. Carroll, Clarence Moore and Mrs. Moore, Frank B. Wiborg and Mrs. Wiborg, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Joseph Stickney, Mrs. William B. Leeds, Mrs. Raynal Bowling, Mrs. Taylor Smith, Miss Caroline Reynolds, J. Ridgely Carter, American Minister to Roumania, and Mrs. Carter, and Messrs. W. Forbes Morgan, Henry Harrison, J. Armstrong Drexel, J. Louis Webb, and Major G. Creighton Webb.

Many other Americans were in the stands on the course and present as guests of English friends. The Americans who are entertainnig house parties include Mr. and Mr. Bradley Martin, Waldorf Astor, Mrs. Walter Burns, Mrs. Cornelia Adair, Mrs. Maldwin Drummond, and Mrs. Henry Coventry.

American Ambassador Reid was unable to accept the invitation to be present today, as he has not fully recovered from his recent indisposition, but he hopes to be present at the races on Thursday.

The Prince of Wales Stakes brought out a number of Derby cracks. This event is of 50 sovereigns each, with 1,000 sovereigns added, for three-year-olds, colts and geldings; distance, the New Course, about one mile and five furlongs, and was won by Lord Derby's Stedfast, which finished second in the Coronation Derby. H. P. Whitney's All Gold followed in closely, "Skeets" Martin, the American jockey, having the mount. Helicon was third. There were six starters.

The fifty-fourth Ascot Biennial Stakes of 10 sovereigns each, with 500 sovereigns added, for two-year-olds, distance five furlongs, was won by J. R. Keene's Cataract. Astra was second and Apprentice third. Thirteen horses ran.

WINANS' HORSES WIN.

American Sweeps Light Harness Class at Olympia Show.

LONDON, June 13.—At the continuation of the International Horse Show at Olympia to-day Walter Winans swept the board in the light-harness horse class, taking the first, second, and third prizes with Eros, Chanticler, and Elf, respectively, Colonel Axworthy, bred by J. H. Shults of New York, in reserve.

J. M. Smith of Boston won third honors in the class for novice horses between 15 and 15.2 hands, with Nimble. Judge Moore's Kra and Bruno took fourth place for novice tandems. Bathgate Swell exhibited by G. B. Hulme of New York, gave a good performance in the jumping course.

Five prizes in the jumping round for the whole course were divided among three French, one Belgian, and one English officer. The American riders and horses, both strangers at Olympia, made a good showing, but were unable to defeat the seasoned Continental riders and horses, who had long practiced in the show ring.

White Marsh, ridden by Lieut. Johnston of the Seventh Cavalry, Fort Riley, Kansas, showed up well, and Roustabout, ridden by Capt. George Vidner of the Eleventh Cavalry, Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, covered the course in fine style.

Paul D. Cravath's Doctor Crockett won second prize for riding horses over 15.1 hands. Judge Moore's Memento Prize captured fifth in the harness class for novice horses between 14 and 15 hands.

BAR CHICAGO DIRT TRACK.

Motor Club Will Refuse to Grant Licenses for Racing.

CHICAGO, June 13.—A decision by the Chicago Motor Club to prohibit automobile racing on dirt tracks followed an investigation by the Coroner's jury yesterday into the circumstances that led to the death of Marcel Basle, who was killed Saturday at Hawthorne Park track.

While the testimony of a dozen witnesses at the inquest developed the fact that Basle's death was due to inexperience in handling a machine of too narrow a tread on a dirt track and not to any carelessness on the part of the officials in charge of the meet, it was decided the surer way of preventing similar accidents would be to refuse sanction to any more dirt track meets.

DATES FOR AUTO RACES.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 13.—Upon receipt of a telegram from President Taft yesterday, announcing that he will designate the fifth Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day, Secretary Arthur W. Solomon of the Savannah Automobile Club forwarded the official application of this club to the Automobile Club of America for sanction to run the Grand Prize race over the Savannah course Nov. 29.

The American Automobile Association has asked permission to hold the Vanderbilt Cup race, Nov. 28, here. It is generally conceded these dates will be granted.

Autoists Cannot Cross River.

The Bureau of Tours of the Automobile Club of America reports that the ferryboat running between Old Lyme and Saybrook at the mouth of the Connecticut River was struck by lightning and destroyed. This leaves no way of crossing the river at this point until the new bridge is opened, which will probably not take place until the middle of the Summer. Unless a new ferryboat is provided, which is doubtful, motorists will be compelled to follow the river north to Chester, cross the ferry at this point to Hadlyme, and return south over poor dirt roads to Old Lyme.

To Reach Pike's Peak in Aeroplane.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., June 13.—Plans for an aviation meet were completed yesterday to be held here in August, to commemorate the thirty-fifth anniversary of the Admission of Colorado into the Union, and the fortieth anniversary of the founding of this city. The flights will be made Aug. 2 and 3. Colorado Springs is six thousand feet above sea level. If preliminary tests prove successful, attempts will probably be made to reach the summit of Pike's Peak, an altitude of over 14,000 feet.

Aero Club to Open New Home.

The Aero Club of America will formally open its new clubhouse, corner of Forty-first Street and Madison Avenue, at 8:30 o'clock to-night. Invitations have been accepted by the Presidents of nearly all the affiliated aeronautical organizations in the United States. Owing to the absence of President Allan A. Ryan from the city, Dave Hennen Morris, First Vice President, will act as President, and receive the members of the club and invited guests.

COLUMBIA 'VARSITY CREW'S LONG ROW

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 13.—The Columbia 'Varsity crew has gone back to the Nicholas Murray Butler shell which was used by last year's eight. This shell was built by Ward and is considered by Coach Rice to be the best shell in America. A thorough tryout of the new shell which was built in England especially for the Columbia eight, has been made by the men, and Coach Rice sanctions the 'Varsity in their desire to keep to the American-built boat. No condemnation of the English boat is intended, for no one denies that it has many merits, but inasmuch as the light blue and white crew is accustomed to the old boat and prefers it, Rice is willing to let them use it. The race will be rowed in the Butler boat.

A cool morning and smooth water induced Coach Rice to give his eight a little surprise in the morning row, and this they found to be a sightseeing trip up the river for a distance that seemed to the men at the sweeps to be half way to Albany. Before the first 'Varsity returned to the float they had gone sixteen miles, and most of this was covered at a driving pace and with the coaching launch close by them the entire distance. The effect that this had was shown at dinner, when the men ate everything in sight and forced the head chef to take the launch, with a rowboat attached, down to Poughkeepsie for a new supply of provisions.

In the afternoon row a change was made in the substitute boat and in the 'Varsity four. Robinson, who has been stroking the four regularly for the past month, was sent to No. 2, and Sinclair was transferred from this place to the stroke oar. Sinclair has had some experience at this position and he stands a good chance of remaining at stroke until the race is rowed. Mahler was taken out from bow for a row or two and Chapin went in in his place from the substitute shell. This last change was not permanent, however, for Mahler was set back this evening. Chapin has been tried out in the four several times and he will push Mahler for the position.

Several of the squad have been suffering from boils, but the trainer at the quarters, G. Berstein, announced to-day that all of the men were in much improved condition, and after a day or so expects to experience no further difficulty.

Coach Rice yesterday welcomed Coach Harry Vail of the Wisconsin to his new quarters. The Westerners got out for two rows, the one in the morning taking them well up the river, the entire row being about eight miles. When the 'Varsity got back to their boathouse they seemed to think that the shell went along a great deal better than the evening before, and the squad and coach were well pleased.

YALE ROWS SLOW STROKES.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 13.—Yale's crews began to take the water at 4:30 this afternoon, the fours being the first to go out. The weather was cloudy, but the water was smooth and rowing conditions good. At a slow stroke the fours went upstream for a mile, returning in the same leisurely manner. The freshman eight followed the fours, also going upstream, but covering twice the distance of the former. Their stroke was also kept down low, no attempt being made to raise it for a spurt. The 'Varsity eight followed the course of the preceding crews and went three miles up the river at a steady, long, swinging stroke, which was raised on the return for a short spurt before going to quarters. Coach Kennedy followed the crews in the new power launch.

Prof. Durfee, who has been conducting examinations here, left for New Haven to-day, the final examinations having been given. Among the visitors to-day was C. C. Elwell of Montclair, N. J.

MUMPS IN HARVARD CAMP.

RED TOP, Conn., June 13.—Mumps broke out in the freshman quarters to-day, and Hay, coxswain of the freshman eight, the sufferer, was sent back to Cambridge this afternoon. Hay complained of trouble in the glands of his throat, and Dr. Walter Peet, the old Columbia coach, who is at Red Top for a few days, diagnosed the case as mumps, and to prevent a possible spread Hay was sent away. Nicholas Roosevelt was sent for and is expected to arrive from Cambridge to-night and take Hay's place in the eight.

None of the other members of the crew show signs of having contracted the ailment, but all precautions are being taken to prevent its spread. As a result of Hay's illness Trumbull was taken from stroke and put at No. 2, E. Curtis taking the stroke oar. Crombie was taken from No. 2 and put in at stroke of the four, and Converse was taken from No. 5 and L. Curtis put in his place.

The 'Varsity and freshman eights went out together, going downstream, the latter as far as the three-mile mark, and the 'Varsity continuing down to the drawbridge. On the return the 'Varsity picked up the freshmen. Both crews kept a 26 to 28 stroke both ways; at no time was there an attempt to increase the speed. The freshman four went downstream, followed by the two 'Varsity fours, all the crews rowing a slow stroke.

CORNELL LEAVES ITHACA.

MOTOR BOAT RACE IN FALL.

New York-Bermuda Event Postponed—Boats Unfinished.

The New York-Bermuda motor boat race, under the auspices of the Motor Boat Club of America, the start of which was set for June 17, has been postponed until the first week of September. The postponement was decided upon by the Board of Governors of the Motor Boat Club of America, and was announced last night by Commodore H. H. Melville of the club. The exact date for the start will be decided upon later.

It was explained by Motor Boat Club officials last night that several builders of boats intended as starters in the race had experienced difficulty in having their craft finished in time, so that were the race to be held as originally scheduled they would not be able to participate. In addition, some members of the Motor Boat Club of America found the postponement would convenience them. Altogether it was decided that a much larger entry could be procured by canceling the June date for the race and putting the event off until September. Weather conditions were taken into consideration in arranging the postponement, and it was figured that favorable winds and seas would be just as likely to prevail in the early Fall as during the period previously fixed.

Mallwyd Ned Gets Belated Award.

The English setter Mallwyd Ned, the recent importation of A. Albright, Jr., was judged the best dog of the recent bench show of the Ladies' Kennel Association at Mineola. The decision of the judges, Walter S. Glynn and Samuel Crabtree, was made yesterday. The Albright setter received like honors at the Brighton Beach show only two weeks ago. Mallwyd Ned, before his importation into this country, swept the board in England.

WELLS DEFEATS PAL MOORE.

BOSTON, June 13.—Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, gained the decision over Pal Moore, the Philadelphia lightweight, in their twelve-round bout before the Armory A. A. to-night. The Briton forced the going practically all the way, and had a decided advantage at the finish. He had the call in seven of the twelve rounds, and held his own in two more. Moore gained the honors in only three rounds.

In the opening round Moore excelled in the open fighting, and landed several of his favorite uppercuts to Wells's jaw. The English champion did some telling work in the clinches, landing hard rights and lefts on Moore's stomach and kidneys, and even up matters for the round. In the second round Wells showed more respect for Moore's uppercuts and blocked them cleverly as the Philadelhpian rushed in. After a fast exchange Wells landed a hard left to the body and a right to the face. Moore got in one hard uppercut just before the bell, but the round belonged to Wells by a shade.

Wells took the aggressive in the third round and worked in some telling body punches, but Pal fought back well with lefts to the head, and evened matters. In the fourth Wells rushed in with his head down and parred Pal with a terrific right upper cut to the jaw. The round was marked by some fast exchanges, and Moore did good work with his right uppercuts. The round was even.

The Englishman took the lead in the fifth round and held the advantage in the sixth and seventh as well. He did all the forcing, blocked Moore's returns, and jabbed Pal repeatedly with both hands. Moore hit low in the sixth round and was cautioned by the referee.

In the eighth round, which belonged to Moore, Pal again hit low, and was cautioned. He shook up Wells with a left to the head, and did the forcing throughout the round. Wells led in the ninth and tenth rounds, Moore had the eleventh, and Wells led in the twelfth. Charlie White of New York refereed the bout.

SAVAGE KNOCKED OUT.

About four minutes of actual fighting were required last night for Andy Morris of Boston to shatter the white hope aspirations of Jim Savage, the light heavyweight of New Jersey, at Brown's Gymnasium. Shortly after the second round had begun a terrific left swing on the jaw sent the Jerseyite to the floor, where he remained for some time, and when he was carried to his corner he remained in a dazed condition for several minutes.

The Bostonian some time ago made a very creditable showing against Jim Stuart at the Fairmont Athletic Club, but it was expected that Savage, who is touted as one of the many candidates for the white hope crown, would dispose of him. Morris is slow in starting his work, and in the opening session he was wild and missed several good swings and allowed Savage to land some good ones in return and earn the favor of the round.

Both men being in the best possible condition and equally capable of taking and giving punishment, the contest was looked to go to the limit, and the knockout came as a great surprise to the entire gathering. At the beginning of the second round Morris jumped right after his man and landed several hard rights on the kidneys and ribs. The pair clinched, and, after breaking away, Morris, before the crowd had realized what happened, shot over the hard blow that ended the bout.

Bibbs Wins Over Mike Laurie.

A whirlwind rally in the last round of their ten-round bout at the Superior Athletic Club last night earned the spectators' decision for Joe Bibbs, the Denver heavyweight, over Mike Laurie, a local heavyweight. Both contestants were "white hopes," and the fight proved to be an even affair up to the last round, when the Denver man made his whirlwind finish. Both fighters have a reputation for being sluggers, and on many occasions throughout the bout one or the other was on the verge of delivering a knockout. Especially was this true in the fourth session, when Bibbs almost fell a victim to the terrific body punches handed out by Laurie, while in the fifth round it was the reverse, when Laurie almost succumbed to Bibbs's hard blows to the face and body. In this session Bibbs battered Laurie about the ribs unmercifully.

Bibbs opened the sixth round with a rush and had his opponent hanging on the ropes from his hard body blows near the end of the round. Bibbs had four out of the ten rounds in his favor by a large margin, while Laurie had a decided advantage over his opponent in the fourth, sixth, and eighth rounds, the other three rounds being rather even. There was only one foul blow struck, and this happened in the opening session. While Bibbs had Laurie hanging on the ropes in the first round and was pounding away at his body, Laurie, in trying to get away from the punishment, accidentally hit Bibbs low, and was cautioned by Referee James Tift. From this stage of the battle the fighting was clean.

In the six-round semi-final bout George Gibson, an east side bantam, put an end to the championship aspirations of Kid Kearney, a Boston bantamweight, he having a decided advantage over his opponent when the bell announced the end of the bout.

Kling to Stay with Boston Club.

CHICAGO, June 13.—After purchasing transportation and making arrangements to leave for his home in Kansas City, Joseph Kling, formerly catcher for the Chicago National League Club, who was traded to the Boston Club of the National League last week, suddenly changed his mind. After a conference with President Russell of the Boston Club, Kling started for Pittsburg with the Boston team. Kling said he would receive a large bonus from Boston for playing.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

DAVID MARKS.—David Marks, trading as the Metropole Distributing Company, dealer in wines and liquors at 346 Eighth Avenue, has made an assignment to Rosie Marks. He began business in August, 1908.

THOMAS FLANNERY.—Thomas E. Flannery, otherwise known as Thomas Flannery, a business broker of 271 West 121st Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $23,378, and no assets. The debts were mainly contracted in a liquor business.

HATTIE E. FRANCIS.—Judge Hand has confirmed a composition of Hattie E. Francis, dealer in pictures at 808 Columbus Avenue, with her creditors at 100 cents on the dollar, of which 50 cents is payable on Jan. 1, 1912, and 50 cents on April 1, 1912. Liabilities are $2,875.

DAVID DAVIDSON.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against David Davidson, tailor, at 109 East 125th Street, by these creditors: Edward L. Davidson, $380; Fred L. Conroy, $95, and Simon Anhalt, $50. Liabilities are $5,000, and assets, $2,000. Judge Hand appointed Edward B. Boise receiver.

JACOB M. SIEGEL.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Jacob M. Siegel, manufacturer of ostrich feathers at 54 Bond Street, show liabilities of $10,204 and assets of $4,424, consisting of stock, $2,510; fixtures, $300; accounts, $1,619, and cash in bank, $5. Among the creditors are Joseph A. Rosslip, $5,048, and I. Salaman & Co., $1,858.

FREMONT D. PALMER.—Fremont D. Palmer, residing at 42 West Sixtieth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $2,112 and nominal assets of $798 in uncollectable accounts. Of the liabilities, $1,659 were contracted in business as the F. D. Palmer Auto Renting and Sales Company, at 239 West Fiftieth Street, in 1910.

MINNIE BROWN.—Minnie Brown of 2,043 Bathgate Avenue filed a petition in bankruptcy to get rid of a judgment for $404 obtained against her on Oct. 17 by Lawson & Co., for balance owing on a piano. She bought the piano on a contract, but later on returned it. They sold it and got judgment against her for the difference between the contract price and the amount they obtained at the sale.

ELLIOTT FURNACE APPLIANCE COMPANY.—Judge Cohalan has appointed Jacob H. Jordan receiver for the Elliott Furnace Appliance Company of this city on the application of John W. Faltonte, who obtained a judgment against the company on May 8 for $3,642. The company was incorporated in April, 1909, with a capital stock of $100,000, and William F. Marsh is Treasurer. The company has patents, patterns, and drawings.

M. & M. KOCH.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Monroe and Millard F. Koch, doing business as M. & M. Koch, dealers in millinery at 546 Fifth Avenue, corner of Forty-fifth Street, by these creditors: Zucker & Josephy, $225; Max Feist, $573, and Sommerich & Loewith, $93. The business was founded in 1856 by their father, Samuel Koch, who admitted his sons to a partnership in 1893. Their headquarters were then in Brooklyn, and in 1896 a branch store was opened at 24 West Twenty-third Street, Manhattan. Samuel Koch died in May, 1905, and the sons, Monroe and Millard F. Koch, took the New York store at 24 West Twenty-third Street, where they continued until December last, when they sold the stock and fixtures. About March 1 they opened the new store at 546 Fifth Avenue and Bradstreet's took away their rating. Judge Hand appointed Samuel H. Lummis, actuary of the Eastern Millinery Association, receiver, at the request of creditors.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Pressure is low throughout the country, and there were general showers and thunderstorms in the lake region, New England, and the Middle Atlantic States. In portions of the Middle Atlantic States the storms were severe, with high winds and heavy rains. In the West the weather was generally fair.

Temperatures are still high in the South, while over the central and eastern portions of the country they are moderate. Showers are probable Wednesday night or Thursday in the Missouri and Upper Mississippi Valleys and the Northwest, while elsewhere the weather will be generally fair, although it will continue somewhat unsettled Wednesday in New England. It will be somewhat warmer Wednesday in the central valleys, and warmer Thursday in the Middle Atlantic States. In the West temperature changes will not be decided.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate and variable; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate southwest to northwest; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate southwest to west.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate, variable winds, with generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

3 A. M.	66	61	4 P. M.	71	70
6 A. M.	60	60	6 P. M.	69	66
9 A. M.	65	65	9 P. M.	68	62
12 M.	69	65	12 P. M.	63	..

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was —; for the corresponding date last year it was 66; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 68.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 63; at 8 P. M. it was 64. Maximum temperature, 73 degrees at 3:10 P. M.; minimum, 58 degrees at 5:30 A. M. Humidity, 95 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 94 per cent. at 8 P. M.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

CROP IMPAIRMENT REPORTS

In passing the dividend on its preferred stock the Directors of the Denver & Rio Grande took a step which, despite the present sacrifice of income by the Denver stockholders, is well calculated to strengthen the general position of the Missouri Pacific system. Some such view as this was pressed in yesterday's movement in the stocks directly affected for Missouri Pacific closed at an advance, while Denver preferred suffered a further decline of 2¾ points. The Denver connects the Missouri Pacific lines with the Western Pacific, for whose interest charges the Denver is responsible, and in devoting to the payment of interest on the Western Pacific bonds the money which might have been distributed in dividends to its own preferred stockholders, the Denver is materially strengthening its own financial position and that of its subsidiary.

Increasing attention is being directed to the continued hot weather in the Southwest, whence reports are now arriving daily of damage to the crops, particularly Winter wheat. One of the most carefully compiled railroad crop reports received in this city yesterday told of a considerable impairment of crop conditions in the western part of the States of Kansas, Nebraska, and in Colorado, these reports bearing out other private advices regarding conditions in those sections. It seems pretty well established that the yield of wheat in Kansas in particular will be much lighter than was hoped for earlier in the season, but the increased acreage in the Winter wheat belt as a whole supplies an important offset to the recent reduction in conditions due to excessive temperatures and lack of rain. Moreover, nothing has yet happened to impair in any way the very excellent Spring wheat outlook, and unless damage occurs in the Northwestern States later in the season the total yield of wheat will be gratifyingly large despite the present condition in the Winter wheat belt. Harvesting is now rapidly proceedings there, and the indications point to the gathering of the crop at a considerably earlier date than usual.

In continuance of the movement under way on Monday the copper shares were again strong, yesterday Amalgamated establishing another new high record for the year. The general tone of the market was firm at the close. A majority of the active issues showed some advance for the day. Cotton prices reacted a little, while grain markets rose fractionally after their decline of the last two days. The report of the country's agricultural exports for May made a favorable showing, recording as it did an increase not only over the preceeding month, but also over the corresponding month a year ago.

PREPARING STEEL MERGER.

Alabama Consolidated Is Rearranging Its Board of Directors.

In preparation for the merger that is being arranged between the Southern Iron and Steel Company and the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company, the latter has begun rearranging its Board of Directors. F. W. Blair, President of the Union Trust Company of Detroit; H. Melville, Vice President of the Canadian Northern Railway, who is also a member of the committee that is working out the merger plans, and J. A. Greene of Matthew Addy & Co., the big steel and iron-selling concern of Cincinnati, have been added to the board, and other interests will be included at a meeting to be held next week. The number of Directors is to be increased accordingly.

The plans for the merger are nearing completion and will shortly be announced.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

United Copper recovered yesterday its loss of Monday, when it closed at 1⅞. It opened an eighth down, but advanced to 3, the high point of Monday, at which it closed. The movement took place without any accompanying news affecting the company. There were signs of profit taking on the Curb in Studebaker, which dropped off to 65⅞ after its recent rise. Guggenheim Exploration held at 205 throughout the session, after ranging from 198 to 200 last week.

Panama bonds were again in good demand, though the transactions were considerably less than on Monday, when they reached $950,000.

Transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

EXPORTS LARGELY INCREASED

Credit Balances Building Especially in England and France.

The exports, exclusive of specie, from the Port of New York to foreign ports last week were $18,753,628, as against $12,454,580 for the corresponding week last year. The exports since Jan. 1 total $350,654,553, as against $283,344,161 last year.

This showing is in keeping with the increase reported from time to time from other parts of the United States, and the movement, taken as a whole, is one of the factors in upbuilding the large credit balances of this country abroad, especially in England and France.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The advance in Amalgamated Copper, in which Utah Copper and Tennessee Copper participated, and which also influenced Smelting, was the feature of the day on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The whole market was favorably influenced in the later trading by the upward movement in the metal shares. Trading was active, with the market a broad one, the sales of 67,800 shares being distributed among fifty-seven different stocks.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Offering Foreign Money Here.

Within the last two or three days some foreign money has been offered in this market at 3½ per cent. for six months, (three months with three months' renewal.) The tone of our own money market has been easier this week, after the recent brief upturn in rates, and there has been little disposition to take this six months' money at the 3½ per cent. rate. Yesterday discounts in London which last week had got down to 1 15-16, the lowest rate since last July, showed greater firmness, rising to 2 5-16. A continuance of this tendency would make it unprofitable to offer money in this market, for in making these foreign loans the cost, including the commission paid to bankers abroad, must be taken into account as against the difference in interest rates here and in the London market. Usually at this season the difference in rates is great enough to result in a large amount of borrowing abroad by New York bankers, but this year conditions up to the present have not favored the drawing of finance bills, which is one of the mediums through which these foreign loans are usually made.

Preparing Government Bond Bids.

Preparations are now being made for the bids which New York bankers are expected to make on the $50,000,000 issue of 3 per cent. United States bonds to be sold on Saturday. It is believed that a large amount of the bonds will be bid for by banks in this city, including, it was considered probable, at least one bid for the entire issue. Despite the near approach of the date of the sale the new bonds continue to be quoted at close to the highest premium which has been paid for them in the preliminary trading, which has been going on for some weeks. Trades were made on the curb yesterday as high as 102 15-16. At that price the bonds yield about 2.85 per cent. While financial institutions, including a large number of National banks, are expected to be the principal bidders for these bonds, it is known that some individual bids for fair sized blocks of the bonds have been intrusted to bankers, and in addition to these it is considered likely that a large number of individual bids for small amounts will be made.

Indifferent to Subway News.

Both the Interborough and Brooklyn Rapid Transit issues displayed remarkably little interest in the long-awaited report of the McAneny committee when it finally became public yesterday. There were 2,300 shares of the Brooklyn company's stock traded in, with a net gain for the day of only ¼ of a point. Interborough preferred and common reflected even less interest. Inter-Met common advanced ⅛ of a point on transactions totaling 1,200 shares, while the preferred lost ¼ on total trading of only 800 shares. The total range of prices from the lowest of the day to the highest was only ⅝ in B. R. T., ⅝ in Inter-Met common, and ⅞ in Inter-Met preferred. Most of the traders took the compromise report as another stage in the wearisome negotiations.

American Telephone Stock.

Referring to reports that were in circulation in the financial district yesterday that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was to make a new issue of stock with rights to the stockholders, President Theodore N. Vail said that there had been no development in the matter since his recommendation in the annual report, when he said: "It will be necessary toward the close of the year to do some financing, and should conditions remain much as they now are this will probably be done by an issue of share capital to the stockholders. The time and amount of the issue will be determined later in order that any change in conditions may be taken advantage of." Mr. Vail said yesterday that it was possible that the matter would be taken up at the next meeting of the Directors, the latter part of this month, but nothing definte had been determined on. The stock, he said, would be issued to pay for new construction.

American Securities in London.

While efforts to list American securities on the Paris Bourse have resulted in the acceptance of the stock of only two, the Philadelphia Company and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé, in the parquet, with the addition of several others on the coulisse, the number of stocks listed in London is 31, and bond issues of more than 100 railroads are traded in there. There is apparently a family feeling in London about American securities. The newspapers classify their quotations as domestic, Indian, British possessions, American and foreign. Among the stocks listed in London are a number not usually mentioned in the London quotations current in Wall Street, but the most active include Atchison, Erie, St. Paul, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, and Wabash.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, June 13.—Money was abundant, but discount rates remained firm to-day.

A better tone prevailed on the Stock Exchange, although trading was quiet and practically limited to transactions in connection with the settlement. Consols improved and copper shares were strong on American buying, but gilt-edged securities were depressed. Mining shares closed firm.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2¼ per cent.; for three months' bills 2¼@2 5-16 per cent.

Bullion amounting to £131,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

PARIS, June 13.—Prices opened firm on the Bourse to-day. An easier tone developed later and the market closed slightly lower.

BERLIN, June 13.—Prices were weak on the Boerse to-day.

6% Mortgage Gold Bonds

CORPORATION OF

Trustees of the Masonic Hall & Asylum Fund

Dated March 31, 1911

Due, $50,000 annually April 1, 1914-1918 inclusive. $850,000 September 18, 1918

Coupon Bonds, $500 Denominations Interest payable April 1st and October 1st

TAX EXEMPT IN NEW YORK STATE

These bonds are a direct obligation of the TRUSTEES OF THE MASONIC HALL & ASYLUM FUND, a corporation created under the laws of the State of New York, which holds title to the property belonging to the GRAND LODGE OF FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, an organization of great financial and moral strength, and are further secured by a mortgage on the property including land and buildings located in the heart of the City of New York on the N. E. corner of Twenty-third Street and Sixth Avenue and on the connecting building on the South side of Twenty-fourth Street, subject to prior liens of $1,200,000 due and payable September 18, 1918, simultaneously with the latest maturity of these bonds.

The improvements on this property consist of a modern eighteen-story building known as the Masonic Hall, completed in 1910, and located on the Twenty-fourth Street lots, and a new nineteen-story building under construction on the N. E. corner of Twenty-third Street and Sixth Avenue (the site occupied by the old Masonic Hall).

The proceeds of the sale of these bonds, $1,100,000, are on deposit with the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Co., and will be paid to the contractors as the work progresses in accordance with the building contract.

THE LAND, TOGETHER WITH BUILDING EXISTENT AND IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION, HAS BEEN APPRAISED BY THE CRUIKSHANK COMPANY, SUCCESSORS TO E. A. CRUIKSHANK & CO., AT $3,280,000, WHICH, WHILE LESS THAN COST (AND ASIDE FROM OTHER UNENCUMBERED PROPERTY AND CASH ASSETS), LEAVES AN EQUITY OVER THE TOTAL MORTGAGE INDEBTEDNESS, INCLUDING BONDS OFFERED HEREWITH, OF NEARLY $1,000,000.

It is conservatively estimated that the net income from the 23d and 24th Street buildings will be double the amount required to pay all interest charges without including income derived from other sources.

Title to the premises has been guaranteed by the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Co., whose attorneys, Philip S. Dean and Howard C. Tracy, have passed upon the legality of this issue.

"The corporation also owns free and clear, the Masonic Home located in the City of Utica, State of New York, consisting of about 220 acres of land, on which are the large buildings constituting the Home. The buildings represent an investment of more than $500,000, and the land we are informed is worth at least $75,000, or a total value of more than $575,000.

The corporation also had on hand at the end of its fiscal year, cash on deposit $221,408.26, marketable securities amounting to $13,855.51, making a total of $235,263.77. It had no obligations other than its current monthly bills, except its obligation to meet the interest as it will mature upon the foregoing liens."

Having sold a large part of these bonds, we offer the balance, subject to prior sale, and recommend them as strongly secured and a most conservative short-time investment,

At 100 and Accrued Interest, to Net 6%

INCREASE IN EXPORTS.

May Record Highest for Corresponding Month in Any Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—May exports during the current year were larger than during the corresponding month of any earlier year. They aggregated, according to a statement issued to-day by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, $153,261,278, against $131,083,890 in May, 1910, and $134,759,568 in May, 1907, the highest export record made in May of any earlier year. This brings the total exports for the eleven months ended with May to $1,907,041,880, indicating clearly that the total for the fiscal year ending with this month will exceed $2,000,000,000.

The imports of the month were also larger than in any preceding May, being $130,677,753, against $118,837,907 in May of last year and $126,512,106 in the former high record May, that of 1907. Of the $130,677,753 imports, $63,144,938 entered free of duty and $67,532,815 were dutiable. The total imports for the eleven months ended with May amounted to $1,405,282,514, of which $715,748,393 entered free of duty and $689,534,121 were dutiable.

Imports for the eleven months ended with May show a decrease of $31,700,429 compared with the corresponding period of last year, and exports show an increase of $289,944,890 compared with the corresponding months of last year.

Agricultural products exported from the United States in May had a total value of $56,173,000, an increase of $7,341,000 over April and $12,604,000 over May, 1910. Meats and dairy products furnished the bulk of the increase over last year, with a gain of $6,060,764. For the eleven months to May 31, total exports increased $142,085,344 over the corresponding period of the fiscal year 1910. The comparison with the two preceding periods is shown below:

Meat, dairy products..	113,587,462	100,974,186	133,886,020
Cattle, hogs, &c.	11,147,683	11,655,258	16,777,586
Cotton	572,907,935	427,050,501	402,367,132

In 1908 the exports for the eleven months amounted to $895,785,000, and in the year before that to $898,360,000, the largest total in the past ten years.

A First Mortgage Gas Bond to Yield 5.75% Income

Earnings available for interest in 1910 over 3 times the amount required.

Earnings for 1st quarter 1911 over 5 times the interest requirements.

Compulsory sinking fund payable to trustee monthly to retire large amounts of bonds every year commencing July 1st, 1911, will in our opinion greatly enhance the market value of these bonds in the near future.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

DECLINES IN CHICAGO

Out-of-town markets had another rather quiet day, with further advances in the copper issues.

Fairmont & Clarksburg Traction preferred advanced 6 points on the Baltimore Exchange. The company's business has been increasing at a very satisfactory rate. A. C. L. convertible debenture 4s are in constant and good demand and the price again made a slight advance.

The Boston market opened strong, with copper shares the special feature. Amalgamated advanced to 70⅝, Lake to 40, North Butte to 36, Old Dominion to 49, and United States Smelting to 39⅝. The undertone continued steady throughout the session and the market closed strong at highest prices of the day.

On the Chicago Exchange Quaker Oats shares declined 3 points on small offerings. People's Gas changed hands in a small way at unchanged quotations. There was slightly better trading in the elevated shares, and both Metropolitan West Side and North Western common advanced, while South Side shares remained steady. There was a sacrifice sale of 100 shares of Kansas City Railway and Light preferred on the Exchange and the order was executed at 40, a decline of 9 points from the opening price. Sears-Roebuck, Chicago Telephone, and American Can preferred sold off substantial fractions, while Brick shares closed 1¾ points above the previous sale and Commonwealth Edison was a fraction higher.

The comparative firmness of the Philadelphia market, even when the Wall Street list is weak, as it was yesterday morning, is seemingly due to the lack of public participation, which has been its chief characteristic for some time past. Early weakness in the arbitrage group gave way to a firmer tone in the later dealings, but the general volume of transactions throughout the session was exceedingly light.

Yesterday's sales in the various markets, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

FEWER REALTY DIRECTORS.

Board of United States Company Reduced from 18 to 14.

The Board of Directors of the United States Realty and Improvement Company was reduced from eighteen to fourteen at the annual meeting of the company yesterday. The Directors who retired were Charles M. Schwab, William H. Chesebrough, B. M. Fellows, and Paul Starrett. The other Directors were re-elected. President Black said the rearrangement of the board was a sort of family matter and had no significance beyond the fact that it was felt that the board was too large.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—The wheat market, after a day of uncertainty, closed at a small net gain for the session. The improvement seemed to be due to covering, a decided let-up in the liquidating pressure, and there were reports of some support by the bull interest again. The buying in the afternoon was encouraged by a big decrease in the world's visible, 6,554,000 bushels, compared with an increase the previous week of 3,134,000 bushels. The decrease last year was 7,966,000 bushels. The foreign markets were also quite firm, and there were some complaints from Western Europe, although conditions in Southeastern Europe are satisfactory. There were reports of some export bids and that orders were nearer a working basis, owing to the sharp decline in the American markets. Only two loads of Manitoba wheat were reported during the day for export. The Western conditions were unchanged. The weather was favorable. The weekly bulletin stated that ideal conditions prevailed in Spring wheat regions the past week, and private reports are of similar conditions in the Canadian Northwest. Predictions of record crops of Spring wheat, American and Canadian, continue, and very little deterioration in the crop promise is reported since June 1. In Winter wheat sections the weather continues dry and harvest is in full swing in the more southerly sections of Kansas and Missouri. The weather is very favorable for this work. Two crop reporters now traveling in Kansas estimate the crop in that State at 67,000,000 to 72,000,000 bushels, compared with 61,000,000 bushels last year. The estimate on the Nebraska crop is about 5,000,000 bushels more than last year. No. 2 red is quoted at 94¼c, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.02, and No. 1 Manitoba, $1.04¼.

CORN.—The market was less active. Prices advanced again early, but selling orders in considerable volume were met, and the market reacted, closing at only a slight net gain. While apprehension was expressed regarding corn in the southerly sections, particularly in the Gulf cotton regions and the Southwest, owing to the severe drought and high temperatures, corn elsewhere seems to be doing well, and there are few complaints, even from Kansas and Missouri. Receipts continue large, and the past week the visible supply increased 1,859,000 bushels, following an increase of 1,831,000 bushels the previous week. Cash corn was quiet, with two loads reported for export. No. 2 corn was quoted at 61½c, free on board.

OATS were active and firm early, advancing to the previous high levels, but later reacted, closing at about unchanged for the day. Claims of damage from the dry, hot weather in the Southwest and South, and reports of damage in Ohio Valley States and in Nebraska, stimulated early buying, but the demand was not urgent, and prices reacted readily. The visible supply increased 974,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 924,000 bushels last year, while Western receipts continue more than 50 per cent. larger than a year ago. Cash oats were quieter, with standards quoted at 44½c; No. 2 white, 45c, and No. 3, 44c.

PROVISIONS were dull, final prices showing a small net decline. There was very little interest shown in futures, but owing to the rather liberal movement of hogs, and a decline of 5 to 10 cents in Western hog prices, the market softened.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The switching of speculative longs from the July option into later positions, principally August and September, was the feature of the day's operations, and accounted for the bulk of the transactions. Support was not in evidence, which, in conjunction with a lower lard market, had the effect of inducing somewhat freer offerings. The steadiness of the cotton market, reflecting dry weather conditions in many sections of the belt, restrained pressure in the distant deliveries, which were relatively firm. Domestic demand for oil shows a slight improvement, but on the whole inquiry is in unimportant volume. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

Although the character of news advices was not changed materially, in fact the outlook for continued dry weather overnight was construed as further intensifying the drought prevailing, bull aggressiveness, recently in evidence, was not in important volume. There were some indications of the market having become over-bought, with a continuation of profit-taking by conservative authorities, who believe that on the slightest provocation, urgent realizing will occur.

Irregularity prevailed during the entire session, with opening levels 2 advance to 3 decline. From this point, pressure was restricted by official forecasts offering no relief to the dry weather, expectations of a bullish weekly weather report, and fears of re-entering of the market by interests which have already accumulated considerable cotton.

Liverpool advices were a shade disappointing, and foreigners were fair sellers in the local market, as were wire houses, thought to be acting for New Orleans account. A private cable from Liverpool stated that the foreign market would be ruled by weather conditions; spinners were well stocked, and notwithstanding a fair Manchester business, expectations are for only a small spot market at Liverpool for the present.

Crop reports, as sent by private authorities, were in repetition of those recently received, and while some claimed that rain was immediately needed, particularly in the extreme western part of the cotton belt, others stated that moisture in ten days would be beneficial. At all events, there is an indisposition to press sales at present, pending the realization of this precipitation. Predictions from New Orleans weather sharps were that the outlook for rain was further away than ever.

Detailed weather reports showed light to moderate rains over Monday night in the Savannah district, also in the Augusta section. General showers were reported from Charleston, and light showers in the Atlanta and Montgomery districts. No important moisture was shown elsewhere, with temperatures at many points over 100 degrees. The Government's weekly weather bulletin was just about in line with expectations. The report said in part that drought was broken in the Carolinas; drought is severe in Arkansas, Louisiana, and Tennessee. Rains are much needed in Texas and Oklahoma. Rains in Georgia and Mississippi were noted in sections, but were generally insufficient.

Southern spot markets were generally unchanged, as was the local spot market; New York middling uplands quoted at 15.90.

REPORT ON METROPOLITAN.

William L. Turner, as Special Master, reported to Judge Lacombe of the United States Circuit Court his findings of fact and conclusion of law in relation to surface traction litigation which were submitted to him Dec. 2.

Mr. Turner, among other things, reports that practically all of the $52,000,000 of the capital stock of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company is still outstanding. Also that during the years 1901 and 1902 the deficits in the interest on that stock, which was 7 per cent., amounted to $247,000, and that the yearly deficits since would have been $600,000. In addition to the interest deficit and its bonded indebtedness, the report states, the Metropolitan had a floating debt of $11,000,000.

Up to Sept. 24, 1907, the City Company had incurred constantly increasing annual deficits, resulting from excess of expenditures for fixed charges under the lease and for operation and maintenance of the street railways in its possession, over receipts which then totaled more than $11,000,000. Special Master Turner says in conclusion that the lease made by the Metropolitan Company to the City Company, so far as the properties which were taken by the courts' receivers on Sept. 24, 1907, are concerned, should be deemed to be no longer in effect after that date. Also that from Sept. 25, 1907, to July 31, 1908, Receivers Joline and Robinson acted in a dual capacity as receivers of the Metropolitan and City Railway Companies.

In view of these conclusions of law Master Turner states it is unnecessary for him to pass upon the question of the validity or enforcibility of the lease, and nothing in the report is intended to be an adjudication that it was valid or enforcible.

NEW CHINESE BONDS READY FOR MARKET

American Allotment of a Quarter of $30,000,000 Issue to be Offered To-day.

POPULAR DEMAND EXPECTED

Syndicate of Four New York Banking Institutions Handling $7,500,000 to be Offered Here.

The first public offering of the Chinese railway bonds, issued in connection with the Imperial Chinese Government loan, will be made to-day by the American bankers who were assigned one-quarter of the $30,000,000 to be put out at this time. J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the First National Bank, and the National City Bank compose the American syndicate. Simultaneous offerings will be made in London by the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation, in Berlin by the Deutch-Asiatische Bank, and in Paris by the Banque de L'Indo-Chine.

The subscription lists will be closed June 19, or earlier, at the bankers' option. Owing to the security back of the bonds, it is expected that the issue will be quickly sold, especially that portion of it offered abroad.

The technical description of the obligation is the "5 per cent. Hukuang Railways Sinking Fund Gold Loan of 1911," and it is made to provide capital for the construction of railway lines in the Provinces of Hunan and Hupel, and incidentally for the redemption of the outstanding gold bonds, amounting to $2,222,000, of the Chinese 5 per cent. gold imperial loan of 1900, issued by the American-China Development Company in connection with the agreement obtained in 1898 and annulled in 1905, for the construction of a railway from Hankow to Canton.

According to a prospectus which has been approved by the Chinese Minister at London, and which is based upon the loan agreement, the net revenue of the railways in each year after their construction is to be applied by the Imperial Chinese Government, in the first place to the service of the loan for that year, and any surplus revenue is to be deposited with the contracting banks in Shanghai or Hankow, up to the amount required to pay the following year's installments of interest on the loan; and the Imperial Chinese Government undertakes that, after redemption of the before-mentioned gold bonds, the railways shall under no circumstance be mortgaged nor their receipts given as security to any other party so long as the loan is unredeemed.

The agreement further states that this loan is the direct obligation of the Imperial Chinese Government both as to principal and interest, and is, together with the second series of £4,000,000, specifically secured by a first charge upon certain provincial revenues which are declared by the loan agreement to be free from all other loans, charges, or mortgages and to aggregate £693,333, or about $3,466,665 per annum.

The agreement provides that so long as the principal and interest are regularly paid, there shall be no interference with these provincial revenues; but if the principal or interest be in default at due date, then, after a reasonable period of grace, Lekin and other suitable internal revenues of the Provinces of Hupei and Hunan sufficient to provide the amounts above stated shall be transferred to and administered by the imperial maritime customs in the interests of the bondholders. So long as the loan shall remain unredeemed it shall have priority both as regards principal and interest over all future loans, charges, and mortgages charged on the privincial revenues.

The prospectus for the loan was signed yesterday in Washington by the Chinese Minister. As the contract provides for the construction of branches of the main lines and extensions on similar terms, the amount of the loan will ultimately reach much larger figures. The bonds will be offered at par.

JAMES J. HILL GOING FISHING.

Chairman James J. Hill of the Great Northern Railway reached New York from the West yesterday. He is here this time for his annual salmon-fishing trip. With his son, Louis W. Hill, President of the Great Northern, and a party of half a dozen guests he will leave Sunday for a three weeks' trip to Canada. The party will spend their time on Mr. Hill's yacht, the Wacouta, fishing in the waters which are leased from the Canadian Government.

Mr. Hill devoted most of the day to conferences and so missed his usual talk with the newspaper men. He said, however, that the Northwest expects to gather a record wheat crop this year, and that the weather conditions have been very favorable. He had no additional information to give concerning the Great Northern's recently executed $600,000,000 mortgage. As for the Alberta Central, whose charter the Great Northern was recently said to have acquired for the purpose of getting a stronger hold in Canada, the Chairman said he did not even know where that road is.

Darius Miller, President, and George B. Harris, Chairman, of the Burlington, came East with Mr. Hill. Directors of that road are to meet in this city to-morrow to act on the dividend and other matters. Mr. Miller said that the crop outlook in the Middle West has never been better. The corn prospects, which interest the Burlington particularly, are far ahead of last year's, and he considers the outlook for business throughout the Burlington's territory to be unusually good.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Howard K. Wood, formerly President of the Corporation Trust Company, has been elected President of the United States Corporation Company of 34 Nassau Street.

Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, which has been withholding an order for 1,000 hopper cars until the prospects for coal tonnage could be determined, has revived its inquiry. The company bought 2,000 coal cars last year.

The International & Great Northern was bought in by the Gould interests at a foreclosure sale in Palestine, Texas, yesterday. The price was $12,645,000, and the property was acquired for the third mortgage bondholders.

It is understood that the sale of about $10,000,000 Illinois Central Railroad Company 4 per cent. refunding bonds to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., only awaits the confirmation of the Executive Committee. The bonds will probably be brought out next week.

The Executive Committee of the Chicago & Alton Railroad Company met yesterday, but took no action on the semi-annual dividend on the 4 per cent. non-cumulative preferred stock. It is believed that the Directors will meet some day next week and act on the matter.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Knickerbocker Trust Company yesterday it was decided to make application for admission to the New York Clearing House Association, in accordance with a recommendation of the Executive Committee at a former meeting.

The Consolidated Car Heating Company has declared its regular annual dividend of 4 per cent., payable in semi-annual installments, and an extra dividend of 2 per cent. payable July 15. C. S. Hawley, Vice President and General Manager, was elected President and Treasurer.

Farson, Son & Co. are offering at par and interest $200,000 Croisic Realty Company 6 per cent. guaranteed mortgage bonds due in 1915. Principal and interest are guaranteed by Louis H. Jones, Thomas W. Jones, and Charles E. Jones. The Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company is trustee. The Croisic is a new building at Fifth Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street, which is valued at $2,590,000, or $1,100,000 above the bonded indebtedness.

With the return of Edwin Hawley and other Directors from an inspection trip over the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio, it is believed that the purchase of that road by the Chesapeake & Ohio may be consummated within the next two weeks. Possession of the Clinchfield would give the Chesapeake & Ohio through connections from Chicago to Florida, except for a link of about thirty-five miles, which would have to be constructed from Elkhorn, West Va., to Dante, Va.

FIRST BALE OF 1911 COTTON

The first bale of 1911 cotton is expected to reach New York to-day by express from St. Louis, and it will be sold at auction on the steps of the Cotton Exchange. Whether it gets here to-day or to-morrow, it will be more than a week earlier than in any other year on record.

This bale was raised in the southernmost part of Texas, at San Bonita, which is in the Brownsville district. It was rushed to the railroad by automobile and taken to Houston, 300 miles, by special train. There it was put up at auction, and after lively bidding knocked down at $1,015 to Jesse H. Jones, Vice President of the Union National Bank. The bank is the Houston correspondent of A. G. Edwards & Sons of St. Louis and New York, and it was sent to them by express. They are not members of the Cotton Exchange, so its sale here will be handled by Post & Flagg of 38 Wall Street, at their request. Woodrow & Lewis will be the auctioneers.

When the first bale reaches here it is hurried to the Exchange and left on the sidewalk as an object of curiosity as long as the police will permit. This is usually an hour or two, in which time many cotton men have a chance to look it over and pick off souvenirs. Then the President of the Exchange announces on the floor that the first bale has arrived and will be sold at auction on the steps.

There is jostling and scrambling about the bale, and it is bid up to such a point as the patriotism and sentiment of the cotton men suggest. It is worth no more, of course, than the average bale, say, $50, but it usually brings from $75 to $150, and sometimes $200 here. The money goes to charity and usually the bale is sent on to Liverpool, where it is again the centre for jollification and is again sold at auction.

REORGANIZE FOUNDATION CO.

New Incorporation Under Delaware Laws, but New York Co. Will Operate.

The Foundation Company of Delaware has been incorporated, with $2,100,000 capital, as a step in the reorganization and extension of the Foundation Company of New York. The latter is capitalized at only $100,000, and has accumulated a surplus six or seven times as great. The stock has always been closely held, but a new policy is now to be adopted and new interests are to be taken in. Just what these interests are will not be made known till the plans are further developed.

In connection with these changes, however, it is to be noted that Kingsley L. Martin, who resigned as Bridge Commissioner for the purpose, is to be Vice President of the company.

The Delaware corporation will be merely a holding concern for the stock, and will be controlled by the present holders of stock in the New York corporation, which will continue to be the operating company.

GREENE PROFITS ON CANANEA

$1,184,750 for the Year—Total Earnings $5,592,050.

The annual report of the Greene Consolidated Copper Company, which owns all of the capital stock of the Cananea Consolidated Copper Company, shows gross operating profits from the latter during the year ended Dec. 31 last of $1,184,750. The refined copper production was 36,921,309 pounds. After deducting expenditures of all kinds, including an item of $684,097 for construction and betterments, all of which was charged off to depreciation, there remained net profits of $459,202.

The gross earnings on copper, silver, and gold produced during the year were $5,592,050. The company had $2,741,437 assets in excess of liabilities at the close of the year.

The company received an average price for all of its copper produced during the year of 12.621 cents a pound. The value of precious metals, per ton of refined copper, was $28.14, as against $21.68 for the preceding year.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Twenty-four Story Hotel for Seventh Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street—Penniman House on Fifth Avenue Sold and Business Building Leased for Long Term — Bronx and Suburban Deals.

Deals of the million-dollar variety are becoming the weekly, if not the daily, characteristic of the realty market, and to the large number of noteworthy transactions which have made the last few weeks unusually active was added another yesterday which will give a marked impetus to the high-class improvement of Seventh Avenue from Times Square to the Pennsylvania Station. The old Marshall block on the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, acquired over a year ago by Robert W. Evans, has been sold to a syndicate for about $1,350,000, and a twenty-four story hotel of the highest class is to be erected on the site. The new improvement will cost at least $4,000,000, and it has already been leased for $350,000 a year, on an eighty-four-year term.

The house is expected to be ready for occupancy in the Fall of 1912. The transaction was negotiated by L. W. Flaunlacher of the realty firm of L. M. Reinach & Co. and Preston S. Faust. It is the largest Seventh Avenue deal in the vicinity since the erection of the Pennsylvania Station.

In addition to this Seventh Avenue sale, the realty market presented a well-diversified list of transactions. Fifth Avenue came prominently into notice in the purchase by Philip Livingston from the estate of George H. Penniman of the five-story residence at 1,071 Fifth Avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of Eighty-eighth Street, and the leasing by the shoe firm of Frank Brothers for a long term of the building at 588 Fifth Avenue. The Penniman house has a frontage of 30 feet on the avenue, 127.3 feet deep, with an extension on Eighty-eighth Street, running around the corner house, the frontage on the street being 25 feet.

It is said the property was held at $300,000. The house was built about ten years ago, being one of the earliest high grade modern houses in that locality, which now contains some of the most expensive mansions on the avenue. The Carnegie residence is at Ninetieth Street, the new Henry Phipps house at Eighty-seventh Street, and Benjamin M. Duke's new home at Eighty-ninth Street. Mr. Livingston has been an active investor in high class realty for the last few years, owning, among other holdings, three large apartment houses along Riverside Drive.

The other Fifth Avenue deal was made by John N. Golding, who leased for twenty-one years for Henry G. Trevor the building now used for business at 588 Fifth Avenue, on the west side, between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Streets, at an aggregate rental of about $450,000. Frank Brothers, retailers in shoes, of 224 Fifth Avenue have secured the building, which occupies a plot 27.6 by 100, for a new uptown store, but it will not undergo any alterations for that purpose until the existing leases expire, which have about four years yet to run.

Good Demand for Private Dwellings.

The five-story private dwelling 621 West End Avenue, on a plot 32 by 40, has been purchased by M. C. Migel. The property is located at the northwest corner of Ninetieth Street.

Mrs. J. M. Pinkney has sold 50 East Seventy-seventh Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 12.6 by 102.2, for occupancy.

The three-story and basement dwelling 225 West Forty-eighth Street, on a lot 20 by 100, has been sold by Mrs. Emily Blackhurst. The buyer is Leonard L. Hill, who owns the adjoining similar property, 221 and 223, making a plot 60 by 100, adjoining on the east the Union Methodist Episcopal Church.

George J. Gould Buys on East 73d St.

Jonathan Southward has sold to George J. Gould the three-story and basement building 171 East Seventy-third Street, covering a lot 20 by 102.2. Mr. Gould's garage occupies the adjoining property, 167 and 169, and through the purchase now has a plot 70 by 102.2, between Third and Lexington Avenues. Herbert A. Sherman negotiated the sale.

East Side Sales.

The northeast corner of Grand and Eldridge Streets, 25 by 87.6, has been sold by I. Lewkowitz to an investor. The property is covered by a two-story building.

Sale on West Ninetieth Street.

Thomas J. O'Reilly has sold for Mrs. Euphemia Coffin the five-story and basement brick stable, on a plot 50 by 100.8½, known as 174 West Ninetieth Street, 170 feet east of Amsterdam Avenue, to a client for investment.

Resale of Harlem Apartment.

The Clinton Holding Company has resold through the Duross Company and John A. Clark 507 West 124th Street, a six-story elevator apartment, on a plot 49.6 by 100.11.

A Deal on the Heights.

The P. J. McGuire Construction Company has sold through S. H. Raphael & Co. 2,394 Amsterdam Avenue, a six-story elevator apartment, on a plot 75 by 100. Benjamin Jacobs and Philip Ritter are the buyers.

Bronx.

Kirkpatrick & Urquhart have sold to a client for investment 684 East 136th Street, the southwest corner of Southern Boulevard, a five-story building, with stores, on plot 32 by 138.

Brooklyn.

E. Sharum has sold to the Armor Realty Company 80-86 Beaver Street, Brooklyn, two five-story and basement tenements, on a plot 40 by 100 each. No. 422 Degraw Street, Brooklyn, a three-story brick dwelling, on a plot 13 by 70, and two lots at Springfield Gardens, Jamaica, were given as part payment.

Madison Square Garden Sale Contracts Signed.

Final action was taken yesterday in the sale of Madison Square Garden when contracts were signed and exchanged and the money paid for the property by the purchasing syndicate known as the F. & D. Company, of which G. Louis Boissevain is President. About $3,500,000 was the price paid by the buyers, who will improve the site with a twenty-five-story loft structure, to be ready for occupancy Feb. 1, 1913.

Favor New Inheritance Tax Bill.

The Governors of the Real Estate Board of Brokers at their regular meeting yesterday unanimously resolved that the board favor the Inheritance Tax bill introduced by Senator Harte, which, it is understood, is practically a renewal of the old inheritance tax law. The Governors believe the present law is a detriment to the best interests of the State.

Property at Auction.

A number of valuable properties in and near Manhattan will be offered at public auction to-day at the Real Estate Salesroom by Bryan L. Kennelly. They include 114 West Seventy-fourth Street, a four-story dwelling; 109 West Eighty-seventh Street, a three-story dwelling; 238 West Seventy-fifth Street, a three-story dwelling, and 102 East Seventy-first Street, a three-story dwelling, for the estate of Nathan Bozeman. The Barnum country estate of five and three-quarter acres, for the estate of J. W. Barnum, deceased, also will be sold. This property is at Hempstead L. I., and consists of a large house and outbuildings. Forty acres on the Newfield Road, in Stamford, Conn., are to be sold in two separate parcels, one of nineteen acres, including house and outbuildings, having 320 feet of frontage on Newfield Road, nicluding a new Colonial dwelling, with garage, and the other consisting of twenty-one acres on the opposite side of Newfield Road, with 450 feet of frontage.

Madison Avenue Houses.

Plans have been filed by S. E. Gage, architect, for the construction of four four-story private dwellings at 20, 22, and 24 East Seventy-ninth Street and 1,020 Madison Avenue. They will be similar in design, with façades of brick, with Indiana limestone trimmings. Each house on the street will cost $30,000, while the avenue house will cost $40,000, making a total cost of $130,000. The Charles Buek Construction Company is the owner.

Club for Kreutzer Quartet.

Plans have been filed for making over the four-story tenement house at 228 East Eighty-sixth Street for the Kruetzer Quartet Club, of which Frank Wuttge is President. The remodeled structure will contain bowling alleys, café, restaurant, library, ladies' room, and a large assembly room. A two-story rear extension 55 feet deep will be built to accommodate the alleys and the assembly hall. Henry Regelman, the architect, estimates the cost at $10,000.

Notes.

Henry Clews of the banking firm of Henry Clews & Co. has leased the store and basement in the new building he erected at 630 Fifth Avenue, where his former residence stood, to a business concern for ten years.

Henry A. Blumenthal, as attorney, has secured for the C. W. L. Realty Company a first mortgage of $100,000 from the Excelsior Savings Bank on 235 to 241 East Fifty-seventh Street, a six-story elevator apartment house, for five years, at 5 per cent. The Lincoln Mortgage Company has taken a second mortgage of $10,000 on the premises.

The United States Realty and Improvement Company has leased space in the new Whitehall Building, 17 Battery Place, to the Crano Lake Company, American Steel Barrel Company, Alphano Humus Company, C. H. Ruhl, Hutchison Scott Company, A. E. Weiss & Co., W. W. Bruce, Remington Standard Motor Company, Manufacturers' Lumber Company, Keys Church Company, Hagemeyer Trading Company, John Auerbach, Corrugated Bar Company, and Anchor Industrial Company.

LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

18 Minutes From Herald Square

This highly cultivated estate, with its 230 picturesque, rolling acres, its old manor house, its fresh water lakes and its winding roads, cool walks, and bridle paths, shaded by century old trees, has long been considered one of the finest country estates in the East.

This new colony of little country estates suggested its own name:

Oakland

The Tuxedo of Long Island

A skilled landscape architect has divided this beautiful estate into plots of one-fourth to one acre, according to the demands of the landscape. Each plot is a miniature country estate and an ideal setting for a homestead. Prices are $2,000 and up, reasonable terms.

The famous Oakland Golf Club, formerly a part of the estate, is within the park confines. Two fresh water lakes and frontage on the bay, offers outdoor sports and entertainment to suit all desires.

Oakland is entirely different from other developments. It is old country, not new. It is in New York, though not of it. All city improvements, including sewers, water, gas, and electricity. Only 18 minutes from Herald Square on the new Pennsylvania Railroad. Just long enough to run through the morning paper.

No other location has so much to offer in natural beauty, exclusiveness, or accessibility. Write for booklet, map, and price list.

BIGGEST FAMILY OF LAWYERS.

Alfred Steckler, Jr., Added to the Profession—Will Have His Own Firm.

Alfred Steckler, Jr., son of the former Supreme Court Justice, was yesterday sworn in as an attorney and counselor at law by the Justices of the Appellate Division. Young Mr. Steckler's admission to the bar adds one more lawyer to one of the largest families of lawyers in this State and city. His father, Alfred Steckler, senior member of the law firm of Alfred & Charles Steckler, had twelve years of continuous service as a Justice of the District and Municipal Courts, and was later called to serve more than a year on the Supreme Court Bench. Charles Steckler, an uncle, is a member of the New Court House Commission and a prominent trial lawyer. Another uncle is Louis Steckler, who was for some time Corporation Attorney of the city, and who is now the legal representative in this country of the Italian Government.

Alfred Steckler, Jr., will not associate himself with either his father or his uncles in the practice of the law, but has become associated with James L. Pinks, his college chum, at 149 Broadway.

NEW YORK WOMEN WIN.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—Eight contestants remained unbeaten in the singles in the Women's National championship lawn tennis tournament as the result of the second day's play at the Philadelphia Cricket Club. Of these, New York had three, Massachusetts two, New Jersey, Virginia, and California one each. Mrs. Joseph Warren of Boston was the only one to experience serious difficulty, she defeating Mrs. Gilbert Harvey of Buffalo, N. Y., only after the latter had taken the second set of a hard three-set contest.

Miss Eleonora Sears of Boston and Miss Florence Sutton of Los Angeles, Cal., who are fancied as finalists, won their matches easily.

In the doubles Miss Sutton and Miss Dorothy Green of Philadelphia defeated in straight sets Miss Edith Bunce and Miss Beatrice Fleming, both of New York.

Miss Hotchkiss, the National champion, is paired with Miss Sears, and this combination won easily from Miss Disston and Miss Alexander of Philadelphia. The summary:

Singles.—Third Round—Miss Eleonora Sears, Boston, beat Miss E. Ostheimer, Philadelphia, 6—2, 6—1; Mrs. Joseph Warren, Boston, beat Miss Gilbert Harvey, Buffalo, 6—3, 4—6, 6—0; Miss Edith Handy, Staten Island, beat Miss Helen Alexander, Philadelphia, 6—4, 6—4; Miss Florence Sutton, Los Angeles, beat Miss Lily Cheston, Philadelphia, 6—0, 6—4; Miss Edna Widey, Plainfield, N. J., beat Miss Agnes Hutchinson, Philadelphia, 6—3, 6—3; Miss Adelaide Browning, New York, beat Miss Emily Bradbury, Philadelphia, 6—0, 6—3; Miss Marie Wagner, New York, beat Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, Trenton, 6—2, 6—1; Mrs. Wellington Hardy, Norfolk, beat Miss Clara T. Chase, Philadelphia, 11—9, 6—1.

Doubles.—First Round—Miss Sutton and Miss Dorothy Green beat Miss Bunce and Miss Fleming, 6—0, 6—2; Miss Sears and Miss Hitchkiss beat Miss Dorothy Disston and Miss Alexander, 6—1, 6—2.

WRIGHTS' NEW BIPLANE.

Special to The New York Times.

BELMONT PARK, L. I., June 13.—Edward F. Walsh, one of the instructors for the Wright brothers, arrived at Belmont Park here to-day and tried out the school biplane with which the Wrights will establish their institution of aircraft instruction. With a mechanician Walsh flew between showers and pronounced the machine in good condition to begin schooling with to-morrow. There are five pupils.

Tod C. Schriver in his new Spaulding biplane took a half-hour ride late in the afternoon at Mineola. He left his hangar and flew in the favorite direction, due east, went to Westbury, circled to East Williston, Garden City, and Hempstead, and return. Capt. Thomas Baldwin also went out, staying in the air about twenty-five minutes, and not going out of his usual bailiwick.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A SPECIAL TERM OF THE SUPREME Court of the State of New York held at the County Court House in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 31st day of May, 1911.—Present: Hon. Leonard A. Giegerich, Justice.—In the matter of the application of THE BROUS-NIVEN COMPANY for authority to change its name to THE NIVEN COMPANY.

Upon reading and filing the petition of The Brous-Niven Company, a domestic stock corporation, duly verified by Daniel McM. Niven, its President, the 27th day of April, 1911, wherein said petitioner prays for an order authorizing it to assume another corporate name, to wit, the name The Niven Company, and upon filing the certificate of the Secretary of State annexed thereto, certifying that the name which such corporation proposes to assume is not the name of any other domestic corporation, or a name which he deems so nearly resembling it, as to be calculated to deceive, upon filing proof that a copy of the petition herein and of the notice of motion were duly filed with the Secretary of State, and upon filing due proofs by affidavit showing that notice of the presentation of the said petition has been duly published once in each week for three successive weeks in New York Law Journal and The New York Times, two daily newspapers published daily in the City and County of New York, in which county such corporation is located and has its business office, and the court being satisfied by the said certificate, and by the affidavits and certificates presented therewith, that the petition is true, and that there is no reasonable objection to the change of name proposed, and that the petition has been duly authorized, and that notice of the presentation of the petition, as required by law, has been made;

Now, on motion of Lloyd & Maddox, Esqs., attorneys for the said petitioner, no one opposing, it is Ordered that said petition be and the same hereby is granted, and that the petitioner herein, The Brous-Niven Company, be and it hereby is authorized to assume another corporate name, to wit, the name The Niven Company, on and after the 10th day of July, 1911, and it is further ordered and directed that this order be entered, and the papers on which it is granted be filed within ten days from the date hereof in the office of the Clerk of New York County, the county in which the certificate of incorporation of said corporation is filed, and that a certified copy of this order, within ten days after the entry thereof, be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and further, that a copy of this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in The New York Law Journal and The New York Times, newspapers published daily in the County of New York, beginning within ten days after the entry hereof. Exclusion Makes Protection

¶ The girl seeking work may see many advertisements that look attractive—they would lead to the belief that the laws of business have been overcome and that the comfortable position which takes years of work and striving to attain will be hers right at the start.

¶ But she will not see this kind of advertising in The New York Times, for this newspaper has a rigid rule against doubtful and unreliable advertisements.

¶ When you use an "Effective" advertisement or reply to one, do so with confidence that The New York Times uses every effort to protect and to aid.

INDICT REALTY MEN ON SWINDLE CHARGE

Two Speculators Accused of Obtaining Money Falsely on Investment Schemes.

$160,000 FARMERS' FUND

Complainants Say This Was Fictitious and That It Was Used to Get Various Sums.

Emory M. Rogers and George H. Laporte, real estate dealers, with offices at 200 Broadway, were before Magistrate Harris in the Tombs Court yesterday on a charge of grand larceny made against them by Charles Hedges of 59 West Sixty-eighth Street, who alleges that they swindled him out of $510. They were held in $3,000 bail each for further examination to-day. There are fifteen complaints against them made by persons, who charge that they have been swindled out of sums ranging from $200 to $600.

In an affidavit in the hands of Assistant District Attorney Du Vivier, Hedges charges that in October, 1910, he became interested with E. G. Mills of Seattle, Wash., in 3,000 acres of fruit land in Banton and Yakima Counties, Washington, and that $300,000 was needed to carry out the enterprise, but that Mills would only sell $100,000 worth of stock. After making several attempts to sell the stock, Hedges read the following advertisement in a New York newspaper, and answered it:

> A paying enterprise wanted by a combination of farmers, who subscribed $160,000 to a stock they cannot get. KIRKWOOD.

Hedges went to see Rogers in reply to the advertisement, and there met Laporte. Hedges explained that he wanted $100,000 and showed Rogers and Laporte some papers relating to the fruit lands. Rogers assured Hedges that he had the $160,000 and that he was the trustee of the John Burgh estate, which he said was valuable.

Laporte talked with the complainant several times and told him that the farmers wanted a twenty-five-year term of investment, and that the money had been raised in St. Lawrence County, New York. Later Laporte introduced a man named W. W. Grant, who said he was from St. Lawrence County and that before he was willing to let the farmers invest their money it would be necessary for one of them to go to Washington and see the property. This was agreed upon, and Rogers said $510 would be required to pay the expenses of the man who was to investigate the land.

Hedges agreed to furnish this money, and Rogers said he would contribute $150. A man named Adolph Stack was sent to Washington. He reported regularly and sent Hedges a message in which he said he had reported favorably to Rogers. Rogers denied that he had received any such report from Stack, and on March 20 Hedges and the defendants had a conference over the $100,000. Rogers kept putting Hedges off. He said that the $160,000 was deposited in the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and that the John Burgh estate also did business there, according to Hedges.

On making inquiry at the bank Hedges was told that Rogers had no account there, and that the John Burgh estate was unknown to them. Hedges then sent a detective to Baltimore to see Stack, who insisted that he had sent a report to Rogers, and on May 1 he went with Hedges to Rogers's office, where he delivered a signed copy of the report. It is alleged that Rogers then admitted that he did not have the $160,000.

Hedges then put another advertisement in the same paper in which Rogers's had appeared which said:

> Parties who answered the advertisement printed in this paper on Dec. 22, signed "Kirkwood," representing that a combination of farmers had subscribed $160,000 to invest, and who received replies from 181 Broadway, will learn something interesting regarding the scheme by communicating with Yakima.

The next day Hedges received fifteen replies to his advertisement from persons who alleged that Rogers had communicated with them after they had answered the advertisement. Hedges then went to the District Attorney with his complaint, and Rogers and Laporte were indicted for grand larceny. Several of the men who answered the advertisement of Rogers also complained to the District Attorney, and Assistant District Attorney Du Vivier said last night that out of six of the witnesses he had examined five said they had been swindled out of sums ranging from $200 to $600.

One of the witnesses said that Rogers had attempted to get him to give him $12,000 with which to pay a lawyer's fee, but that he refused.

When arrested in his office Rogers said he was a real estate speculator and that he lived at 358 West Fifty-seventh Street. Laporte said his business was the same, but declined to give any address.

WIRELESS RECEIVERSHIP ROW

Arguing that most of the property of the United Wireless Telegraph Company, all of whose high officials except S. S. Bogart are in prison, convicted of violating the postal laws, is in New York State, Roger Foster, an attorney, asked Supreme Court Justice Cohalan yesterday to appoint a receiver for the company, a receiver for which has already been appointed by the courts of Maine.

The motion for the appointment of a New York receiver caused such a hot controversy over questions of fact that Justice Cohalan adjourned the argument until to-day.

Finds a Watch in the Street.

S. Forry Laucks of York, Penn., who is a guest at the St. Regis, found a valuable gold watch in Fifty-fifth Street, between Madison and Fifth Avenues, late on Monday night. Inside the case were the initials "R. McK.," with the name of the maker. He decided to take it to the jeweler's yesterday, and was about to start out when he found an advertisement calling for it by Mrs. McKenna, who is staying at the Hotel Gotham. He restored the watch to her.

POLICE STATION HER HOTEL.

Mrs. Schneider, Whose Trunk Was Stolen at Chicago, Sought Safety There.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Mrs. Katherine Schneider, a wealthy widow of Rochester, N. Y., who is in Chicago on her way to visit her daughter in California, after having her trunk check stolen from her suitcase, and later tracing the trunk to the basement of the Young Woman's Christian Association, decided that a police station was the safest place in Chicago for her. She spent to-night at the Harrison Street Station Annex.

When she came to Chicago on Monday she was directed to the Y. W. C. A. as a good place in which to stay. All the rooms at the association building were full, and she was directed to a rooming house at 1,463 Michigan Avenue, owned by Mme. Tibbets.

Mrs. Schneider left her trunk at the La Salle Street Station, as she intended to stay in town only a day or two. When she wished to resume her trip and went to the station to get her trunk she found that the baggage check had been stolen from her suitcase and that the trunk had been called for. She at once appealed to the police, who succeeded in tracing the missing baggage to the basement of the Y. W. C. A. rooming house. As the check was taken from Mrs. Schneider's suitcase while she was at Mme. Tibbett's rooming house, the latter was placed under arrest on a charge of larceny.

Mrs. Schneider was afraid to go to a hotel or rooming house, because she had several thousand dollars' worth of negotiable paper with her.

CONFESSES KILLING SMITH.

Negro Arrested in East Moriches Maintains It Was an Accident.

EAST MORICHES, L. I., June 13.—Justice of the Peace Howell, District Attorney Furman, and Coroner Savage put John Armstead, the negro, through the third degree in his cell to-night and they finally induced him to confess that he shot and killed George Smith, the sixteen-year-old boy, last Sunday night, though he maintained it was an accident. At first the negro denied all knowledge of the shooting, except that he admitted that he owned the revolver which was found alongside the boy's body.

His story is that he and the boy, both of whom were employed by De Forrest Hulse, a farmer, were on the rear porch on Sunday night, seeking shelter from the rain, when the negro took out his revolver and examined it. He said it looked to him to be empty and he carelessly snapped it a couple of times and then to his amazement the weapon was discharged, and the boy fell. The bullet, it was found by the autopsy, entered Smith's left side and took a slight downward course, reaching the heart.

When he found he had killed the boy, the negro said, he became frightened and was afraid to tell how it happened.

WOMAN HEARD SUICIDE'S SHOT

Christian W. Joerns Killed Himself in the Park as She Passed.

Mrs. Marian Dobbins of 477 Central Park West ran along the West Drive of Central Park yesterday afternoon until she came on Policeman Kane, to whom she cried that a man had shot himself near 106th Street in the West Drive. He had been right behind her, said Mrs. Dobbins, and she heard the shot and saw the man fall into the bushes.

Kane found a man wearing a G. A. R. button in his coat. He was dead and a revolver lay beside him. He had a wound in the right temple.

At the morgue he was identified as Christian W. Joerns of 97 High Street, Corona, L. I., by George Larch of 8 Dewit Street, Corona. He was 71 years old, and was employed at an uptown branch of the Home Insurance Company.

CARNEGIE TRUST CLAIM PAID.

Oriental Bank Gets Court Order for a Settlement.

The Oriental Bank obtained permission yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Cohalan to settle a $3,441 claim of the Carnegie Trust Company against it for $2,014. The Carnegie Trust Company acted as receiver for the Oriental when the bank suspended payment. A fight over the fees and disbursements of the Carnegie Trust Company continued until it also failed. The State Banking Department continued the suit, which was pending in the Court of Appeals.

Justice Cohalan entered a memorandum in which he said: "In view of the large sum offered in compromise and the questions of law involved, the application is granted."

The State Banking Department concurred in the settlement.

325-POUND POLICEMAN QUITS.

A great weight is about to be taken off the police force in Brooklyn. Patrolman Frank J. Link of the Ralph Avenue Precinct, in that borough, who is built somewhat on the lines of a railroad round house, has put in an application for retirement. He weighs 325 pounds, and is said to be one of the heaviest policemen in the department.

Link has been on the force twenty-three years. Some time ago he disputed the right of way with a Brooklyn trolly car and his left leg was injured. It has troubled him ever since. There is no record of what happened to the trolley car in the collision with Link.

ACCUSED OF KILLING FIVE-YEAR-OLD GIRL

NEIGHBORS TALK OF CRIME

Accused of having murdered 5-year-old Sadie Tishkowitz sixteen months ago, Zelig Odesky, a barber of 29 Jones Street, Newark, is under arrest there. According to the police, Odesky was betrayed by his jealous wife after they had quarreled. The little girl was strangled to death, with a penny in her hand, in an old barn in the rear of her home at 27 Jones Street.

Odesky and his wife were arrested late Monday night. Mrs. Odesky was released yesterday morning, after she denied that she had made a statement credited to her, and which gave the police the clue.

Stefan Myszczyczyn, a tailor, who lived in the rear of 29 Jones Street, was charged with the crime at the time it was committed, and was released for lack of evidence. While he was in jail Mrs. Odesky gave testimony against him.

About a week ago Capt. Oscar Vogel got a new "tip," and detailed Patrolman Sebold on the case. Sebold reported to Capt. Vogel the information that he had obtained, and the services of Detective Slutzky were enlisted.

The witnesses that Sebold and Slutzky have against the prisoner are Mrs. Smuleb Hammer and her daughter, who live in the same house with Odesky. They told Capt. Vogel that they heard Mrs. Odesky accuse her husband of the little girl's murder while in a jealous rage.

On June 5 Sergt. Jacob Suchard of the Fourth Precinct received a telephone message from a woman, who refused to give her name, and who declared that the police should investigate stories that were being told in Jones Street.

Sebold spent four days in hearing stories which concerned the child and Odesky. Sebold went from one neighbor to another, learning what was only hearsay, until he found Mrs. Hammer and her daughter.

As told by the Newark police, Mrs. Hammer's narrative is to the effect that while she and her daughter were sitting on the front stoop on the Sunday night in question, Odesky returned home after being away all day. Mrs. Odesky was jealous because her husband had massaged the faces of two girls in his barber's shop.

While Odesky stood talking to Mrs. Hammer and her daughter on the stoop, Mrs. Hammer told the police, Mrs. Odesky came downstairs and openly denounced her husband "as the murderer of little Sadie," and slapped him in the face as she said:

"Come in here, you loafer, you murderer! I saved you once when I got up at 3 o'clock in the morning to wash your blood-stained clothes, and I lied to the police to save you from the electric chair, when you murdered little Sadie, who is now under earth, and this is the thanks I get. I'll hand you up one of these days."

Mrs. Hammer told the police that when Odesky was accused by his wife he became pale and agitated and tried to calm his wife, begging her to go into the house and be quiet. After this scene the husband and wife went into the house.

SAY WOMAN SET A BOMB.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, June 13.—The police believe that a jealous woman set off a dynamite bomb, which blew away one-half of the boarding house of Marie Carelli, at 84 Bronx Street, early to-day for the purpose of killing Marie and several of her boarders. Although every pane of glass in houses for two blocks around was blown out, yet the occupants of the houses escaped with only slight bruises.

Mrs. Carelli was thrown from her bed through a hole in the floor into the cellar, while Ruffalo Bove was tossed through a window into the rear yard. Three men, who were sleeping on the second floor were hurtled toward the ceiling. Marie suffered from a sprained foot and bruises on her right side. The police learned that an Italian woman was jealous of Marie, and it is thought that she tried to get revenge.

The entire rear of the building was blown to bits. The bed of Mrs. Carelli was thrown into the yard, while a 100-pound stone from the foundation was sent through a cellar door and was found 200 feet away in the hen house of Edward Moran.

The house was owned by the New York Central Railroad Company and is a short distance from the Harlem tracks. Thirty telegraph wires along the railroad were torn from the poles.

Business and Morals

THIS EDITORIAL is not paid for, a fact which we announce in advance in order to save to our readers a few sarcastic post-cards and a number of two-cent stamps. It is written because one good example is worth more than a hundred complaints. The Francis H. Leggett wholesale grocery firm is among those manufacturers and sellers of food products who believe in keeping ahead of the law, not behind it, and it expresses its views in a most interesting series of announcements. It has appealed to the club women of the country to use their power (which in a matter of this kind is vast) toward strengthening the upward movement in food manufacture. It has printed articles by Dr. WILEY and other well-known men. "The Premier Enquirer," as the Leggett monthly publication is called, goes even into such matters as a National Department of Health—indeed, into all aspects of the great central question—and treats them all with searching intelligence and thorough information. It has published, from its own expert, Mr. ALFRED W. McCANN, some very remarkable essays on the reasons for seeking the best quality in food. For instance, take this answer to the woman who says prunes at ten cents a pound are good enough for her, so why pay fifteen?

She does not stop to think that in the ten-cent prune she is getting one hundred prunes to the pound, whereas in the fifteen-cent prune she is getting about forty-five prunes to the pound. For ten cents she gets one hundred wooden pits and one hundred skins. For fifteen cents she gets forty-five wooden pits only and but forty-five skins, and if she goes to the trouble to make the investigation for herself, she will find that in purchasing the better prune at fifteen cents she will have about as much actual fruit as she would get in two pounds of the ten-cent article.

Of course, as the public becomes educated, the task of the highest grade merchant becomes easier. "The big successes of the future," says one of the Leggett advertisements, "in the grocery business, will be under the banners of pure food." The firm publishes a piece of fiction in which it makes a son say to his father: "I'd rather be a good grocer than president of the Union Pacific."

MRS. GERICKE'S CASE UPHELD

Court Won't Recognize the Statement of the Convict Albrecht.

Supreme Court Justice Page refused to grant a motion yesterday for a new trial in the suit of Emma Gericke against Henry Bischoff and William G. Becker. Mrs. Gericke, who is the widow of a jeweler, sued to recover $778 on a draft made to her and cashed by Robert Albrecht, who is serving a term in Sing Sing Prison on a plea of guilty to grand larceny. He was indicted for forgery also for signing Mrs. Gericke's name to the check.

Albrecht is seeking a pardon, and an affidavit he made in his own behalf that he was Mrs. Gericke's fiancé and had permission to sign her name was used by Bischoff and Becker in their efforts to obtain a new trial, after a judgment in Mrs. Gericke's favor had been upheld by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals.

Justice Page refers in his opinion to Albrecht as a "convicted felon," and declares that his story in his application for pardon differs so materially from his voluntary confession that he had taken the money and lost it playing cards and drinking as to be worthless.

Express Company Sues Steamship Line

The American Express Company began suit yesterday in the Supreme Court to compel the North German Lloyd to make good $21,800 on three checks issued by Boethaus de Pavlovsky, general agent of the North German Lloyd in Paris, 1909, and cashed by the American Express Company. The North German Lloyd, in its answer, alleges that de Pavlovsky issued the checks without consideration to it and for his own benefit.
